Wife's hunch correct; 'twas hubby who flunked bar exam

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Michael Scott Sorensen-Jolink was told in September that he had passed the Oregon bar exam. So he started looking for a place to hang his attorney's shingle.

His wife, Leslie Sorensen-Jolink, wasn't so happy. She was told she'd flunked the bar test that she took the same time as her husband last summer.

Mrs. Sorensen-Jolink went back to work as an airline stewardess, but she was curious. So she asked the state bar association about two weeks ago to see her paper. She did — and discovered that it wasn't hers.

It was her husband's. It turned out that he was the one who had flunked. Mrs. Sorensen-Jolink had passed.

His membership in the bar association was revoked, and his wife was admitted.

"We've never had this happen before," said state court administrator Loren Hicks. "Somehow the test number assigned to her got onto Mr. Sorensen-Jolink's test paper, and vice-versa."

Quake forecaster arousing wide interest

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Although he claims to have predicted the latest in a series of strong earthquakes around the world, Henry Minturn says he'll stop issuing forecasts through the press and seek a more scientific approach.

The independent geophysicist's predictions, which include a quake he expects to hit Southern California on Dec. 20 if another predicted quake occurs on schedule, began Tuesday to attract scientific interest.

Scientists at the U. S. Geological Survey in Menlo Park said they would like to see Minturn's method, in which he uses phases of the moon and maps of weak areas in the Earth's crust to project where the next great shifting of land masses will be. The state Office of Emergency Services also began inquiries of Minturn, who felt his most recent prediction was fulfilled when a quake registering 7.3 on the Richter scale struck northern Chile and southern Peru on Monday.

Although his forecast of a quake for that day "south of Mexico City" was off by more than 2,000 miles, "it fit the theory exactly," Minturn said.

It was the generality of the predictions that was criticized by Dr. Peter Ward of the U. S. G. S., as well as Minturn's use of a method that has in part "been very unreliable."

Ward said extensive studies of the effect of the moon's gravity in triggering earthquakes have not shown a useful correlation. And Minturn's mention of large areas like Southern California, the Middle East and so forth without exactly locating the predicted quake could lead to an exaggerated impression of his accuracy, he said.

Still, "as far as I'm concerned, we have an open mind," said Ward.

Minturn, of Pueblo, Colo., has been "hiding out," as he says, in a house in suburban Hawthorne between appearances on television to discuss his predictions. He freely admits he's trying to attract money for further research since he is unconnected with any university or institution.

From now on, he said, the forecasts will be distributed only to the world of science. "We've got to approach this from a scientific viewpoint," he said.

Minturn reportedly said on television that the quake he predicts for Southern California on Dec. 20 could be a major one, though Tuesday in a telephone interview he declined to give an estimate of intensity.

That quake will only occur, he said, if a forecast he has issued for a quake Dec. 7 in the Solomon Islands of the South Pacific comes true.

According to his theory, the releases of energy — earthquake— accompanying the constant motion of plate-like land masses of the Earth's crust can be mapped in a way that show a partly predictable pattern.

WAITING FOR NEWS

The father and son of Eugene Rodgers gave each other moral support as they awaited news of his fate outside his home in Montclair late Tuesday morning. Rodgers was accused of slaying his wife earlier in Pomona and barricading himself in his home where he eventually shot himself to death, according to investigators.

Portillo takes over

Echeverria expropriates more land on last day

MEXICO CITY (AP) — President Luis Echeverria today ordered the expropriation of an additional 1.1 million acres of private farm and ranch land on the last day of his six-year term of office, the Agrarian Reform Ministry said.

The expropriation came only hours before Jose Lopez Portillo was to be inaugurated in ceremonies attended by Rosalynn Carter, Henry A. Kissinger and dignitaries from 101 other nations. Echeverria is to pass the presidential sash to his successor at the National Auditorium.

Portillo, a former treasury minister, is believed to be prepared to swing the government away from Echeverria's left-of-center policies.

Nearly 1.5 million acres of land has been taken from private landowners for transfer to peasants in Echeverria's last days in office. The land will be redistributed to about 40,000 peasants.

The Agrarian Reform Ministry did not give the location of all the land expropriated Wednesday but said about 40,000 acres were seized in the northern state of Sinaloa where thousands of peasants had threatened to invade private property if the government did not give them land. Sinaloa, a rich vegetable producing area, is on the Pacific Coast about 300 miles south of Arizona.

The agrarian reform ministry said the rest of the expropriated land was in several states.

About two weeks ago Echeverria expropriated 240,000 acres of ranch and farm land in the northern state of Sonora, ranchers and farmers halted all agricultural work and parked their tractors and other farm equipment on the streets of Ciudad Obregon to protest the takeover.

Businessmen in 41 cities closed their stores and factories in a one-day strike to show sympathy for the plight of the dispossessed landowners.

The inauguration comes at a time of economic hardship for Mexico, which is troubled by a heavy foreign debt, high unemployment, inflation, a weak peso and the flight of capital abroad.

"Jimmy regrets that he cannot be here with me," said Mrs. Carter when she arrived Tuesday night on her first foreign mission for the American president-elect. She said she brought his "warmest regards to President-elect and Mrs. Lopez Portillo and also his commitment to a close relationship and friendship with Mexico."

Secretary of State Kissinger and his wife arrived Monday night. Also scheduled to attend the ceremonies were President Ford's son, Jack, and President Johnson's widow, Lady Bird.

Thousands of heavily armed troops and police patrolled the center of the city following the explosion of six bombs at various points Monday night and early Tuesday. Police declined to suggest who might be to blame, but it was assumed the purpose was to embarrass the government.

The new president was Echeverria's finance minister and was elected as the unopposed candidate of the long-dominant Institutional Revolutionary party (PRI). He has not said what he would do about the economy or a budding land war between landless peasants and landowners, but he promised to spell out his policies in a 90-minute inaugural address to congress.

Businessmen and other conservative interests opposed to policies of Echeverria which they considered socialistic say they believe Lopez Portillo will move government policy to the right. His new cabinet includes several anti-Echeverria men.

U.S. officer club gutted by blast, fire abroad

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP) — An explosion and fire destroyed the Officers Club at Rhein-Main U.S. Air Force Base during the crowded lunch hour today. Three persons were injured, a spokesman said.

"We're investigating the possibility of a bombing," the spokesman said, "but there was no bomb threat beforehand."

The explosion occurred about 1 p.m. in a lounge off the main restaurant where at least 100 military personnel and dependents were eating lunch.

Three persons were hurt by flying debris, and the most serious injury was a broken arm, the spokesman said.

PTA opens hearings on TV violence

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A teenager cried in recalling a television scene of the rape of a mentally retarded girl.

A minister, who saw a program about a sniper at the Rose Bowl, said he feared for real players in this year's game.

And a judge said juvenile offenders don't cry much anymore. He tied their "hardness of heart" to video mayhem.

They were among about 50 witnesses Tuesday at the first of eight hearings planned by the national Parent-Teacher Association (PTA) to back its claim that TV violence begets real violence.

Dissenting was Roy Danish, head of the Television Information Office, an arm of the National Association of Broadcasters.

"We are doing a great deal to remove gratuitous violence," he said. "But it would be wrong to present a picture of a world in which there is no conflict, no aggression."

He said TV is more a reflection than a cause of society's ills, and he made a challenge to the 6.5-million member PTA.

"If you're able to reshape yourselves as an audience and to shape another generation as an audience for other kinds of programming, that programming will be there. Television reflects what you want."

He was challenged by West Virginia teen-ager Kathy Mitchell, who got a standing ovation when she told how she and a sister were watching TV when a plot twist depicted a retarded girl being raped.

Home blazes kill 13—nine children

By The Associated Press

Thirteen persons, including nine children, died early today in two fires which swept homes in New York and Tennessee.

Seven persons died when fire destroyed a 1½-story house in Mentor, Tenn., about 20 miles south of Knoxville.

And five children and their father were killed in a fire at their home in the eastern New York hamlet of Connelly.

Detective Randall Kidd of the Blount County, Tenn., sheriff's department identified the victims of the Mentor fire as Larry E. Meridieth, 29; his wife, Sherry, 26; their children, Wendy, 4, and Joseph, 7; and Meridieth's sister, Phyllis Pitts, 28, and her children, James, 5, and Raymond, 3.

Kidd said the fire apparently began in the living room of their cinder block home while they were sleeping.

Dr. Roy F. White, Blount County coroner, said the victims died of burns and smoke inhalation. He said the bodies were found in separate rooms of the six-room house and, apparently, those on the first floor were trying to escape when they were overcome by smoke.

At Connelly, N.Y., the victims were identified as James Avery, 31; his sons, James, Jr., 12, and Edward, 9; and daughters, Joanne, 11, Thelma, 8, and Julie, 5. Avery's wife, Linda, 25, was treated and released to relatives.

Ulster County, N.Y., sheriff's deputies said the fire apparently broke out on a couch where Avery was sleeping, about 4 a.m. He was trying to drag the couch outside when an explosion occurred, deputies said. The cause of the explosion was not known.

Avery's wife followed him outside the two-story, frame home, deputies said, but he ran back inside for the children and did not return.

Insurance impasse spurs cab pullout in 6 state cities

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Yellow Cab Co. pulled its fleet of more than 2,000 cabs off the streets in six California cities today after failing to renew its insurance coverage.

A last-minute settlement kept taxis rolling in Phoenix, Ariz.

The shutdown began at 12:01 a.m. in San Francisco, Oakland, San Jose, Los Angeles, San Diego and Oceanside.

Blame failing marriage for slaying and suicide

By JACK BURSON
PB Staff Writer

Investigators today blamed a failing marriage for the murder in Pomona Tuesday morning of Mrs. Johnnie Bailey Rodgers and the suicide three hours later of her husband, Eugene.

The woman, 44, was shot to death inside her car in the driveway of her daughter at 1170 S. Gibbs St. She was shot 11 times with a .22-caliber rifle which Rodgers, 48, had altered so that it could fire fully automatically, officers said.

About three hours later, Rodgers used the same weapon to shoot himself in the right temple as he sat inside a bedroom of the couple's home at 9834 Surrey Ave., in Montclair, officers said. His action came despite attempts of relatives and police officers to persuade him to surrender peacefully.

Investigators said Rodgers apparently followed his wife into the driveway of their daughter Paula's home and then opened fire on her as she sat behind the car's steering wheel. Then, they said, he drove home and awaited their arrival.

During the long standoff, one son and a Montclair police captain went inside the house and tried to talk Rodgers out of the place, but failed. They said they left him holding the muzzle of the rifle to his chin.

Later another son called Rodgers on the telephone from a residence next door, but he too said his father refused to leave.

Later, shortly before noon, Rodgers told another Montclair officer by telephone that he would come out, but then changed his mind, the officer said.

"When you hear a shot, you can come and get me," the policeman said Rodgers told him.

Police then heard a shot and found Rodgers sitting on the bedroom floor, his back against a bed and a bullet wound in his head. The rifle lay nearby.

'Pat' Brown predicts 'Jerry' will back Dow Chemical plant

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Former Gov. Edmund "Pat" Brown predicts his son eventually will endorse a huge proposed Dow Chemical Co. plant in the Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta, despite environmentalists' objections.

"He'll be for it, he'll have to be for it," the senior Brown said Tuesday in an interview with the Sacramento Bee.

He said he didn't base his prediction on any conversations with Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.

"He hasn't discussed this with me," the former governor said. "He hasn't told me he's going to. I just think he will."

San Francisco Bay area air pollution officials have blocked Dow's application to build a petrochemical plant in the Suisun Marsh area, northeast of the bay. The company says it eventually wants to build a $500-million industrial complex there.

The plant has become the center of one of the hottest environmental debates in the state.

Dow says it would create 2,000 jobs, and has protested the long approval process. Critics say it would be ruinous to air quality.

If accepted by local antismog officials, the plant still would need approval from several state agencies.

Gov. Brown has stressed a neutral public position on the project, saying only that the permit process should be speeded so Dow could get a decision as soon as possible.

His father, now a Los Angeles lawyer, was a leader in the successful fight against environmentalist-backed Prop. 15, the nuclear initiative on the June 8 ballot, and also fought coastal legislation for a time.

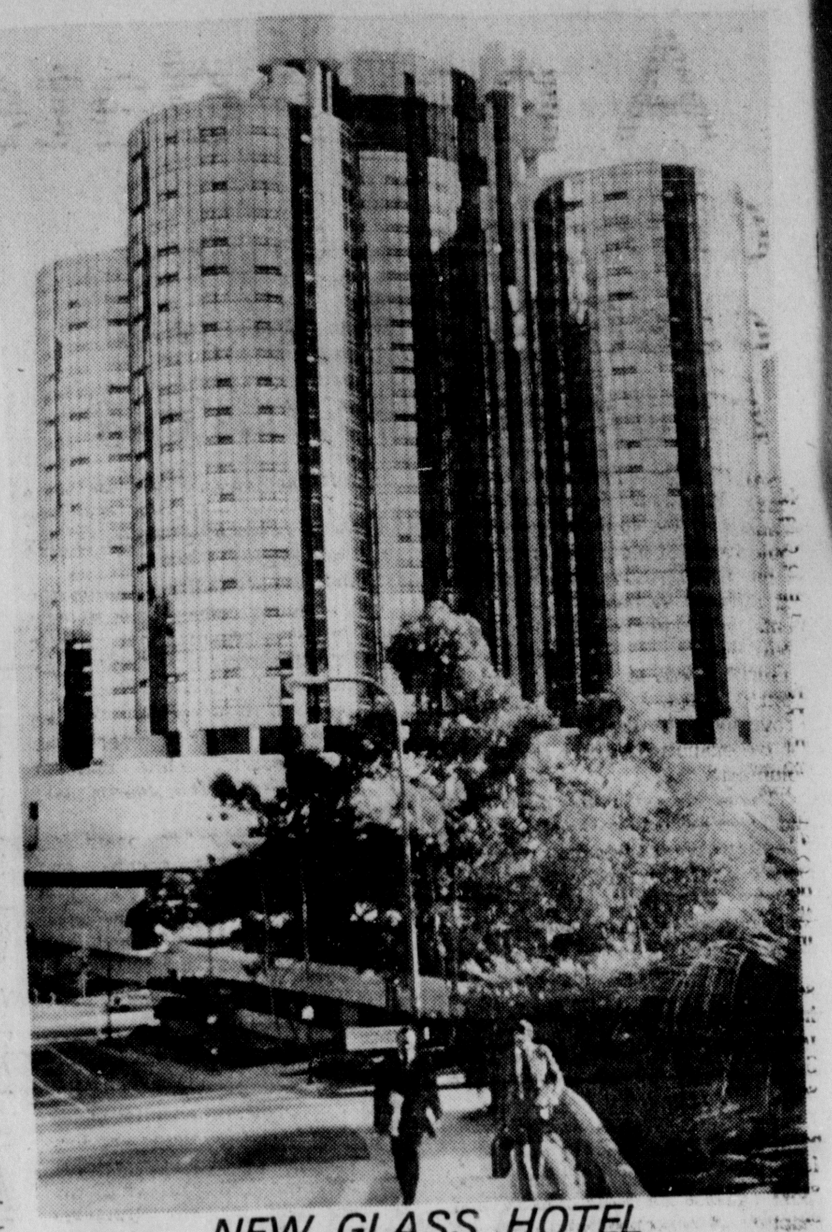

He said he is in "no way" representing Dow in this case, but thinks the plant should be built.

"Unemployment is a very serious pollutant as well," the elder Brown said. "...You have to be tough on these plants, but you also have to take a good hard look before denying business and employment to people.

"I just feel the air standards have not been scientifically arrived at and that no one really knows what pollutes the air and what air is really harmful to human beings. People are concerned with health and certainly they should be, but I really believe they are being overly concerned with the pollution problems of the Dow plant."

The elder Brown also said it's wrong to claim his son is biased against business.

"Jerry's not anti-business," he said. "He realizes business pays taxes and that we live in a free-enterprise society. He realizes he has to be fair."

Student pilot steals plane, goes wild

SEAL BEACH (AP) — A student pilot despondent over a broken engagement stole a twin-engine airplane, buzzed buildings, nearly rammed a police helicopter and threatened to commit suicide before landing at a munitions dump and surrendering, police said.

Policeman James Gross identified the pilot as Theodore Allan LaBelle, 20, of Seal Beach.

LaBelle landed the stolen twin-engine Cessna 310 at the Seal Beach Naval Weapons Station Tuesday after Long Beach Airport controllers, his parents and his girlfriend pleaded with him over a radio.

The hour-long flying incident was precipitated a day earlier when LaBelle broke up with his 24-year-old fiancee, Margerie Sterling, a friend, Barbie Meyer, told reporters.

"He told her that if he was going to commit suicide, she would read about it in the papers," Mrs. Meyer said. "He said he wanted it to be like the Texas tower incident," an apparent reference to the killings by sniper Charles Whitman from the University of Texas bell tower at Austin in 1967.

Authorities said LaBelle, a college student, drove to the Long Beach Airport at about 11 a.m., gaining access because he worked there part-time taking odd jobs and washing planes.

William Peters, manager of the Alaska Transportation Co. area of the airport, said he allowed LaBelle to drive to a parked Cessna 310. "He told me he was going to wash it," Peters said "Then I saw he was taxiing out to runway 25 right and I thought, 'what the hell's going on?' and the next thing I knew he was gone."

Police were alerted and radio contact with the plane was established.

Gross said the airplane headed out to sea for a time, and buzzed buildings in Seal Beach, forcing temporary evacuation of City Hall and police headquarters.

"He flew over the (city hall) tower and right at the treetops," said Seal Beach resident Dave Gorey, 21. "We wondered if he was going to crash. It went on for 15 to 20 minutes."

Seal Beach Police Chief Ed Cibarelli said the plane made "numerous low passes, flying within 25 feet of the ground."

Watson must turn over all office records to supervisors

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A judge has granted county supervisors access within seven days to all records in the office of Assessor Philip Watson, whose practices are the target of an official probe.

Superior Court Judge Norman Dowds ruled in a civil suit filed by the supervisors that Watson must turn over all documents sought in the investigation.

It was held, Dowds said Tuesday, that supervisors are permitted under the state's revenue and taxation code to gain access to confidential assessment records if an official investigation is being conducted.

Dowds' ruling was announced after supervisors adopted a resolution clarifying their investigation of Watson's office, which has focused so far on marine assessment practices.

Allegations have been made that Watson's office showed favoritism in determining the assessed valuation of a yacht belonging to one of his supporters.

Watson walked out of a supervisors' hearing on the matter Monday after he was denied a chance to cross examine a witness. Watson says he also is entitled to a list of any charges against him and should be allowed to prepare a defense.

Dowds made no ruling on whether Watson must testify at the hearings into his assessment practices by the supervisors.

The five-member panel of supervisors have hired Watergate investigator Carmine Bellino and allocated the expenditure of $300,000 for a special audit group to check on Watson's performance.

Alaskan oil: Where will it be shipped?

Zarb's stand against the Japan idea upsets officials

SACRAMENTO (AP) — An oil company executive and California energy officials are upset at Federal Energy Administrator Frank Zarb for opposing short-term exchange of Alaskan oil with Japan.

It was reported here Tuesday that Zarb disagreed with a study released by the FEA that said the swap with Japan would be a good way to handle Alaskan oil in the first months it's available.

In return, Japan would provide the same value in oil it buys from the Arabs.

Oil from Alaska's North Slope is due to start flowing to the Alaskan port of Valdez in mid-1977, well before a West Coast terminal or a pipeline across Canada to Illinois could be built to ship it east.

The chief author of the FEA report, Robert Shinn, now advisor to the California Energy Commission's chairman, reported Zarb's reaction at a commission meeting Tuesday.

He said Zarb opposes the exchange and thinks the oil could be shipped through the Panama Canal to the Gulf Coast.

But Shinn said it would take Standard Oil of Ohio nine months after the oil first arrives at Valdez to come up with enough tankers for the canal shipments. He said tankers are committed elsewhere or need expensive modifications.

John Hopkins, a Union Oil vice president for refining and marketing, said he thought Zarb's position was part of a strategy to get Standard Oil to commit itself to a pipeline or a West Coast terminal.

If he were Zarb, Hopkins said, "I would take that position (against an exchange) and hold it until something is done to ensure a pipeline."

But Hopkins said he favored both short-term and long-term exchange of Alaskan oil with Japan. And two California officials, both appointees of Gov. Edmund Brown Jr., said the federal government should consider a long-term exchange.

Energy Commission Chairman Richard Maullin and Air Resources Board Chairman Tom Quinn said in a letter to Zarb:

"We do not understand why you have not fully examined the possibility of long-term exchanges of Alaskan oil with the Japanese, since, as the study points out 'exchange agreements would not affect the U.S. entitlement under the Emergency Energy Program of the International Energy Agency' if there was another Arab oil embargo."

A Standard spokesman, Robert Schaadt, has said he thinks the American public would not accept a long-term exchange with Japan, but Standard hopes the federal government would favor a short-term arrangement once the firm commits itself to a West Coast terminal.

Quinn and Maullin said they were pleased that the FEA draft study preferred an oil exchange or a pipeline to Standard's proposed Long Beach terminal, which they said "could have a great potential impact upon regional air quality."

Long Beach project favored despite what study reports

LONG BEACH (AP) — A majority of witnesses testifying on a proposal to ship Alaskan crude oil to Long Beach Harbor favor the project, despite release of a federal study that says the it would be more expensive and have less chance of survival than two alternatives.

The project's supporters said Tuesday that the jobs and revenue created by the proposed oil tanker terminal would more than offset environmental damages.

Standard Oil of Ohio has proposed shipping 700,000 barrels of crude oil daily from the North Slope of Alaska to Long Beach. Of that total, 200,000 barrels would be refined locally, and the rest would be piped to Midland, Texas, for distribution thoughout the Midwest.

Tuesday's testimony was given at hearings in Long Beach on an environmental impact report on the project relased by the city's harbor department.

The report estimated that the project would create 3,100 jobs, and Long Beach contractor Ted Furlow told the hearing, "Any project of any that adds to the growth of the city — we should support it."

Several other labor officials echoed Furlow's sentiments and urged that the project be approved as soon as possible.

Larry Espinosa of the state Department of Fish and Game said his agency felt Long Beach was the best possible site for the project because of its sheltered harbor and its ability to deal quickly with any oil spills that occurred.

Sohio said it had initially selected Long Beach as the site for the terminal because of the depth of its harbor — 62 feet in the main channel. The only deeper West Coast port is in Spokane, Wash.

However, a study by the Federal Energy administration, released earlier Tuesday, contended that two other plans for delivering the oil to the Midwest were more economical.

The FEA suggested the most economical plan — from the consumer's point of view — would be to exchange the Alaskan oil with Japan. Another option favored by the FEA was a pipeline across Canada and the "norther tier" states to the Midwest.

Charges dropped

SANTA ANA (AP) — Murder and kidnaping charges against two Bellflower men in the murder of a market manager's wife have been dropped on grounds of insufficient evidence.

The ruling was handed down Tuesday by Superior Court Judge H. Warrent Knight during pretrial motions by defense attorneys for William P. Gullett and Ronald L. Ewing, both 27, who were charged in the death of Mrs. Johann Seigman.

However, federal authorities said they intended to arraign the pair "within 24 hours" in U.S. District Court in Los Angeles on charges of illegallly acquiring and possessing firearms.

State briefs

Suspect caught

CONCORD (AP) - The last of four persons suspected in a murder-kidnaping-robbery spree that spanned more than half the state was captured early today as he slept in a trailer park some 12 miles east of Concord, police reported.

Police said William Caldwell, 26, of Concord, was taken into custody at 2:15 a.m. after they received a tip on his location.

A sketchy early report said Caldwell was asleep and that there were weapons in the trailer. The capture was "without incident," the report said.

Two women and a man were captured earlier and are being held by Concord police.

A trial rerun?

OAKLAND (AP) — Wendy Yoshimura's defense strategy at her weapons possession trial will be strikingly similar to one that failed her one-time fugitive companion, Patricia Hearst.

James Larson, in his opening statement to the jury Tuesday, said the 33-year-old defendant will contend that her 3½-year flight in the terrorist underground was fueled by fear of police.

However, Larson said Miss Yoshimura's defense will sharply contrast with Miss Hearst's in one area: she will not name any individuals who helped her elude capture.

Vote probe

LOS ANGELES (AP) — State and local officials say they will investigate Los Angeles County's dropoff in votes cast Nov. 2 for the U.S. Senate race.

California Secretary of State March Fong Eu and Los Angeles County Registrar-Recorder Leonard Panish announced their probe Tuesday, adding that the outcome won't affect the Republican victory by Dr. S.I. Hayakawa over Democratic incumbent John Tunney.

Marines protected

CAMP PENDLETON, Calif. (AP)—The Marine Corps confirms it is providing protective custody to six alleged Ku Klux Klan members in the aftermath of an attack by black Marines on a barracks occupied by white personnel.

Base officials said four white Marines were placed in the brig for their own protection the night of the Nov. 13 attack and two others subsequently joined them.

A Corps spokesman said the men also receive escorts to and from meals.

Maj. Gen. Carl Hoffman, commanding general of the base, has confirmed claims by the KKK in Louisiana that the Marines belong to the white-supremacy group.

It has only been this week that the Corps has been willing to admit the presence of the KKK on the base, which has a population of 40,000 servicemen from around the nation.

Abortions ban

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California will repeal its ban of abortions on Medi-Cal after the 20th week of pregnancy, but state Health Director Jerome Lackner is looking for other curbs on late-term abortions, an aide says.

Lackner may seek a ban on abortions in which a doctor decided the fetus was viable, Dr. Ralph Hornberger, Medi-Cal's chief medical consultant, said Tuesday.

Don Fitzjohn changes plea: now voluntary manslaughter

In a surprise action Tuesday in Pomona Superior Court, Don Merrill Fitzjohn, 30-year-old San Gabriel man convicted earlier this month of second-degree murder in the slayings of his estranged wife and her male companion Feb. 22 in La Verne, pleaded guilty to voluntary manslaughter instead after the original conviction was vacated and set aside.

The action meant that Fitzjohn will not have a sanity hearing as would have been required prior to his being sentenced on the two murder convictions. He had pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity.

In addition, the penalty varies considerably with manslaughter calling for from one to 10 years in prison and second-degree murder calling for from five years to life. Judge Sam Cianchetti scheduled Fitzjohn's probation hearing and sentencing for Dec. 21.

Fitzjohn, originally charged with first-degree murder, was ruled guilty after a lengthy jury trial. But when the time came for the same panel to decide the sanity issue, it could not agree.

That jury, reportedly deadlocked 6 to 6, was dismissed and plans seemed to indicate that another jury would be selected to try the sanity issue a second time. But at the latest hearing, both sides agreed to vacate the conviction and Fitzjohn pleaded guilty to the lesser charge.

The victims, Jeannie Beth Fitzjohn, 20, and Gary Ernest Keltz, 35, were shot to death in their Foothill Boulevard apartment. Each was shot three times in the upper torso. During the trial, defense attorney Eugene Osko of West Covina maintained that Fitzjohn had agreed to take back his wife and that Fitzjohn felt their marital problems had been resolved when he went to the apartment and found that Keltz was living there. That discovery "pushed Don beyond all limits," Osko told the jury.

Thayer receives sentence in death of La Puente man

Convicted murderer Roger Eugene Thayer, 37, of Alhambra has been ordered to state prison for the Aug. 13 slaying of a La Puente man on a dirt road east of Ontario International Airport.

Thayer was found guilty of murder in the shooting death of George Michael Chavez, 23, by a West Valley Superior Court jury on Nov. 8. He was returned to the courtroom of Judge Clifton L. Allen Monday for sentencing after spending less than a month in the California Institution for Men diagnostic center.

The jury found it true that Thayer took Chavez to a dirt road off of Milliken Avenue south of the San Bernardino Freeway and shot him once in the head with possibly a 9 m.m. automatic gun.

When Chavez's naked body was found by police, written on it was "A disgrace to his race."

Thayer told several witnesses that he had killed a "Mexican in the desert." One of the witnesses appeared in court and gave details of Thayer's admissions.

Thayer faces a life term in prison for the murder conviction. This may be amended next year when the new determinant sentencing rule goes into effect.

A new date with the firing squad?

Gilmore gets his death wish from board of pardons

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Gary Mark Gilmore, his death wish granted by the state pardons board, could face a firing squad within days of his 36th birthday Saturday, barring appeals by death penalty opponents who ignored his demand to "butt out."

Gilmore was to appear before 4th District Judge J. Robert Bullock in Provo today to have a new date set for the execution by five anonymous volunteers.

"Thank you, sir," the handcuffed and shackled prisoner whispered on Tuesday after board chairman George Latimer announced a 2 to 1 decision affirming a jury's order that Gilmore be put to death for killing a motel clerk during a robbery.

"I have simply accepted the sentence that was given to me," he had told the board during a locally televised public hearing at the Utah State Prison. "I've accepted sentences all my life."

Earlier, Gilmore, appearing healthy and alert despite an 11-day fast, had ridiculed witnesses who spoke against the death penalty, and snapped at reporters who crowded into the tiny hearing room.

State officials said the execution — which would be the first in the United States since June 2, 1967 — must come by Monday to avoid conflict with a state law. That law requires that death sentences be carried out 60 days after initial sentencing, which in Gilmore's case was on Oct. 7.

He chose the firing squad over hanging, and was to have been executed on Nov. 15. But retiring Gov. Calvin L. Rampton issued an unwanted stay until the pardons board reviewed the case. Gilmore labeled Rampton a "moral coward" for that delay.

After the hearing — which Gilmore contemptuously described as "much ado about nothing" — several individuals and groups said they planned appeals that could delay the execution.

Tom Jones, an attorney whom Gilmore fired last week, filed notice of appeal to the Utah Supreme Court, which turned down a previous appeal by two other court-appointed attorneys.

Lawyers for the state chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) and lawyers for other Death Row inmates indicated they too would go to court in efforts to stay the execution.

The National Coalition Against the Death Penalty, consisting of 40 legal and religious organizations, said in New York it was "horrified" at the pardons board action.

"I want all these people ... to just butt out," Gilmore, wearing a maximum-security white uniform and surrounded by five guards, said at the hearing.

"This is my life and my death. It's been sanctioned by the courts ... and I accept that."

Gilmore, on a hunger strike since Nov. 19, was noticeably thinner than when he appeared before the state Supreme Court on Nov. 10 to plead for a speedy execution.

He has refused to eat until he is allowed to talk with his girl friend, Nicole Barrett, 20, who was admitted to a state mental hospital at her mother's request following an overdose of drugs. She and Gilmore each took sleeping pills in what authorities said was an apparent suicide pact.

Chairman Latimer, a civilian defense lawyer for former Army Lt. William Calley in the My Lai massacre case, and businessman Thomas Harrison voted not to commute Gilmore's death sentence. Harriett Marcus, a child development psychologist, dissented, saying she wanted the state Supreme Court to decide the law's constitutionality.

Latimer, a former Utah Supreme Court justice, said he and Harrison believed that the law was constitutional and that the trial court had followed it meticulously.

"No factual issues have been presented to the board which shows any reason for the board to disagree with the sentence as imposed by the District Court," Latimer said.

Gilmore's tone was serious when he told the board, "I seek nothing from you. I don't desire anything and I certainly don't deserve anything."

"You got all your marbles?" he asked one witness speaking against the execution. Before the man could reply, Gilmore added, "You appear to be about a quart low, to me."

Asked by a reporter to speak up, Gilmore snapped, "Clean out your ears."

...And yet another killer asks to die

WASHINGTON (AP) — As Gary Mark Gilmore moved another step closer toward his goal of dying before a Utah firing squad, a convicted Texas murderer was asking the U.S. Supreme Court to let him die in the electric chair.

If either man's wish is granted, he is likely to become the first American criminal executed since 1967.

Four months after the Supreme Court decided the death penalty can be valid, condemned Texas murderer Robert Excell White asked the Supreme Court on Tuesday to let him die.

The high court's landmark ruling last July set the stage for resumption of prison executions in at least three states, Florida, Georgia and Texas. The state courts of Utah have decided that Utah's death penalty law is in line with those other states.

White, who for two years has languished in a Texas prison death row cell, has told the court he is "mentally prepared" to die in the electric chair De . 10.

Gilmore gained permission from state officials Tuesday to be executed without further delay. The next step is for Gilmore's trial judge to set a new execution date. Attorneys opposed to the death penalty are expected to attempt to postpone his execution.

J.E. Abernathy, a court-appointed attorney for White, asked Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr. Tuesday to delay White's execution pending appeal.

Powell referred the request for consideration by all nine justices.

They must also consider a Nov. 23 letter sent by White telling the court that Abernathy "is acting against my express instructions and desire.

"I am mentally prepared to accept the judgment of sentence imposed upon me. Any delay now will only inflict needless mental hardship on me."

When his execution date was set earlier this month, White told a Texas judge, "If any man deserves to die, I do for the crimes I have committed." He asked to be executed at the earliest possible date.

White, a 30-year-old drifter from Waco, Tex., was convicted of first degree murder in connection with a 1974 holdup of a rural grocery store in North Texas. Three persons, a 73-year-old proprietor and two 18-year-old customers, were shot to death during the robbery.

Two other men also were charged with murder in the case. James Livingston, convicted with White and also sentenced to die Dec. 10, asked Powell in a separate request to delay his execution so he could formally appeal. That request also was referred to the full court.

His brother, Gary Dale Livingston, pleaded guilty to the charges and was sentenced to life in prison.

25 crewmen safe in ship sinking

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Fifteen crewmen were rescued from a Liberian cargo ship that sank today off the coast of Tampico, Mexico, the Coast Guard said. Another 10 crewmen were reported safe and awaiting rescue in a lifeboat.

'If it works, you're a hero; if not, you're dead'

Reporter talks robbers into surrendering

CHICAGO (AP) — If he had it to do again, "I think I'd just stay at home," says a television reporter who helped convince two gunmen to surrender after holding three women hostage for more than four hours.

The reporter, Russ Ewing of NBC-owned WMAQ-TV, was summoned at the request of the gunmen to negotiate release of hostages taken during a robbery attempt Tuesday at a South Side currency exchange.

The three women were unharmed.

"When you do something like that and it works, you're a hero," Ewing said later. "When it doesn't, you're dead."

He added: "I don't think I get paid that much" to risk his life.

Authorities said the gunmen, both from Chicago, were treated for gunshot wounds they apparently suffered in crossfire when officers interrupted the planned robbery. They were charged with armed robbery, attempted murder, aggravated battery and unlawful restraint.

Police identified the pair as James Shelton, 41, who was in satisfactory condition with a shoulder wound, and Sidney Carver, 50, who was in stable condition with a gunshot wound in the left buttock.

The nearly $10,000 taken from the exchange was recovered, police said.

Also negotiating with the bandits much of the afternoon was Augustus A. Savage, editor of a South Side community newspaper and a former alderman.

Ewing said he was most afraid when "they (the gunmen) promised to kill them (the hostages) all ... particularly when one gunman said he would kill everybody and then kill himself."

Savage said that the gunmen "seemed uncertain" as to how they would be treated if they surrendered.

Ewing, asked why he and Savage were specified by the gunmen as negotiators, responded, "I have no idea."

However, he added, "They (the gunmen) were afraid and they wanted to get out. They just didn't want to be shot ... I had to convince them the whole city would see what was happening."

The episode began about 1 p.m. when the gunmen barged into the currency exchange, the site of several robberies in recent years.

Police were alerted by a patron who walked in while the stickup was in progress, dashed back out and ran to a telephone.

The gunmen grabbed two women employes and forced their way into a second-floor apartment adjacent to the exchange, where a third woman was taken hostage.

Over the next four hours, three shots were fired from the apartment and heavy-weapons teams joined sharpshooters on nearby rooftops as television broadcast the event live.

New Bible gets the 'begats' out

NEW YORK (AP) — A "Good News Bible" that uses up-to-date language for "thees" and "thous" and "begats" of earlier translations, was in print today.

It's the product of a 15-year translation project by the American Bible Society in an effort "to attract new readers to the Bible."

The first press run totaled one million copies, and the society said 60 per cent of the first edition was sold before publication. The "Good News Bible" comes 10 years after publication of the "Good News New Testament," of which 52 million copies were printed.

"What we tried to do was ask, 'What does this say in Hebrew? If the same writer were here now, how would he say this in our language today?'" said Dr. Dewey Beegle of Washington's Wesley Theological Seminary, a member of the translation team.

The King James Version of the Bible, printed in 1611, was the standard for English-speaking Protestants for more than three centuries. It was generally replaced for scholarly purposes by the Revised Standard Version, published in 1952.

The "Good News Bible" stands somewhere between the more scholarly versions and recently produced paraphrase Bibles, which concentrate more on the gist of a passage than on a literal translation from Greek or Hebrew sources, translators said.

Thus, the well-known opening passage of the 23rd Psalm, in three versions:

KING JAMES — The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want. He maketh me to lie down in green pastures: He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for his name's sake.

REVISED STANDARD — The Lord is my shepherd, I shall not want; He makes me lie down in green pastures. He leads me beside still waters; He restores my soul.

GOOD NEWS — The Lord is my shepherd; I have everything I need. He lets me rest in fields of green grass and leads me beside the quiet of fresh water.

The society said in publishing the "Good News Bible" it had the support "in one way or another" of 98 Protestant denominations.

Threatened pupils flee school bus

Between 30 and 40 children fled their school bus late Tuesday afternoon in Valinda after two teenage boys boarded it and unaccountably threatened them with a large knife, sheriff's deputies said.

The incident occurred as children from De Anza Elementary School were being driven home. They ranged in age from 6 to 9.

The bus driver, who was not identified, stopped the vehicle at Farnell Street and Westcott Avenue shortly after 2:30 p.m. and was outside escorting two students across the street when the youths boarded the bus through the open front door.

Once inside, one pulled the knife and began waving it at the seated children. Many of the youngsters jumped to their feet and fled screaming from the while others remained in their seats, deputies said.

The driver, hearing the commotion, returned as the two teenagers fled through an emergency exit at the rear of the vehicle. He managed to grab one, 16 years old, and hold him for deputies who booked him on an assault charge.

The other escaped.

Four nabbed in theft

A Montclair man and three juveniles were arrested Tuesday night by an Upland police officer staking out $10,000 worth of survey equipment stolen from a survey truck and hidden in the bushes near 16th Street and Campus Avenue in Upland.

Richard Miller Huston, 19, of 9608 Monte Vista Ave., one male juvenile and two female juveniles were arrested by Officer Dan Milakovich and booked in the West End Jail on suspicion of burglary.

The three juveniles will be transferred to Juvenile Hall in San Bernardino for disposition.

Milakovich said he responded to a call from George Mim Mack of Mim Mack Engineering Co., about 5:45 p.m. Tuesday. Mim Mack said he returned to his truck to find the expensive survey equipment missing. Milakovich said he searched the area around the truck and discovered the equipment hidden in some bushes about 100 feet away.

Milakovich, suspecting the burglars would return for the loot, hid the police car and ducked under some bushes to wait for the suspects.

Twenty-three minutes later the suspects arrived.

Threatened with gun

Two men were booked in San Dimas Tuesday in separate incidents involving firearms, sheriff's deputies reported.

At San Dimas Community Hospital late Tuesday afternoon, Sam Dimilrios Tsougas, 45, pulled a pistol from his pants pocket and threatened to kill his insurance man after being informed that his insurance policy failed to cover a substantial portion of his wife's hospital bill, deputies said. Tsougas, of Baldwin Park, surrendered the weapon, a .25-caliber automatic, to a friend, Monrovia police officer Frank Diffley, who gave it to deputies.

Tsougas was booked at the San Dimas station, but was released when it appeared later that no one intended to prosecute him, deputies said.

At about the same time, patrolmen at Frank G. Bonelli Regional Park arrested Robert Leon Portillo, 18, of La Puente, after reportedly seeing a pistol in his fishing tackle box. Also inside, according to the officers, was less than an ounce of marijuana.

Rock throwing probed

Ontario police are questioning 53 high school students who were on a school bus Monday when a rock was thrown at an officer investigating a traffic accident at Rosewood Court.

Officer Joe Hatton reported that as he was writing a report the bus passed by and a rock bounced off the top of his patrol car, barely missing him. He took names of 53 students on the bus to be interviewed by juvenile officers.

Girl, 13, raped

Montclair police are seeking a man with frizzy hair in a ponytail who raped a 13-year-old Montclair girl in an alley behind Canoga Street Monday night.

The victim said she had met a man named "John" at the Bowlium earlier and he walked her to the alley where she was attacked.

The attacker was described as a white, 21, 6 feet tall, and of medium build. He was wearing a grey sweatshirt and brown cord pants. The girl said she bit the man during the attack.

Woman cut in robbery

The owner of a Pomona ceramics shop suffered a cut hand disarming one of two men who robbed her Tuesday afternoon, police reported.

The incident was at the Quinn Studios at 525 W. Holt Ave. The victim, Mary L. Sigala, 25, said the men entered, appeared to shop and then grabbed her. They demanded money after one put a knife to her back.

After scooping up some cash, the men prepared to leave when the victim grabbed the knife from one and threw it across the shop. In doing so, she suffered a cut on the palm of one hand.

The knife-wielder was described as black, six feet tall weighing 125 pounds. He wore a flowered, long-sleeved shirt and brown trousers.

Gunman robs market

A market owner and a potato chip company delivery man were forced to lie on the floor as a man armed with a revolver robbed the 7-Eleven Market at 1550 Murchison St. early Tuesday afternoon in Pomona.

The man, described as a Latin about 30, 5 feet 8, weighing 170 pounds, entered, showed the weapon and demanded money. He got cash from both the owner and the deliveryman.

They said he had a thin mustache and wore a knit cap, long-sleeved shirt and blue jeans.

Policemen cleared in sex scandal

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two boards of rights of the Los Angeles Police have cleared a pair of officers of sexual misconduct in connection with the scandal that reportedly involved some policemen with a girl in an Explorer Scout training program.

John White, 25, was found innocent of the sex charges, but was found guilty of making misleading statements to investigators and was suspended for two days. Frederick Vigil, 28, was found innocent of all charges.

Another officer has already been cleared, several others have been suspended, four still face hearings, one was exonerated and resigned, a police spokesman said.

Shoppers find food prices remain stable

Associated Press

Grocery shoppers managed to break even last month. An Associated Press marketbasket survey shows prices remained stable during November, with increases and decreases generally balancing each other out on a nationwide basis.

The AP drew up a random list of 15 commonly purchased food and non-food items, checked the price at one supermarket in each of 13 cities on March 1, 1973, and has rechecked on or about the start of each succeeding month.

The latest survey showed that the marketbasket total at the checklist store increased in six cities — up an average of 2.3 per cent — and decreased in six — down an average of 2.6 per cent. The total was unchanged in the 13th city, Los Angeles.

On an over-all, nationwide basis, the marketbasket bill at the checklist stores declined one-tenth of a per cent during November.

The picture was not quite so bright as it had been a month earlier. During October, the marketbasket bill declined at the checklist store in 11 cities and increased in only two.

The new findings were encouraging, however, as a sign that inflation at the supermarket is easing. The government has predicted that food prices alone will rise about 3 or 4 per cent this year, less than half the rate of increase last year. The leveling off is due, in part, to a drop in the prices paid to farmers for their products.

The Department of Agriculture said Tuesday that prices farmers get declined 3 per cent from Oct 15 to Nov. 15. It was the fourth straight monthly decline and left farm prices at a level 6 per cent below a year earlier.

Abundant supplies of livestock and grain have helped keep down retail prices at the meat counter. The AP survey found that the price of a pound of chopped chuck was unchanged in most cities. Pork chops and frankfurters each declined at the checklist store in seven cities.

The American Meat Institute reports that supplies of meat and poultry — particularly beef — were 10 per cent higher during the third quarter of 1976 than they were a year earlier. The Consumer Price Index for October 1976 shows that meat prices were about 11 per cent lower than they were a year earlier.

Means of transportation poses problems

Alaskan oil swap could reap millions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Alaskan oil probably can't enter the lower United States through West Coast tanker ports and Alaskan natural gas probably shouldn't either, two federal agencies say.

The Federal Energy Administration, in an 800-page report issued Tuesday, says pipeline systems for transporting Alaskan oil inland from the West Coast cannot be established in time to handle the flow expected by early 1978.

The only apparent alternatives, says the FEA, will be to ship the oil by tanker all the way to the U.S. Gulf or Atlantic coasts or, contrary to U.S. energy independence goals, to Japan in exchange for Middle East or Indonesian oil.

Because of different market prices, such an oil swap could reap the companies producing Alaskan oil an additional $182 million a year in profits, unless the exchange agreements include requirements to pass the savings on to U.S. consumers, says the FEA.

Meanwhile, in a separate study, the staff of the Federal Power Commission reviewed three competing proposals to transport Alaskan natural gas south to the lower states and said the best alternative from an environmental standpoint is a pipeline through Canada.

The FPC staff said such a proposal of Arctic Gas Pipeline Co. would have less environmental risk than a proposal by El Paso Natural Gas Co. to build a gas pipeline parallel to the trans-Alaska oil pipeline to a seaport and then chill the gas into a liquid and ship it out by tanker.

The staff said the Arctic Gas proposal also would have a greater capacity for future expansion than another overland pipeline proposal, the Alcan project suggested by Northwest Pipeline Corp. and two Canadian partners.

The FPC staff report, submitted Nov. 16, did not consider economic and other factors and made no final recommendation. That is expected later this week.

Then it will be up to the FPC itself to decide among the competing projects.

The FPC staff thought its own suggestion of a pipeline through Alaska and across Canada along the Alcan Highway would have the least environmental impact of all — but nobody has offered to build a pipeline on that route.

The staff said it thought the Arctic Gas pipeline proposal would have the least environmental risk of the three applications because it would avoid earthquake zones and eliminate the impacts and hazards of gas liquefying plants and refrigerated tankers and could carry additional gas if more is found in northern Alaska.

The FEA study reviews 10 possible methods of bringing Alaskan oil to the Midwest or East, where it will be needed, instead of the West Coast — where the oil companies once insisted it would be needed but now say it won't.

During the debate several years ago over proposals to build the trans-Alaska pipeline and its tanker link to the West Coast, the Interior Department studied the possibility of an all-pipeline route across Canada to the Midwest instead.

The Interior Department found the trans-Canada route to have lower environmental risks, for reasons similar to the FPC staff's objections now to a pipeline and tanker route for natural gas.

But the oil companies insisted Alaskan oil would be needed on the west coast, where the tankers would unload it.

Economist Charles J. Cicchetti, then with Resources For the Future, a nonprofit study group here, said at the time the firms would find it more profitable to head tankers to Japan and sell the oil there.

That is exactly the conclusion now reached by the Federal Energy Administration, which says the West Coast will not need all of the Alaskan oil at least until 1985.

And pipelines to carry the oil inland probably cannot be built in time to carry off the surplus expected by 1978, the FEA said.

"It now appears certain," the FEA said, that excess Alaskan oil must be delivered by tanker either to Gulf or East Coast ports, or abroad, probably Japan.

"North Slope producers and the State of Alaska might maximize well-head values" — that is, make the most money — "by selling directly to Japan, over the short term, although this would only leave other parts of the U.S. reliant on foreign imports at no savings," said the FEA.

Unless the savings are passed on to U.S. consumers, it estimated, some $182 million a year would be addded to producers' profits.

Badge saves life

GARDEN GROVE (AP) — When 19-year-old David Crawford took the job as a security guard at Palm Harbor General Hospital, he got a badge with the uniform and now he says that badge may have saved his life.

He was shot in the chest during an apparent burglary attempt, but the bullet struck the badge and only dented the security guard, police said.

Crawford says he chased a man lurking in shadows around the hospital Tuesday night, then was knocked down by a bullet.

"It felt as if someone pushed me," he said.

He fired back at his assailant but apparently missed, police said, adding that Crawford probably prevented a burglary because nothing was reported missing from the medical offices.

Snow continues in nation's midsection

By The Associated Press

Snow continued falling today in scattered areas of the nation's midsection while Buffalo, N.Y. dug out from a record one-day, 19-inch snowfall.

New snow was reported in scattered areas across the central Plains, the central Rockies, Iowa and northern Illinois.

Three inches fell at Goodland, Kan., during the six-hour period ending at 1 a.m. EST, two inches at Rapid City, N.D., and Moline, Ill., and one at Lander and Casper, Wyo., and Colorado Springs, Colo.

Portions of the lower Great Lakes also were affected.

There was scattered rain in southern Florida.

Temperatures were about 30 degrees higher today across northern Minnesota, but still around zero and expected to dip even lower Friday night to about 30 below zero.

Skies were generally clear in the rest of the country, except for low cloudiness and fog along the Pacific coast.

Early morning temperatures ranged from 67 at Point Mugu, Calif., to four below zero at International Falls, Minn., Fargo, N.D., and Wausau, Wisc.

More than 100 junior college students from 52 California colleges will visit La Verne College Friday and Saturday for the annual Beta Phi Gamma Convention, junior college journalist fraternity.

Contests, workshops, a faculty seminar, dinner banquet and awards luncheon are activities planned for the convention. Competing sports writers and photographers will attend a volleyball game in the La Verne College Supertents.

William H. Pickering of Jet Propulsion Laborities will be speaker for the feature and editorial writing contests.

Henry Alfaro, KABC-TV news reporter, will address the opening assembly.

Robert Windeler, editor of People Magazine, will be special guest at the dinner banquet held Friday at 6:30 p.m. in the Supertent.

Martin Weinberger, editor and publisher of the Claremont Courier, will lead the faculty seminar.

Contest judges will include reporters, editors and photographers from the Los Angeles Times, San Gabriel Valley Tribune, Progress Bulletin, Arcadia Tribune and Claremont Courier.

Lou Jacobs, photography columnist for the Los Angeles Times' Home Section will lead a Saturday morning workshop in Dailey Theater. Mari K. Quinn, writer and producer of the KTTV 11 o'clock Report will host a workshop immediately following.

Jim Bort Jr., ombudsman for the Fresno Bee, will speak at the Saturday awards banquet at Griswold's Inn in Claremont. Bort is one of the staff members of the Bee who recently served 15 days in jail for refusing to reveal a news source. The luncheon will wind up convention activities.

Arthritis group to use 'family' theme

"Fun for the Family" is the theme for the Thursday meeting of Arthritis Anonymous, a newly formed group which meets at the Pomona Regional Center of the Crippled Children's Society, 480 S. Indian Hill Blvd., Claremont.

Club members and their families will bring favorite Christmas cookies and homemade decorations to share with the group.

Glenn Ginder will present a Christmas story at the 7:30 p. m. program.

Unusual handcraft and gift items will be available for purchase with proceeds to assist hungry people around the world.

Melvin Bowers, psychologist, will discuss communication skills at the January meeting.

The Arthritis Anonymous Club is open to anyone suffering from rheumatoid arthritis and related illnesses. There is no membership fee. All interested persons are invited to the Thursday meeting.

The deadline for filing for the 350 new State Graduate Fellowships is Dec. 13.

Applications must be postmarked by midnight and sent to the Student Aid Commission, 1410 Fifth St., Sacramento, CA 95814.

Financial aid forms must also be postmarked by midnight, Dec. 13, and sent to the College Scholarship Service, P.O. Box 380, Berkeley, 94701.

Graduate fellowships are competitively available only to students pursuing a recognized degree and who will enter their first or second year of graduate or professional school beginnin Sept. 1, 1977.

Applicants must take a test and insure their appropriate test scores be sent to the Graduate Fellowship section of the Student Aid Commission. Test deadlines relate to areas of study and are listed in the application.

They include the dental admissions test, graduate management admissions test, graduate record examination, law school admissions test and the medical college admissions test.

No test scores will be accepted from tests taken after Dec. 11, or scores of previous tests requested after that date. The law school admissions test must be submitted to the Student Aid Commission by the applicant no later than Jan. 28, 1977.

Winners will be selected competitively upon unusual ability, achievement and potential for success. Consideration will be given to students from disadvantaged backgrounds.

Choir presents concert

The Calvary Baptist Church adult choir will present a Bicentennial program Thursday at 7 p.m. at the Hillcrest Homes in La Verne.

The concert will be a presentation of "I Love America." Hillcrest Homes, operated by the Brethren Church, provides homes for 430 residents. It focuses on retired people.

The La Verne church choir members will wear costumes representing the first 200 years of America.

"African Arrows" was a term used in Revolutionary War literature for the ancient technique of setting fire to defended places by the use of flaming arrows. The reason they were called "African" arrows is probably because a West Indian bow, presumably of African origin or design, happened to be available for use at Fort Motte, S.C. on May 12, 1781, when the technique was employed by Frances Marion and "Light-Horse Harry" Lee, The World Almanac recalls.

Man killed in collision

MALIBU (AP) — One man has been killed and two others injured in a traffic accident on the Pacific Coast Highway near here.

The California Highway Patrol said the accident occurred when Ignacio Jimenez, 23, of Malibu tried to make a U-turn on the highway Sunday.

Jimenez was killed and an unidentified rider in his car was injured.

Pitzer College looks for former smokers

Pitzer College is looking for former cigarette smokers who smoked a pack or more a day before voluntarily giving it up three or more years ago.

The reason: Pitzer psychology professors Lewis Ellenhorn and Karin Meiselman are compiling case studies of the personal strategies most likely to result in the successful cessation of smoking.

"We are interested in the self-dialogue that goes on when a person decides to give up smoking," Ellenhorn said. "We'll be interviewing people with an eye to the strategies that seem to work over the long-run."

Ellenhorn said that interviewers will meet with subjects at convenient locations in Claremont, Pasadena and Los Angeles. Persons interested in sharing their stories are invited to contact Lewis Ellenhorn, Box 21, Pitzer College, Claremont, CA, 91711, the telephone number is 626-8511, ext. 3064 or 3061.

La Verne searching for planner

A La Verne resident will be given a chance next month to join City Hall.

Mayor Mike M. Morales announced that the city is looking for applicants who want to serve as planning commissioners.

Candidates will be interviewed next week. The successful applicant will fill the vacancy created by the death of Frank Day a month ago.

Those La Verne residents who are interested in serving are urged to contact City Clerk Ruth Hogan, 593-4571.

Boat owner tax probed

LONG BEACH (AP) — The City Council has ordered a staff investigation to determine if Long Beach boat owners are using out-of-state registrations to escape county marine tax assessments.

The council also asked the city attorney to check penalty provisions for an existing ordinance that requires boat owners using the Long Beach Marina to declare the city as home port for the purpose of tax assessments.

Kaiser Steel faced little pressure—Hahn

'No one really made them do it (correct problems)'

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

A Los Angeles County supervisor contends that the reason the Kaiser Steel plant in Fontana has failed to correct its air pollution problems is because "no one really made them do it even though the law has been on the books for the past 15 years."

Supervisor Kenneth Hahn stopped just short of charging collusion between the steel company and the judicial districts in which the plant is located.

But he did express his disapproval Tuesday at the "little fines of $50 to $100" Kaiser has had to pay in the past for its violations.

"With such laxity," he explained, "I can certainly understand why it was to the advantage of the company to pay those little fines and continue to pollute the air."

He said real pressure was brought against the company only lately when state inspectors found more than 1,400 violations in pollutant emissions at the Fontana plant and the California Air Resources Board threatened to fine the firm up to $15 million for those alleged violations.

Both of those announcements were extensively reported by newspapers.

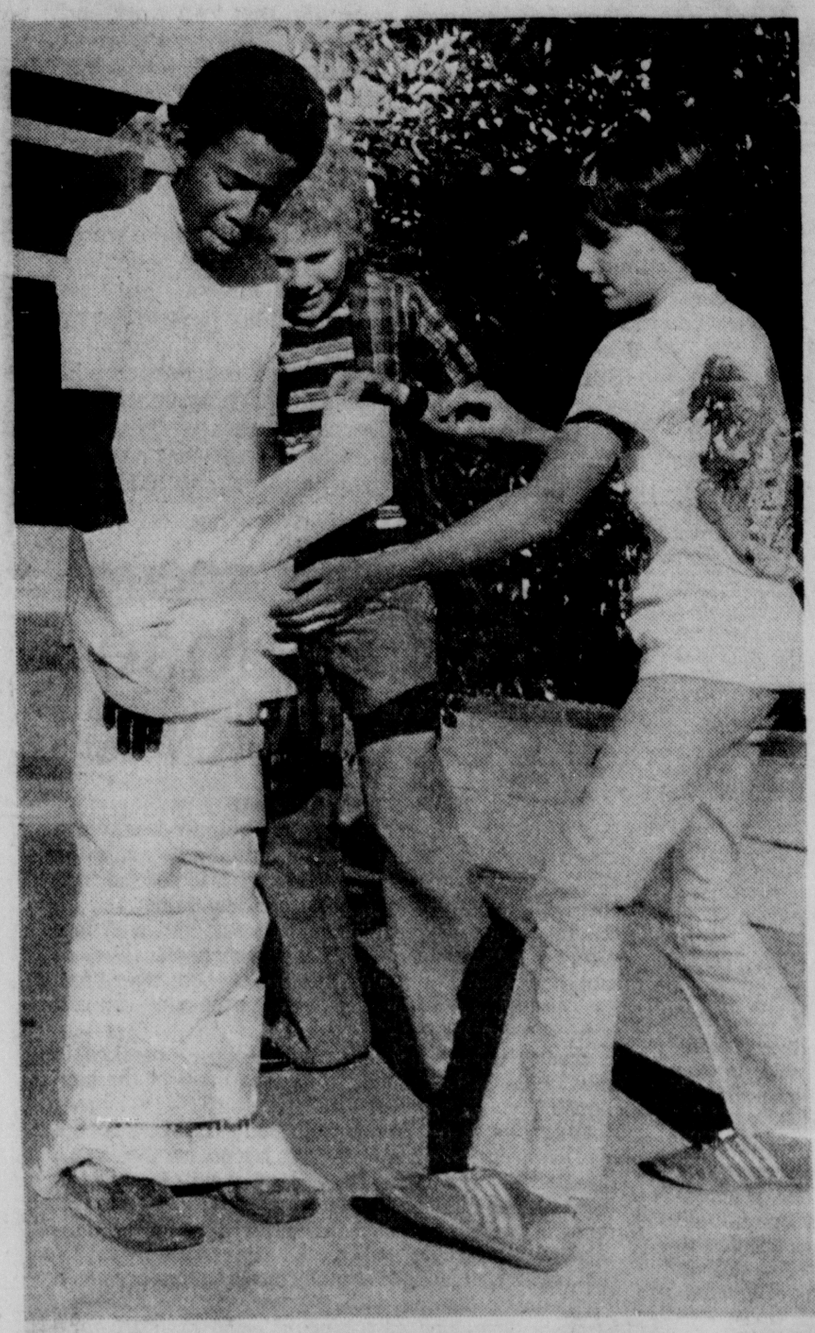

Kaiser contends that it had started an extensive air pollution control program last May that will clean up much of the emission, and insisted that the regulations, as drawn up by CARB, did not apply to the plant because of the nature of the steel business.

Kaiser spokesmen have said that if the company was forced to comply with all of the state requirements, it would have to shut down its operation.

But Hahn disputed that.

He said the board has been most successful in working with similar operations throughout Los Angeles County, and indicated that the main reason Kaiser has escaped restrictions is because its plant is located at Fontana in San Bernardino County.

Kaiser is currently pleading its case before the CARB. Its officials are asking the state to hold off the fines and allow the company to complete its air purification program.

El Roble ready to stage its own fun Olympics

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

Since the world's nations participated in the Olympics this past summer at Montreal, it seemed only appropriate to El Roble students at Claremont that they should have their own fun Olympics this fall.

Home rooms or advisories as they are called at El Roble talked over possible events in which they wanted to compete, and the concensus was 10 events, one each school day at lunch for 10 days.

The 14 seventh-grade advisories and the 14 eighth-grade advisories at El Roble will set the two weeks of competition in motion Thursday with the softball throw.

As many as wish may vie for honors in each event, but no student may enter more than three events.

Other events scheduled include sack races, a spelling bee, dance contest, bubble gum blowing, "T.P." race, balloon popping, tug-of-war, pie eating, and Coke drinking.

Director of activities Jeff Daley said that the Olympics got started in the student council, and spread to the other students for their ideas.

Twenty possible events were thought up, and half were discarded, such as the egg toss, marshmallow stuffing, and the obstacle course.

Daley turned the Olympics over to Charles Sullivan, counselor, who set up the competition schedule and obtained the materials needed.

"It'll be lots of fun," Sullivan commented. "These youngsters enjoy the spirit of competition and these events will help get rid of some excess energy junior highers have."

Sullivan promised that the events would contain some surprises.

One of the more popular events will be the tug-of-war, with eight people on each side, and will probably decide the homeroom class at El Roble with the most pull.

The finals in the contests will be held Dec. 16 and 17 with the winning home room in each grade being honored by the student body.

HOW TO GET WRAPPED

Seventh-grader Aaron Douglas looks helpless as classmates Jim Whitham and Kevin Davis drape him with a roll of toilet tissue as they practice for a "T.P." race, one of 10 events in the Panthers Olympics at El Roble Intermediate School at Claremont. The trio will compete against other home rooms at the school in the fun events starting Thursday.

Supervisors agree to build clubhouse

The Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors has agreed unanimously to build a $350,000 clubhouse at the Mountain Meadows Golf Course in Pomona next year.

Despite token opposition by Richard Carman, a self-appointed watchdog of county spending, the supervisors called for bids to build the clubhouse and set Dec. 28 for opening of those offers.

The project calls for the construction of a golf pro shop and restaurant complex not far from the site of the present temporary quarters from which the course has operated since it was reopened last August.

Money for the project is coming from a surcharge levied for golf course improvement on golfers at all county courses.

Carman had objected to the expenditure on the ground that the money could be used for more important county services.

But when First District Supervisor Peter F. Schabarum pointed out that the surcharge is limited to golf course improvements, the rest of the board gave the clubhouse unanimous approval.

Schabarum said he had tried to have the golf course built by private interests, such as golf pro Billy Caspar, several years ago, but he could not get the necessary number of votes from the board.

He said the course subsequently was rebuilt with county funds. The clubhouse, he added, will be the final touch to the refurbished links.

The county's Parks and Recreation Department expects to award the contract for the clubhouse in January, and completion is projected for May or June.

Diamond Bar residents getting ready for school transfer battle in March

By BOB SWETNAM
PB Staff Writer

It will be quite a while before voters will have to make a decision on the proposed transfer of Diamond Bar schools from the Pomona to the Walnut school district.

But residents in the Diamond Bar community are already gearing up for the battle expected when the issue does come to a vote on next March 8. Both Pomona and Walnut voters then will approve or deny the proposed change.

The political issue involved is different in both school districts.

In the Walnut district, which includes areas in the southern section of Diamond Bar, voters are concerned about probable overcrowding such a transfer would have on the district.

There is speculation among some that allowing north Diamond Bar residents into the Walnut district may lead to double sessions in some schools, particularly at the high school level.

In Pomona, however, the issue revolves around racial imbalances that would probably occur if Diamond Bar was to leave the Pomona district.

While statistical studies of the racial imbalance issue have not always agreed, it appears the removal of Diamond Bar students from the Pomona would have serious ramifications on at least Ganesha High School.

Proponents of the school transfer claim it would have a negligible effect on racial balances in Pomona schools. Opponents, however, believe the transfer violates the spirit, if not the letter, of federal and state laws concerning racial integration of schools.

Carl Winfrey, who heads the education committee of the Diamond Bar Homeowners Association, believes the real reason Diamond Bar residents want to leave the Pomona schools is not because of race but because they want to unify their community's schools.

"We have quite a task ahead," he recently told members of the homeowner group.

"It is our hope that we will win in both of the upcoming elections. However, it isn't going to be easy and we need to begin now to motivate support for the transfer."

Winfrey said the homeowners association has begun to form election committees to work for approval of the transfer. The committees will intensify efforts at seeking up support for the issue in both Pomona and Walnut.

West End 'hottest area' for home construction?

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

New homes continue to pop up all over the West End in an amazing building boom that shows no signs of letting up.

In fact, one building official said the West End is now the "hottest area" for home construction in San Bernardino County.

Figures for the first 10 months of the year show that building permits for more than 4,000 new homes have been issued in Chino, Montclair, Upland, Ontario and unincorporated areas including Alta Loma and Cucamonga.

Chino has been called the fastest-growing city in the county for several years, but Ontario and the Alta Loma-Cucamonga area are not far behind.

Permits for 1,328 homes have been given for the first 10 months in Ontario, as compared to Chino's 1,296. Total building permit valuations for Chino through October stand at $62,178,024; while in Ontario $43,722,155 worth of permits have been issued.

Upland has given permits for 1,069 homes this year, and has recorded total valuations at $27,707,163. The figure for all permits issued includes other types of construction such as commercial and industrial buildings.

Montclair is the only city in the West End where construction has not been booming. Permits for only 11 new homes have been issued through October, and a total of $2,376,797 worth of permits was recorded.

In all West End cities except Montclair, building figures have far surpassed last year's. Chino's $62 million plus valuation figure for 10 months is $25 million higher than the first 10 months of 1975.

According to city and county officials, the Chino-Ontario area is one of the last spots in Southern California where there is still room for growth. Other parts of the valley such as La Verne and Walnut are growing also, but not as fast.

Residents of Orange County and other outlying areas are rushing to San Bernardino County, since it remains the only place where buyers can get a bargain on homes.

Homes costing $45,000 in the West End probably would run around $65,000 to $70,000 in Orange County.

And developers keep building them, so newcomers are not likely to have any problem finding a new house to purchase in the West End.

Local city and county officials may be facing some problems in providing services to the new residents, but so far, they are not worried.

Anti-growth forces have failed to hold down development, so the homes keep popping up. And they probably will until there is no more room to build.

Cleanup begins in the mountains as fire contained

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

Mop-up operations will continue for several days for the forest fire on Mt. Hawkins 15 miles north of San Dimas which was contained at 6 p.m. Tuesday.

Over 15,000 gallons of retardant were dropped by helicopters Monday and Tuesday to control the fire in a rugged, inaccessible area of the San Gabriel Mountains.

The fire, which burned over 286 acres of brush and timber, was definitely started by a smoldering lightning strike, according to the U.S. Forest Service.

While up to 250 firefighters from the U.S. Forest Service, the California Department of Forestry and the Los Angeles County Fire department battled the blaze, only about 150 men remain on the lines today, according to Meredith Howell, fire information officer.

Fire officials credited excellent training of crews for the fact that there were only two minor injuries in spite of the fact that the fire burned at the 8,000-foot elevation in extremely steep and rocky terrain.

The fire broke out Friday and was fanned by high winds over the weekend which made it impossible for helicopters or aerial water tankers to be used in control.

Art talk scheduled Thursday

Roland Reiss, chairman of the art department at Claremont Graduate School, will talk on his own work in Rembrandt Hall, Pomona College, at 1:30 p.m. Thursday.

The talk, sponsored by the Rembrandt Club, will be followed by a tea in Montgomery Art Gallery. The program is free and open to the public.

Reiss has exhibited his works at numerous shows throughout the United States and has received several awards for his drawings and paintings.

Ontario council withdraws business license hike idea

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

The Ontario City Council accepted a motion to withdraw consideration of an ordinance increasing business license fees at this time Tuesday and ordered the formation of a special committe to examine the present business license ordinance.

The council unanimously approved a request from the Ontario Chamber of Commerce that withdrew its proposal for an additional levy on businesses operating within the city limits.

Councilman Robert Abel, who with Councilmember Faye Dastrup at the Nov. 16 session refused to support the ordinance, made the motion for withdrawal. In approving the motion, the council delayed any increase because of other than technical and business operational reasons in the business license fees for 1977.

In order for assessments to be increased for the year beginning Jan. 1,the council would have had to take action by midnight Tuesday.

Approximately 75 business representatives in the audience applauded when the motion was voted upon. Applause broke out again when Mrs. Dastrup directed staff to meet with local business officials to formulate a special study committee to examine and re-evaluate the present ordinance governing license fees.

The present ordinance was adopted in 1959 and has not been updated since that time.

A.C. Gabriel, the city's finance director, reported that as of 4 p.m. Monday about 956 protests against the ordinance had been received. These protests represented $55,792 or 22.84 per cent of the total license revenue. A petition of other protests was expected to be presented to the council during the Tuesday night meeting.

"It is obvious that we have a relatively large number of protests, even though less than 50 per cent," said Councilman Homer Briggs, referring to the percentage required to stop the ordinance's adoption without council action. "At this time it is inappropriate to move forward with this request as presented."

Mrs. Dastrup pointed out that "there are inequities that are too great. I haven't changed my mind from the last meeting."

City Manager Roger Hughbanks also noted the inequities in the present ordinance and asked the council to go a step further in directing "staff to re-examine and re-evaluate the license ordinance and take the inequities out of it. Staff would work with the business community and the chamber."

Mayor Paul Treadway said "A number of points were made by people who were here to protest. It is certainly timely that we look at the entire ordinance. I would also like a report back on the entire municipal code, section by section.

"I don't want to startle you," he added. "I haven't discussed it with you. But the code could be examined, section by section, over a period of years."

Mrs. Dastrup made the motion to establish the study group. Hughbanks noted "We ought to try to get a cross section of businesses in the community. I do have some concerns about getting the committee so large that we accomplish little from the standpoint of time. I like the concept, but I'm not sure how to carry it out."

At this point, Gabriel reminded them that the licenses are recorded according to categories of businesses. He said staff could arrange individual meetings with each category and have each group select a representative to the study committee.

With that, the motion passed unanimously.

Hughbanks estimated that the study committee would be formed and begin operations in about two months.

Laws reach their limit

As we head toward a new four-year term in the presidency and a new Congress, it becomes more clear each day how little the man in the White House and the Congress can do. Regardless of the philosophy of the men in power.

The president can propose. The Congress can vote laws. But recessions run their course. Competition forces prices down or it doesn't. Men and women look to the future with hope, start new businesses, invest or expand — or they don't.

If the president's pronouncements and the lawmakers' edicts suit the mood or the morality of the times, then men and women move slowly and painfully into a new era in race relations. But if the mood of the times is not identical with the new laws, the law fails, as with Prohibition. Men find loopholes, as in the payment of taxes — all quite legally — or in the evasion of the spirit of election laws.

The best a president and a Congress can do then is to sense the mood of the nation, and make laws to fit it that are consistent with their own ideals. When they're right, as were the men who developed the white — or yellow — stripes down the center of highways to prevent accidents, they hit the jackpot. Otherwise, as happened in the most recent period of price and wage controls, they so distort the picture, in this case the economic picture, that grave injuries are inflicted on many. Recovery becomes slow and painful.

There are observers who suggest, not wholly in jest, that it might be better for us all if Congress were to take a two-year holiday, give us time to digest and adjust somewhat to the mass of laws already on the books.

Already, there are so many laws, of such complication, it is impossiblefor any human being to go through a day without breaking several. We have heard a public official brag as much; he bet a group of average people he could catch any one of them breaking a law if they'd allow him to follow them around for an hour or so.

Visitors to our country, brought here under President Truman's Point Four program, came away with the thought that American industrial superiority lay not in superior equipment or in our inventiveness, or even in our abundance of resources, but rather that it came about because of something they could only define as the American spirit, the relationship of worker and boss, of worker and worker, and the goals set by each worker within himself.

These are not things set by presidential decrees or by congressional laws.

In fact,the more government looks over our shoulder with laws which spell out what we must do down to the smallest details of daily life, the more of our funds it takes, the more it details how and what farmers and manufacturers shall produce, or creates laws which determine who shall work, the more it tends to destroy that spirit which is our glory and our salvation.

Certainly we need laws to protect the weak from the strong, to aid the sick and the helpless, to discourage crime, to assist education and promote the general welfare.

But there's a limit. And we believe that limit has been reached.

Must preserve incentives

An issue that resurfaces every election year is that of tax reform. Specifically, how to achieve a more equitable distribution of the tax burden.

There will probably never be a time when the tax system couldn't benefit from reform, but one favored idea Americans might as well forget about is that there are vast untaxed billions to be raked out of the upper income brackets.

According to the Tax Foundation,Inc., a nongovernmental organization that researches and reports on tax matters, the Internal Revenue Service collected $15.8 billion in taxes from income brackets above $32,000 in 1972. That was an effective tax rate of 55 per cent.

If the tax rate had been 100 per cent, and the IRS had taken all taxable income above $32,000, the additional revenue would have been $12.8 billion.

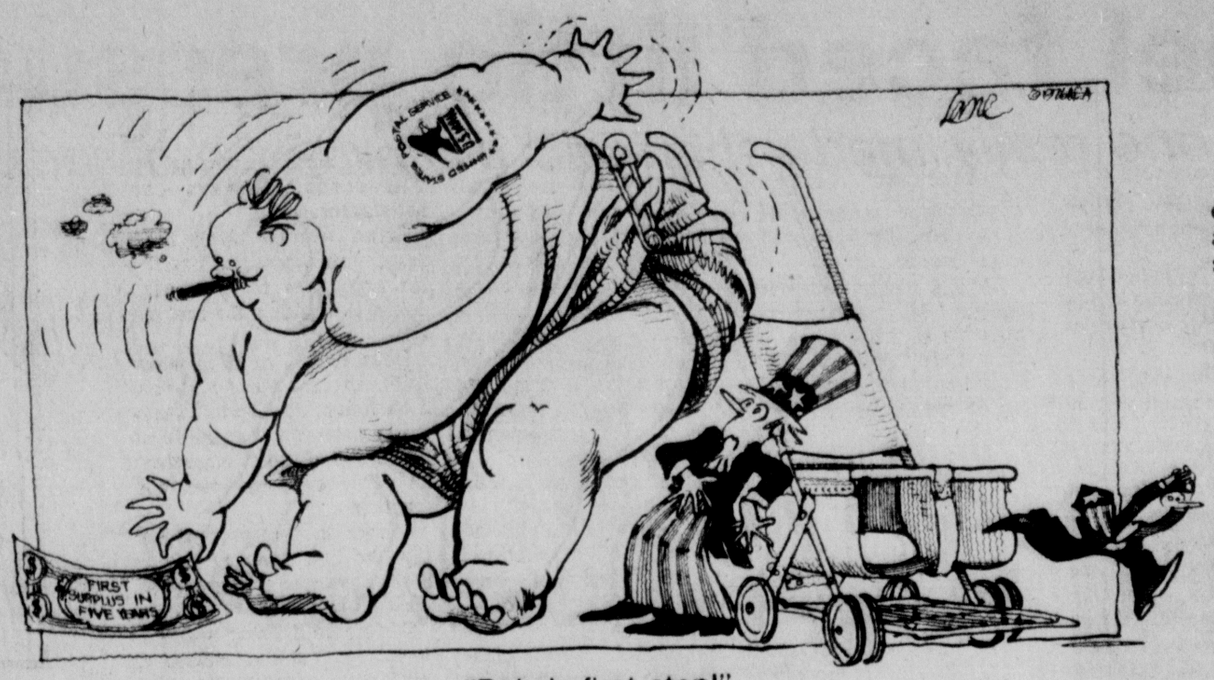

Now $12.8 billion, of course, is nothing to sneeze at — although it would just barely pay the cost of the federal government for 11 and one-half days in fiscal 1977.

But suppose Congress were to impose a 100 per cent tax on all income above a certain level. What would happen, says the Tax Foundation, is that all income above the ceiling would tend to vanish. People would look elsewhere for the rewards of hard work and success and this source of revenue would quickly dry up. It would be a case of the nation biting off its own nose.

Which is not to say that ours is the best of all possible tax structures. Far from it.

It is only that true tax reform must always have as its goal a balance between fair taxation of all citizens and preservation of the incentives which generate the wealth which is available to be taxed in the first place.

Democracy disregarded

Dear Editor:

In the newspaper reports of the resignation of Chino school's superintendent Royce Lapp, there were several statements implying that Lapp had been the victim of a liberal-conservative power struggle. Not so. The views of the two senior board members were no less conservative (or reactionary) than those of the two newer ones who were considered anti-Lapp. There certainly was a power struggle — its roots, however, were political rather than ideological.

Further conflicts (euphemistically referred to in your article as "brush fires" by one of Chino's loyal army of administrators) were exacerbated by an arbitary, often arrogant approach to the problems of parents, children, and teachers. This was apparent even to casual visitors to school board meetings.

And lastly, the sometimes violently negative responses to the programs and policies initiated by Lapp were not so much directed against the programs themselves, but the authoritarian manner in which they were imposed and administrated. A larger bureaucracy was created whose prime function (outside of consuming the funds provided by the government for those compensatory programs) seemed to be to justify and defend with mountains of paper, rather than undertake any substantive evaluions.

Although democracy can indeed be cumbersome, for bureaucrats to disregard it completely can produce far more wasteful and disruptive results. (Editor's Note: Letter signed but name withheld by request because the writer is a school district employe.)

New gun control drive

WASHINGTON — The embattled Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms is supposed to enforce the nation's weak gun control laws.

During the Nixon years, Watergate figure G. Gordon Liddy tried to dismantle ATF/s gun enforcement program altogether. The agency was also beset with internal problems. Gun controls were virtually ignored, therefore, until a few months ago.

Now the ATF has started to crack down again on gun law violators. Just last month, for example, ATF agents seized more than 1,000 illegal guns in an eight-state raid.

Yet already, this belated gun enforcement drive is facing a new obstacle. The ATF's parent agency, the Treasury Department, is quietly trying to shake up the ATF before the Democratic takeover in January.

Our sources say the proposed shakeup will de-emphasize field investigations of gun law violators. Right now, dozens of special agents are being ordered to relocate or resign during the final weeks of the Ford administration. The effect of all this, according to trusted sources, will be to hamper future gun enforcement efforts.

The reorganization was vigorously opposed by the ATF's veteran chief, Rex Davis. But in late October, he received a stern, private memo from his Treasury Department bosses informing him that they had decided to go ahead with the shakeup.

"You are hereby directed to implement this plan, effective December 1, 1976," he was ordered. The election of Jimmy Carter only made the lame ducks at Treasury more determined to complete the reorganization before the Democrats take office.

There is some justification, of course, for shaking up the ATF. Its confidential files contain evidence that the agency has been plagued with problems. Here are just a few highlights:

— In Dayton, two special agents got into a squabble at the local ATF office. One agent pulled a gun and shot the other to death.

— Last year, an agent who was pushing narcotics tried to frame a defendant on phony extortion charges.

— In 1972, an ATF informant was murdered in California. Yet the ATF failed to conduct a proper investigation. At last, an investigation was ordered. The confidential conclusion: ATF agents blew the informant's cover.

— Of ATF's 1,674 agents, only 48 are minority agents. There are no blacks, Spanish-Americans or other minority agents at all in the southeast region.

Treasury Undersecretary Jerry Thomas told us that the ATF shakeup has been planned for more than a year and, therefore, cannot be called a last-ditch political maneuver. It is a long overdue move to professionalize the ATF, he said. Meanwhile, Rep. John Conyers, D.-Mich., is investigating.

Footnote: We recently reported that the Treasury Department was secretly investigating allegations that the ATF chief illegally accepted a gun from the host of a Las Vegas casino. The Treasury has now completed the investigation, which completely exonerates Davis.

OPEN SEASON — The Energy Research and Development Administration has let America's electric power companies wiggle out of more than $650 million in commitments to purchase enriched uranium.

The $650 million bailout was known inside ERDA as "open season" — open season, that is, on the Treasury.

The story is highly technical. The utilities have been required since 1973 to make long-term purchasing agreements for enriched uranium. This is the fuel for the controversial nuclear generators. The fuel is produced at three government-owned plants and is sold to the utilities in units known as "Separative Work Units."

Last year, the big power companies realized they had been widely optimistic in ordering the uranium units. Construction and operational foul-ups, as well as the opposition to nuclear plants by environmentalists, had slowed down nuclear development.

The utilities were stuck with contracts, therefore, requiring them to pay for fuel they couldn't use immediately. Even though the 100 largest utilities turned a net profit of 10 per cent on $48.2 billion in revenue in 1975, the Ford administration was quick to sympathize with them.

An ERDA memo, uncovered by Ralph Nader's Congress Watch and turned over to us contended that Treasury officials were concerned "mainly with the immediate financial problems confronting domestic utilities. They encouraged any form of utility assistance that ERDA feels it can perform."

Almost miraculously, ERDA decided the nation suddenly needed to stockpile the nuclear units, thereby letting the utilities off the hook. The "open season" project went into effect on June 19, 1975. For the next two months, the utilities were permitted to cancel or defer enriched uranium deliveries.

Of the nation's 135 reactors, 101 took advantage of the "open season" opportunity. They cancelled between $15 million and $18 million in orders and postponed the delivery date on an additional $636 million worth of nuclear fuel.

Footnote: An ERDA spokesman insisted that the taxpayers won't lose any money in the end, since the uranium fuel eventually will be sold to other customers. But he acknowledged: "There has not been an attempt to track precisely what the effect of 'open season' has been."

China opens door

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — There are hints in the news which indicate that China under Chairman Hua Kuo-feng may be on the verge of opening up slightly to the outside world.

For one, reports suggest Peking may soon take on once more the large-scale import of foreign technology, abandoned some time back because of fears the practice might lead to dangerous dependence on foreigners. The Chinese were burned, it will be recalled, by their experience with the Russians. Moscow, after moving in technicians and equipment heavily for a few years, withdrew abruptly when Peking refused to knuckle under to Moscow's demand for complete alignment of Chinese foreign policy with the Soviet.

The rapid withdrawal of the Russian personnel and equipment did severe damage to the Chinese economy, which took years to recover.

Renewed interest in importing technology and equipment most certainly will focus on non-Communist nations. Note here that most of the outstanding scientific leaders of China are basically oriented toward the West — and particularly toward the United States, Great Britain, Japan and West Germany. A goodly share of the top men have their degrees from these countries. Some have had influential posts in the West before returning to China.

Secondly, there has been in the upper echelons of China's political hierarchy a belief in the benefits of American industrial production methods. This conviction was shared by Chairman Mao Tse-tung in his Yenan days.

In the stormy years since Yenan, there has been pressure to open Chinese industry to Western technology and equipment. But political differences and the experience with Russia kept the door closed. These fears may be easing as far as the West is concerned.

Now what will this move, if it eventuates, mean to the United States?

American technology and equipment sold to China, and American know-how in the form of training, would most certainly strengthen a totalitarian country whose aims are not parallel with our own in much of the world, the Far East in particular.

The detriment to the defense of the United States would not by any means be as serious as our selling technology and equipment to Russia, whose military growth in the next decade could well threaten the security of the United States and the free world.

There is however, evidence, tenuous though it may be, that China will continue to be a rival of, and a balance against, the Soviet Union for a goodly period of time to come. There are national rivalries and deep sore points which now and in the foreseeable future may well bar any real conciliation between the two nations. For one, China cannot be comfortable with a strong military power next door working year in and year out to expand its military political influence across China's southern and northeastern borders — a technique which Peking calls encirclement.

If China should, in fact, continue to be a counter balance to Russia, it is to the benefit of the United States, with proper precautions, to strengthen the Chinese economy within limits, with special emphasis on aid improving the lot of the Chinese people as distinct from the Peking military establishment.

A note of warning; Closer economic relations with China should not and must not lead us to default on our relationship with Taiwan.

Just in jest

One of the things that is wrong with the world today is that far too many of us insist on living by the axioms and maxims we were taught in grade school.

We all agree, of course, that "the better the day the better the deed." But how much better off most of us would be if we had been taught that the better the deed the better the day for property owners.

If, as we were so often assured, "the good die young," it is no wonder we were as bad as possible in our youth in order to be sure of living to a ripe old age.

Time and again we were told that "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy." But why weren't we also taught that all play and no work and Jack is not only dull but impossible as well?

We had it drummed into our receptive little minds that "no news is good news," which naturally lead us to assume that any news we did receive would be bad.

And since we were also taught that "all the world loves a fat man," it's no wonder we have become a nation of overweight slobs. That way we figure we will be universally respected and not have to worry about a defense budget.

But where those grade school teachers really made their big mistake was in teaching us that "a little learning is a dangerous thing." We believed them! So naturally it's all their fault that reading and writing skills are at such a low ebb today.

Disabled lose a good friend

By EARL G. WATERS

Death reached out last month and removed unsung a rather obscure Los Angeles lawyer. He was obscure in the sense that he had not participated in trials of note nor had he used his legal offices to build political fame.

But his demise as a result of injuries suffered in an auto accident was a serious setback for every physically handicapped person. For that lawyer, Jack Achtenberg had dedicated himself to a career of aiding the handicap in a way he was best suited

A quadriplegic, Achtenberg had become absorbed in studies of the laws relating to its treatment of the handicapped.

Holding a master's degree from Boalt Hall Law School and a Doctor of Jurisprudence from Loyola his thesis as a candidate for a JSD at Boalt Hall was "A study in Federal, State and Local Government Law: Effective Enforcement Techniques to Vindicate the Rights of the Handicapped and Elderly."

That paper was just one of many dissertations produced by Achtenberg dealing with the law and the disabled. Most were developed as a student or in his sparetime from his regular duties as a professor of law at San Fernando Valley College of Law.

Among these treatises were "Crips Unite to Enforce Symbolic laws. Self-Help Legal Aid for the Disabled;" "Equal Transportation Opportunities for the Elderly and Handicapped; Constitutional, Statutory and Regulatory Options" and "The Neglected Orphan of the Law School's First Year."

Shortly before his death Achtenberg had completed a stint as a consultant to the California Rehabilitation Department. Both his efforts in behalf of the handicapped were far more extensive than just writing and research.

He served as chairman of the Los Angeles County Commission on the Problems of the Handicapped; member of the Los Angeles Employment of the Handicapped Committee; member of the Board of Directors of the San Fernando Valley Combined Committee on Aid to the Handicapped; member and legal advisor to the California Association of Physically Handicapped; member and legal advisor of the board of directors for the Center for Independent Living, a blind and handicapped consumer organization; and a member of the National Rehabilitation Association.

An honor student at both Loyola and Boalt Hall, Achtenberg has already distinguished himself as a teacher being voted the "Most Conscientious Professor" at the University of San Fernando Law College.

Not only is his death viewed as a great loss on the basis of what he had already accomplished but in that it came just as Achtenberg was launching the most thorough legal study ever undertaken on "The Rights of the Physically Disabled."

The work was to be published under a contract awarded him by the American Civil Liberties Union only last April. In announcing the award Norman Dorsen, General Counsel for ACLU, said "We regard this book as of particular importance because the rights of physically handicapped persons are just beginning to be recognized in legislatures and courts throughout the country."

Achtenberg had indicated his approach was not to be one of pleading for aid or benefits but asking for the disableds' rights to be a part of the mainstream of society. "These right must be enforced," he said, "not simply because the integration of the disabled is good social policy but because the laws of the various states and the Constitution of the United States requires that they be enforced."

No doubt the ACLU will find someone to carry on the project but they have lost in Achtenberg a dedicated and able champion.

Husband's work unnerves her

Dear Ann: My husband quit a wonderful job to open up a radio and TV repair shop in our basement. His "new life" is making a nervous wreck out of me.

There's a big neon sign over our front porch that says "TV AND RADIOS REPAIRED CHEAP." Our home, which was once beautiful, looks like a garage. He painted the house red to attract attention. Our 22-year-old daughter moved out.

I have no privacy. The phone rings constantly. People come and go at all hours. The fuses blow out all over the place because of this equipment. I'm expected to carry him lunch and snacks like a servant.

His boss telephoned him three times this month and asked him to come back. He says, "No, I like being self-employed."

In the meantime he isn't making a living. His prices are too low and his expense and helpers eat up all the profit.

I can't afford a nervous breakdown. What can I do? — On The Verge

Dear On: You can give him a choice. Either he goes back to his job or he can have the squirrel cage to himself. Give him ten days to make up his mind — before you lose yours.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 17-year-old guy who has asked at least 50 people if they know of a solution to my problem. No one does. You are my last hope.

Is there any way to prevent baldness? My hair is getting awfully thin and I just hate to see it go. My father was completely bald at an early age and I'm afraid I'm going to be, too.

What causes baldness? Can anything be done to prevent it?

An answer from you would be greatly appreciated by me and thousands of other guys who read your column. — South Carolina Blues.

Dear S.C.: Some hair loss is temporary, if it is caused by illness or anxiety. But usually baldness that comes on gradually, and begins at an early age, is hereditary and permanent.

For centuries men have tried everything from herbal ointments to sheep dung. Nothing works — so save your money. If you become deeply depressed, you might consider transplants. But it is an expensive, painful, time-consuming procedure and doesn't always come out satisfactorily.

Some women think baldies are sexy — so if you can psych yourself out and learn to like your shining dome, it would be the best solution of all.

Dear Ann: I'm 52 (a widow since 1966), keeping steady company with a bachelor, 65. Clyde lives with his maiden sister and an uncle who is 74. The three of them inherited quite a lot of money and own the house together.

I want to get married but Clyde says he can't marry me until his sister passes on because he promised his mother he would look after her.

I'm afraid if I stop seeing him, I'll be lonely. Yet I've passed up some interesting opportunities because of him. What should I do? — Honolulu

Dear Hon: Fifty-two is no age to be sitting around waiting for a man's sister to die. If Clyde wanted to marry you he could still "look after" his sister.

If his sister died, he'd probably tell you he must "look after" his uncle. Accept some of those other opportunities.

Differences in various diners

Get it right, urges our Language man, testily: A glutton is just one who eats and drinks much too much, indiscriminately. A gourmand is one who's excessively fond of eating and drinking, although not necessarily one who overdoes it, and not necessarily one who is expert. A gourmet is a specialist who is highly knowledgeable about food and drink, whether or not partaking lavishly of same. And an epicure is one devoted to the satisfaction of sensitive and discriminating tastes, most particularly in food and drink. Watch this space for further profoundly significant linguistic revelations. For example, the difference between the late late TV show and a drive-in movie is the say you spell wall-to-wall car-petting. Stuff like that.

ANTI-RABBITS

Rabbits don't like garlic, evidently. That's useful data to some home gardeners. They've learned thay can keep the rabbits out of their lettuce, cabbage and tomato patches by spraying said vegetables with a pint of water into which they've crushed several garlic cloves.

Am astonished to hear that a Japanese man can be excused quite honorably from the military service if he is detected to radiate too much of that simple thing called underarm odor.

The money men recently calculated that the average cost of having a baby has jumped in the last five years from $1,600 to $2,194.

Tests supposedly indicate an eight-foot shark's bite has registered a pressure of as much as 18 tons per square inch. Fascinating, if factual.

OF 638 SINS

Was none other than Geroge Bernard Shaw who said, "The more things a man is ashamed of, the more respectable he is." That brings to mind the legendary minister who ensured the repeated return each Sunday of his growing congregation by announcing from the pulpit that there were some 638 sins. The crowd allegedly kept coming back, presumable to learn the list.

Evelyn Devlin of Naples, Fla., only qualifies for membership in the "My Name Is a Poem" Club, if you talk real fast. Likewise, Mark Sparks of Sioux City, Iowa. However, perfectly acceptable candidates for the Proper Job Club include Jimmy Byrd, a flight instructor in Gloucester, Mass., and James Painter, an artist in oils whose work turned up on display at Flemington, N.J.

The Duchess of Windsor has been credited with the observation: "You can never be too thin or too rich." Client asks if she's either. That's a judgment call. She's retired out of the mainstream with a nurse in Paris. She's reportedly quite frail now, exhibiting little inclination at age 82 to spend her estimated $50 Million.

A British boutanist insists what Adam and Eve really ate definitely was not an apple but most probably an apricot.

Dr. Miller

Goldfish memory can last month

DEAR DR. MILLER: Gilbert, my goldfish, has a long tank. At one end there's a shelf where Sullivan, my young cat, likes to sit and watch him. At first Gilbert would swim down to the end of the tank and Sillivan would try to swat at him through the glass whenever he got close. The paw pounding on the glass must have given Gilbert a headache or something, because he didn't like it. Finally he learned that if he didn't swim down to that end, he wouldn't have to put up with that banging on the glass. Sullivan would still sit and watch him, but do nothing. My sister has just borrowed Sullivan for a while to see if her daughter is allergic to cats or can have one. I'm just curious, will Gilbert remember what he's learned when Sullivan returns, or do goldfish have a memory for things like that? — K.T.

DEAR K.T.: That depends on how long Sullivan's gone. Gilbert Goldfish has a good chance of remembering how to avoid that headache for up to a month before his chemically imprinted memory begins to fade.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Foochoo, our cat, used to sit around for a few hours, vomit, and then feel better. In the last couple of weeks she's been sitting around all the time, vomiting several times a day and feeling worse. Why the difference? — V.H

DEAR V.H.: I hope you've long since taken Foochoo in to the doctor to let him determine the cause — and, of course, to treat her. The difference would have been that the occasional vomiting could have signaled a slight stomach upset, possibly related to hairballs, and the vomiting relieved it. Every time an animal lies around sluggishly and/or is vomiting frequently the only safe course is to seek help at once in the event the symptoms are due to a serious illness.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Is five weeks too early to get a puppy? — -S.N.

DEAR S.N.: Eight weeks is the ideal age to pack home a puppy. It's then completed its socializing requirements in relation to Mama and its litter and is ready (eager, in fact) to socialize with people. A five-week-old puppy is harder to raise, not yet having interacted sufficiently with its mother and brothers and sisters. Yet with good care, it should survive and do well in the human environment I would be more likely, though, to be overdependent on its owner.

Geared up for a new look

Are you into the gear look?

If you are a male man wearing a neat business suit, wide tie and platform shoes, you are out of style, unaware of the outdoor look that is sweeping the country. If you are a female person in pants suit or cocktail dress, you are not with it.

I am always amused when the fashion world catches up with me. For years I wore soft collars, sweaters, rumpled flannels, thick-soled brogans and tweed jackets with patches on the elbow, hand-me-downs from my older brother. Suddenly the Ivy League Look came in and I was the sartorial star of the Pomona Mall. Then for a long time I wore wing-tipped shoes and garish striped suits with wide lapels and padded shoulders. I looked like an extra out of a George Raft movie. Then "Bonnie and Clyde" hit the silver screen, the Bootlegger Look swept the nation, and my sharp threads were the talk of the valley salons and saloons.

In recent years, sporting flannel shirts, blue jeans and clumpy boots, I was looked down upon by friend and fellow worker as a refugee from the north woods. But now the outdoor gear, comfortable, casual and colorful, has become the rage of the haut couture, and once again a fashion plate.

Designers such as Louis Vuitton, Patti Cappalli and Jean-Charles de Castelbajac have begun "creating" lumber jackets, goose-down vests and crepe-soled leather boots. L. L. Bean is suddenly the House of Dior of high style.

The call of the wild is echoing through the world's fashion marts, with everything woodsy and backwoodsy adapted to the social activities of the big cities. At the Music Center we may find debutantes in mackinaws and long johns, chic to chic with swells in lumber jackets and duck-hunting caps. The posh restaurants and night clubs of Los Angeles will soon look like a logging camp, and the Best Dressed award will go to Paul Bunyan.

It goes without saying that when the scissors wizards of style turn their shear magic to outdoor costume, the prices zoom. Ralph Lauren turns out a stylish Harris tweed hacking jacket for $256, an item available at equestrian emporiums for $80. Ms. Cappalli's little mink-lined lumber jacket retails for a cool $450, a month's salary for the average logger. Castelbajac's parkas are $160, his swaddling coats from blanketing material, $355.

But it is encouraging to know that going stylish is not going to cost great sums for most of us — we've been sporting the backwoods look for years.

If you want to be in fashion, get in gear.

Dr. Lamb

Prune juice won't hurt you

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 71 years old. I have been drinking prune juice for the last few years every other morning and I feel fine.

I want to know if it is safe for my bowels. Nothing seems to help. I've tried all kinds of bran, eat vegetables and fruit but no help.

DEAR READER — No, the prune juice will not hurt you. Lots of people use it. In many people it is not an adequate substitute for needed bulk in the diet. The best bulk comes from cereal fiber. One has to eat a lot of vegetables or fruit to get much fiber from them.

Also, there is a lot more to managing a stubborn bowel problem than just using bran. If you are having trouble you should let your doctor help you. Try to avoid the laxative and enema habit.

Meanwhile, I am sending you The Health Letter number 2-1, Irritable or Spastic Colon and Constipation, to give you more information on bowel function. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Just send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P. O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I read your column on diabetes and the eye and was wondering if that woman could not have her eyes treated with the laser to save her eyesight.

I am especially interested in this because I have had a laser treatment for a detached retina. Perhaps you can mention it in your column and give some hope to diabetics.

DEAR READER — The column you sent me had been edited removing part of the original column. The woman was interested in whether new glasses would correct her problem. Glasses will not correct the diabetic changes in the eye.

Laser beams have been very successful in treating part of the problem in diabetics. The treatment is used to prevent excessive growth of new blood vessels that overgrow the retina at the back of the eye. When detachment of the screen or retina occurs it can be used to tack the retina back in place, preserving sight.

However, laser beams do not correct the scars that have already developed in the retina. They do not correct the damage in the arteries themselves, specifically the fatty - cholesterol deposits and tendency to hemorrhage.

Judging from the letters I have received there is a lot of confusion about what can be done for eyes. Surgery and laser beams work fine in some cases. They don't in others. It depends entirely on what the problem is. If the small spot where images are focused, the macula, in the back of the eye is degenerated there is little one can do.

How does one find out if what he has can be treated by one of the newer methods? A complete examination by an eye specialist is needed. Anyone with serious eye disease certainly belongs in the hands of a specialist.

Meanwhile, my statement stands. The best thing a diabetic can do to protect his eyesight is to be treated adequately for diabetes. A diabetic that follows instructions to the letter, sticking to the diet that has been established for him, and taking the medicines as prescribed if he needs them, has the best chance of avoiding the eye complications of diabetes. This truth remains: an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure — including laser beams.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your approach is particularly fresh and novel today. You stimulate original thoughts and actions of others.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Being a good listener could be especially profitable today. A wise time to be close to those who have their fingers on the business pulse.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Take the time to give requested advice today. Someone values your opinion highly and will be grateful for efforts in his behalf.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) In situations where you are competing today, you have a slight edge — but don't be overconfident about it.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You won't be at all comfortable around people who are too serious today. Associating with those who take things lightly will be more your cup of tea.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A person you're very close to needs your assessment of a situation, although she may not know it. Offer your advice diplomatically.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Words and ideas are your best allies today. Use your logic in analyzing issues, even though others may get a bit uptight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't expect to make the big killing today. Recall: Several small gains can add up over the long haul. Be content provided you're moving ahead.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Investigate any venture that piques your interest today. It may seem way out, but it still would be worth your while to study it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You're very good at extracting secrets from others today. A few well-directed questions could ferret out things competitors' secrets.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Keep in close touch today with persons vital to your immediate plans, to give them more incentive to move in the right direction.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Things could happen today to beef up income already established from a particular source. Be alert for all oportunities.

Your Birthday, Dec. 2, 1976

This year you are going to be involved more than ever in management of the affairs of others. You'll enjoy what you're doing and they'll benefit.

Two big keys to success

It's incredible! He seems to succeed in everything he touches! Have you ever said that about another person? What is the secret to their success? The answer is they've found the keys that unlock the gateway to the great way!

There are two keyholes and two keys that unlock the door to abundant living. Let me share them with you.

The first key is to BELIEVE there is a better life for you. You can improve your position. You do have the freedom to imagine and dream of a better life! You have to believe it before you see it. You need not and you must not give in and give up to discouragement . . . or you will be defeated for sure. Allow discouraging thoughts or moods to take over and you will be in the control of a force that will surely put you down and keep you down!

Recognize negative thoughts and feelings as your greatest enemy and sin. For they will separate you from God who wants to bless you with abundant life. Instead, decide to give in and give up to positive belief thoughts — and you'll be lifted to a new life!

The second key that unlocks the gateway to the great way is ACTION. Belief must result in some positive action on your part.

Every day God places opportunities before you by passing believable ideas through your brain. When these belief ideas pass before the screen of your mind — stop!! Take action! Write them down on paper. Make a telephone call. Fill out that form and write that letter. But don't just sit there and dream — move! Act! Do something! Take the first step! And you will set in motion positive forces that will — before you know it — cause the gateway to the great way to swing open and before you will be a shining path to the better life that God had planned for you all along.

Chino council adopts ordinance

Approval of parades gets tougher

An ordinance making it tougher for groups to gain approval of parades or other special events has been adopted by the Chino City Council.

The new law establishes a $25 fee for each event and requires applicants to submit detailed information to the police department. Police may reject any event, but groups will be able to appeal to the City Council.

Officials are likely to pay particular attention to requests from organizations which they feel may cause a disturbance. The ordinance states permits may not be issued if "conduct of the parade may cause injury to persons or property, provoke disorderly conduct or create a disturbance."

Groups will be required to submit to police names and addresses of parade chairmen; names of sponsoring organizations; starting times; location of route; number of persons in the parade; whether alcoholic beverages will be allowed; and other information.

Requests for permits must be submitted at least 30 days prior to the event.

Police Chief Jerry Doyle said the new ordinance provides a "logical way" of controlling parades and other special events. He noted the law applies to protest demonstrations and "any event that might be disruptive to the community."

The ordinance is new to Chino, he added, but many other cities already have a similar law.

ARTHUR SCHMIDT

FMC Wayne names marketing manager

Arthur E. Schmidt has been appointed marketing manager for the FMC Wayne sweeper plant.

Formerly national sales manager of the Denver equipment division of Joy Manufacturing Co., Schmidt has been involved in the sale of machinery and equipment for 25 years.

In his new position, he will be responsible for marketing the division's products through its national dealer organization. Schmidt is a resident of Upland.

1,750 dailies

There were 39 newspapers published during all or part of the year 1776 and none were daily. Today there are more than 1,750 daily and nearly 7,500 weekly newspapers in the U.S.

Date food

For thousands of years dates have been one of the chief foods of the people in the dry lands near the Mediterranean sea.

Children's center will be taking applications

Through next week, Chaffey College will accept pre-registration applications for admission to the new children's center in Alta Loma.

The application forms may be obtained by fulltime students from children's center coordinator Pat Mohr or her secretary, Jackie Miller on Friday.

Pending its opening, Jan. 3, the children's center staff office quarters are in the student lounge at Campus Center.

Registration will begin Dec. 13 when the eligibility of applicants has been determined and the admissions priority list established. Candidates will be notified of their status on or about that date.

The children's center program is for the children of student parents who are taking 12 or more units. It is designed to accommodate developmental age levels of 2 through 5 years by day and 2 through 8 by night.

Children's center hours will be from 6:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. and 6 to 10:30 p.m., Mondays through Thursdays, and 6:30 a.m. to 12 noon, Fridays.

Information on eligibility criteria and other data may be obtained by calling 987-1737, ext. 368.

Claremont AFS airs candidates

The Claremont chapter of the American Field Service has announced its candidates for the American Abroad program for 1977.

Edward Bratt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerrit Bratt, David Tipping, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Tipping, and Colleen Christian, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Christian, have been selected by the local chapter.

Final screening selections will be made in the spring by the New York AFS office.

At that time, students will learn to what country they will be going, and whether they will have a guaranteed or alternate status.

Through American Field Service International, young people 16 to 18 participate in the scholarship program which operates in nearly 60 countries.

Competition for AFS selection is keen. About 10,000 U.S. students apply for the program, but less than 2,500 can be accepted for foreign travel.

However, more than 2,600 students from 60 nations spend a year living and learning in the U.S.

Pomona Downtown Toastmasters Club 110-F recently announced its speech winners at Sir George's Restaurant. Nolie Glover won best speaker award; Wayne Adams, table topics; Rudy Rangel, best evaluator; and Currier Thatcher, the "right ball" award.

Toastmasters offer an opportunity for men and women to build self-confidence and communication skills. For further information persons may call 622-0950.

Doctor given prison term

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A West Covina doctor has received a prison term of one to five years for killing a man while the doctor was driving under the influence of a drug.

The sentence was pronounced Monday on Dr. William McDowell Lambdin, 37, in Los Angeles Superior Court.

Audubon Society program

Glenn R. Stewart of Cal Poly's biology department will be speaker at the Pomona Valley Audubon Society's program Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at Pomona College's Seaver Laboratory, room 108.

He will discuss his current research on the biology of the black bear in the San Gabriel Mountains. The public is invited.

Claremont recreation meeting

What are the future recreational facility needs for the city of Claremont?

Residents will be given an opportunity to make suggestions pertaining to that question when a city Parks and Recreation Commission sub-committee holds an informational meeting Dec. 8 at 7 p.m. at the Claremont Public Library.

The city has already contacted special interest groups about the meeting, but what the private individual would like is also being requested.

Individuals attending the meeting should come prepared with a written statement for presentation.

Chaffey College registration

Registration for the winter quarter at Chaffey College will be from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m., Dec. 8, 9, 10, at Campus Center.

The college has also scheduled off-campus registration from 4 to 8 p.m., Dec. 14 and 15, at its Ontario-Montclair Center, 4650 Howard Street and at Corona High School.

The winter quarter extends from Jan. 3 to March 24.

Chaffey bookstore hours will be from 7:45 a.m. to 4 p.m., Dec. 13 through Dec. 17 and Dec. 20 through 23; 7:45 a.m. to 12 noon, Dec. 24, and 7:45 to 4 p.m., Dec. 27 through 31.

The college will conduct off-campus textbook sales from 6 to 9 p.m., Jan. 3 through Jan. 6 and Jan. 10 through Jan. 13 at the Corona High School bookstore.

Information on Chaffey admissions, offerings and services may be obtained by calling 987-1737.

Car wash, bake sale

Students in the Walnut High School student store will hold a car wash and bake sale Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Exxon service station, 350 S. Diamond Bar Blvd., Diamond Bar.

Cost will be $1.25 for cars and $1.50 for campers and vans. Tickets may be purchased at the student store. Proceeds will be used to purchase equipment for the store.

Fun-Era Club dance

The Fun-Era Senior Citizens Club of Ontario will sponsor a dance Sunday from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. at the De Anza Recreation Center, 1405 S. Fern St.

Music will be provided by "We Two." Refreshments will be served. Persons 50 years and older are invited.

On Monday, the club will hold its monthly potluck dinner and business meeting. The election of officers will be held at 11 a.m., followed by lunch at noon. Turkey will be provided by the club. Persons are asked to bring their own table service and favorite dishes, desserts or salad.

They are also requested to bring a gift for a man or woman wrapped for a Christmas party.

For information on club membership and activities, persons may contact the De Anza Recreation Center, 983-3314.

Public forum on epilepsy

A public forum on epilepsy is scheduled Monday at 7:30 p.m. at Doctors Hospital of Montclair.

The forum, geared for teachers, parents, relatives and friends of epileptics, will deal with types of seizures, and how to care for each type of disorder. Preparation for emergencies will also be covered.

Mrs. Madelynn Bordeaux, in-service director, will lead the forum. A victim of seizures herself, Mrs. Bordeaux will emphasize the facts and fiction surrounding epilepsy. She will focus on California driving regulations and other legal procedures affecting epileptics.

WILLIAMS, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Harold Keys, 2190 Stocker St., Pomona, has completed technical training at Keesler AFB, Miss. and will leave for Osan Air Base, South Korea, at the end of his 21-day leave. A 1976 graduate of Pomona High, Williams took his basic training at Lackland AFB, Tex.

Theological students are studying in Rome

Ten Claremont international theological students are in Rome, learning to develop and administer programs to help feed the world's starving people.

Sponsored by the School of Theology at Claremont, the studies are held at the Center for Social Training and Action in Developing Regions, located at Rome's Pontifical University of St. Thomas Aquinas.

It is the first time in history that Protestants and Catholics have studied side by side in a Vatican school.

The purpose of the program, Agrimissio (Agricultural Missions), is to train church leaders in solutions to the growing problem of food deficits and to promote rural development in the food importing countries of the world.

The Claremont phase of the program is supervised by C. Dean Freudenberger, associate professor of international development studies and ecumenics. The Rome exchange of Claremont students is made possible by a grant from the Lilly Endowment of Indianapolis.

Founder and President of Agrimissio is Msgr. Luigi G. Ligutti, Rome. The agency promotes closer collaboration between rural church workers and the Food and Agricultural Organization (FAO) of the United Nations.

LVC sponsors all-day games

La Verne College is sponsoring an all-day free Festival of Games Sunday from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the La Verne Supertent on football field.

Tim Morrison and Pat Levenson, LVC seniors, are heading the event which de-emphasizes winning and stresses participating.

Among the games planned are tug-of-war, pillow fights, earth ball, people puss and hug tag.

Additional information may be obtained by calling Morrison or Leverson at the LVC student center, 305-7247.

Job-seeking agency for 'overqualified' going out of business

DETROIT (AP) — An employment agency for "overqualified" engineers and scientists is closing because the federal funds it sought for expansion are going to help hardcore unemployed and young job seekers instead.

Agency director Don Bennett said in 4½ years of operating on a shoestring budget he has helped 405 people, obtained jobs for 255, prepared 300 resumes and made 6,000 job referrals.

He said he feels the program, called REVEST (Volunteer Engineers Scientists and Technicians) filled a valuable need because professionals "often are much less competent job seekers than the average worker."

Bennett said his agency, closing today, taught clients techniques to sell themselves to employers, since many professionals wrongly assume they will be hired for any job for which they are trained. Other problems professionals face are age barriers and companies' reluctance to hire people considered overqualified or overeducated, he said.

"A lot of professionals see themselves and their job as one," said Bennett. "When the job goes, the man loses part of himself. The result can be devastating — anger, frustration, sometimes actual mental disintegration."

Bennett's program, which has had only one or two paid employes and a few volunteers, also offered job search and solicitation services, evaluation, workshops and counseling.

The program was started with federal funds, and operated with the use of local funds. Its office, phone and mail service were paid for by the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

Main sources of income during the past two years have been a $25,000 federal grant administered by the Wayne County Office of Manpower, plus $100 monthly from the Affiliate Council of the Engineering Society of Detroit for operating expenses.

Bennett said he decided to shut down after the U.S. Department of Labor turned down his request recently for $250,000 to expand.

A federal official told Bennett all such funding was earmarked for helping hard-core unemployed and young people.

Blind boy rigged up to march in high school band

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The line is straight, the marching crisp. In the stands, nobody but his relatives and friends knows the 17-year-old snare drummer for Point Loma High School is totally blind.

Blind since birth, Robert Corey Jr. says he is living "a dream I never hoped even to dream."

A cord made by his father connects the youth to the belt loops of fellow drummers on each side.

At first, band director H. Dean Hickman couldn't figure out how young Corey, the only blind student in school, could perform.

"Mr. Hickman had never had a blind student in a marching band before and had never seen it done," Robert said Tuesday.

"I was supposed to be going straight but I wound up going in a circle. Everybody laughed, and I wondered what was going on. When they told me, I laughed too."

Hickman tried tying Robert to other band members but fishing line didn't work, nor did nylon cord.

A heavier cord with snaps and hooking rings on the ends did it. Robert has since performed in three halftime shows at Point Loma High football games as well as in the all-city band night in San Diego Stadium and a parade through downtown neighboring El Cajon.

The music is read to him by the head drummer, and Corey memorizes it. "At first, marching with the band was hard," he said. "I was going too fast, too slow or holding the drum too high."

'Mother Dexter' of TV's 'Phyllis' dies at age 86

NEW YORK (AP) — Actress Judith Lowry, best known as the tart-tongued "Mother Dexter" on the TV show "Phyllis," is dead of a heart attack at 86.

Mrs. Lowry, taking a Thanksgiving holiday from the filming of the CBS comedy series in California, was walking on a Greenwich Village street Monday with her son, Semmes, when she collapsed and died.

In Los Angeles, Ed Weinberger, producer and creator of "Phyllis," said when told of her death:

"We loved her. She never ceased to delight and amaze us with her talent, her humor and her spirit."

On "Phyllis," which stars Cloris Leachman, Mrs. Lowry played a widow who delighted in shocking the other characters by sprinkling her remarks with profanity and speaking frankly about sex.

In a two-part program scheduled to begin next Monday, Mother Dexter was to have married a character played by 92-year-old actor Burt Mustin.

She said in a recent interview, "There's almost as much hoopla getting married on television as there is in real life."

"I've been fitted for a beautiful wedding dress and the whole works," she said. "Why, I never did all this for my own marriage."

Mrs. Lowry, who called New York home but also maintained a residence at Studio City, Calif., was to have returned to the coast to resume filming of the series Wednesday.

A spokesman for the show said she had appeared in 16 segments filmed so far this year, only eight of which have been broadcast.

Mrs. Lowry also was seen in the movies "Valley of the Dolls," "Sweet Charity" and "The Anderson Tapes," and on television in "Studio One" and "Maude."

Born in Fort Sill, Okla., she was the widow of actor Rudd glowry, who died in 1965. She is survived by nine children, 27 grandchildren and two greatgrandchildren.

She began her acting career in 1913, appearing in a stock company in Washington, but she retired to raise her family. She resumed acting in 1952 and appeared on the stage as well as in films and television.

GOP must start to make comeback now, or die, Dole warns

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert J. Dole said Tuesday that unless Republicans set to work now to make a comeback in 1978 and 1980 "we may not have a comeback" — or, indeed, any guarantee of continued existence.

The vice-presidential loser said his party must quickly reach out to people it has not approached before. "If we can't convince those who are disinterested," he asked, "how much more difficult will it be to convert those who now oppose us?"

Dole told Republican governors that the party can't afford to bicker about philosophical differences. He sid that when the GOP choses a new chairman it should be someone who can bring all factions together — not a person whose selection would represent a victory for one wing or another.

"We do not have to wait four years to make our comebackg' Dole said. "We can begin now. Indeed, if we don't begin now, if we sit idly by in the complacent belief that Gov. Carter will make a botch of things, give us a new lease on life, we may not have a comeback.

"We have off-year elections coming up. We have congressional elections in 1978 and we have to look to the electing of dog catchers, sheriffs and aldermen just as we do to state legislators, mayors and governors," the Kansas senator said.

"Our minority status isn't legislated; we don't have to remain a minority party. On the other hand, neither is our existence legislated."

At President Ford's suggestion, Republican leaders are drafting plans for a new policy panel to guide the party and speak on the issues after Democrat Jimmy Carter moves into the White House.

A Republican source said Ford has indicated he would take an active role in such an operation, patterned on the party committee that set and spoke policy a decade ago, during another GOP rebuilding effort.

While Dole said Republicans should not be "splitting ideological hairs," the governors wound up their session with a miniature debate about a resolution to endorse the 1976 Republican platform.

Gov. Meldrim Thomson Jr. of New Hampshire proposed the resolution declaring that the Republicans' principles are those enunciated in the platform, approved at the Republican Convention in Kansas City last August.

But Gov.-elect James R. Thompson of Illinois said he thought this was too restrictive, particularly since the voters rejected the ticket that ran on that platform. So Gov. Otis Bowen of Indiana proposed an amendment to have the platform periodically updated by "an appropriate broad-based policy examination committee" at intervals over the next four years.

That seemed to satisfy about everybody, and Thomson's resolution was adopted as amended — with Thompson casting the only no vote. The other six governors who were still around either said yes or were silent.

Gov. Robert F. Bennett of Kansas was elected chairman of the Republican Governors Association, and Gov. Robert D. Ray of Iowa became vice chairman.

Bennett said "the funeral that was scheduled for the Republican party today will not be held." He said Republicans "will be spoiling for a fight in 1978 and will be fit for victory in 1980."

Mary Louise Smith, the resigning national chairman, told Republican governors Monday that she is exploring the possibility of setting up "a policy committee of Republican leaders whose specific task would be to harness ideas and set directions."

That was the concept of the Republican Coordinating Committee, which charted GOP policy when Lyndon B. Johnson was president.

It included congressional leaders, including Ford, governors, former presidential nominees and other party officials, and spanned GOP ideology from right to left.

That was not the only familiar formula advanced on Monday as GOP governors, only 12 of them surviving, discussed the Republican plight and future.

The governors and other party leaders spent Monday talking of broadening GOP appeal, shelving ideological disputes and turning to a master organizer to lead rebuilding efforts for the next election.

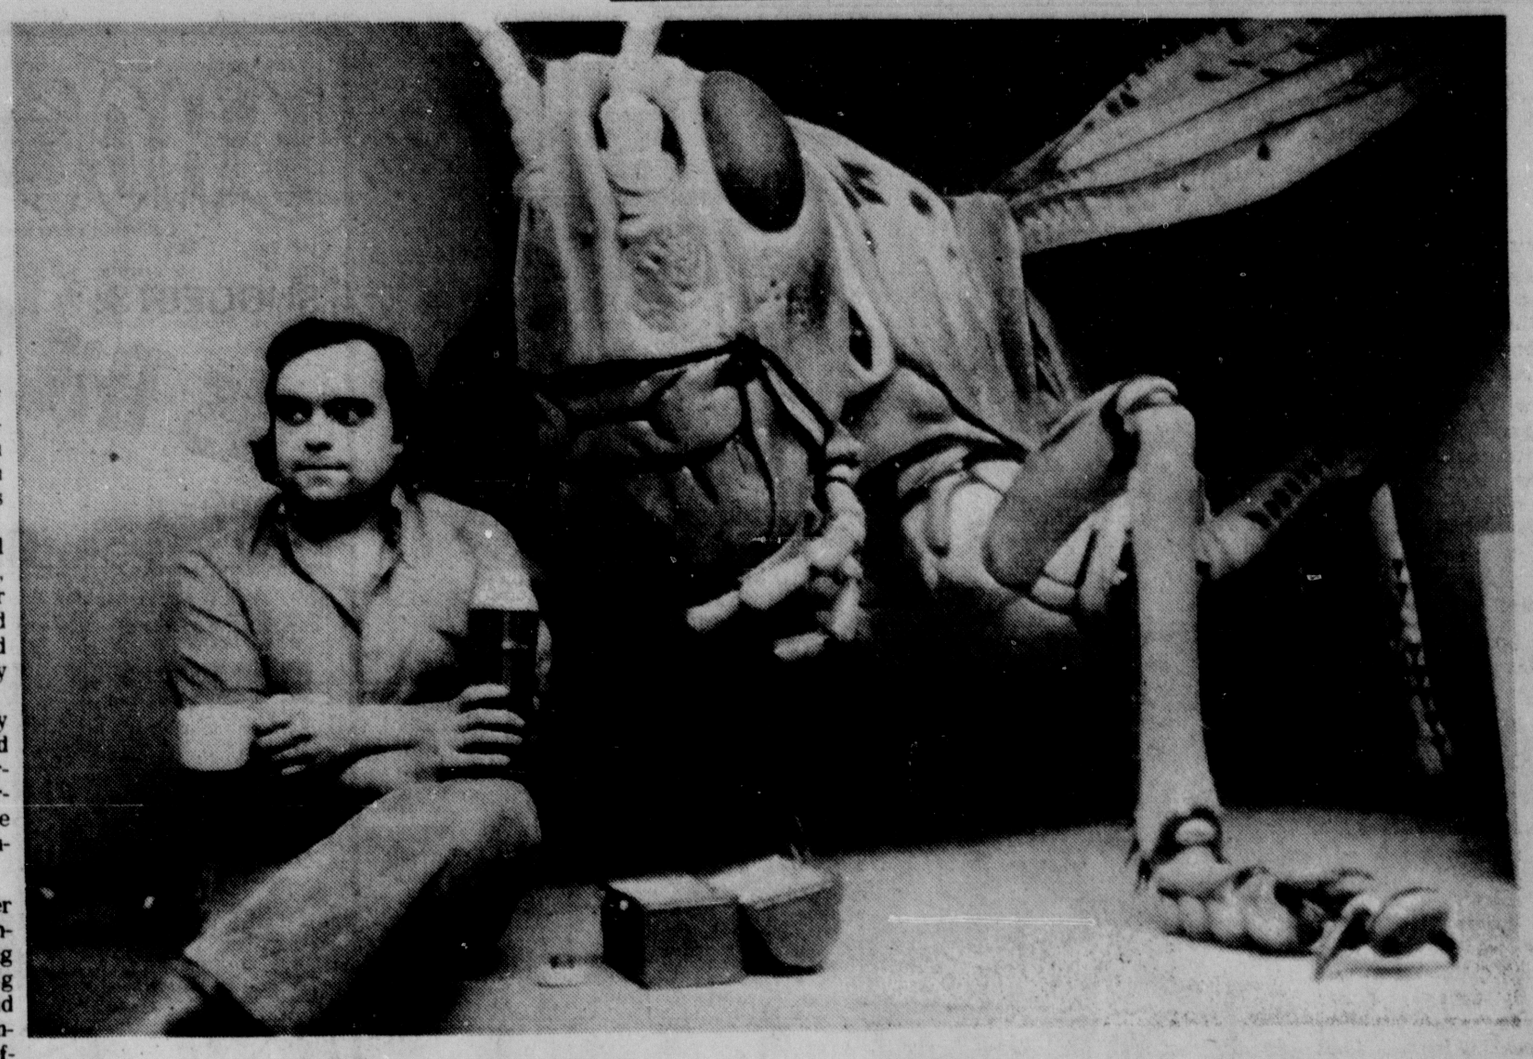

In similar circumstances 12 years ago, their predecessors settled on much the same prescription. There were 17 Republican governors then, and Sen. Barry Goldwater had just lost a landslide to Johnson.

"The basic problem here is to broaden the base. That's the thing to be dealt with," said George Romney, the former Michigan governor, who was on hand Monday as he was in 1964.

Now, as then, the Republicans are in need of a new national party chairman and, as before, the governors want a voice in the selection.

John B. Connally, the Republican convert who once was a Democratic governor of Texas, told them the GOP needs a spokesman at the party helm, then added at a corridor news conference that he might be available for the job.

He sounded more than willing, although he insisted he is not campaigning for the chairmanship.

Marines in KKK protected

CAMP PENDLETON (AP) — The Marine Corps said Tuesday it is protecting six leathernecks who are members of the Ku Klux Klan as a result of an attack on white Marines by armed blacks.

A base spokesman said that four white Marines were put in the brig for their own protection the night of Nov. 13 and that a fifth joined the group Nov. 15. A day later, a sixth Marine asked for protective custody.

Maj. Gen. Carl Hoffman, commanding general of the giant base, confirmed on Monday a claim by the KKK in Louisiana that the Marines belong to the white-supremacy group.

MET IN PATROL CAR — Officers Joe Povelaitis and Katherine Bridges shared a patrol car in Brooklyn for two months and when officer Bridges was reassigned to the Bronx, they decided they couldn't stand the separation. So they went to City Hall and got married.

Officers an off-duty team after sharing patrol car

NEW YORK (AP) — A police team who shared a patrol car in Brooklyn for two months liked it so much they've become an off-duty team as well.

Officer Joe Povelaitis and Officer Katherine Bridges disclosed Monday that when reassignment sent Officer Bridges to the Bronx they couldn't stand the separation.

So they went down to City Hall last Wednesday and got married.

Katherine, on the force three years, was laid off for 13 months because of the fiscal crisis, but rehired last August.

She recalled her first meeting with Joe during roll call, when "he just looked at me and smiled in a certain way and I thought he was just another cop trying to put the make on me."

But another policewoman told her Joe was a real gentleman, so that night before their midnight tour together, she "put on makeup for the first time.

"On that type of tour you don't really care if you look like blah," she said, "but with Joe it was different."

"She has been a very, very good partner," said Joe. "The last two months have been the best I had during my 10 years in the department."

Copter crash kills woman

GLEN IVY (AP) — A woman has been killed when the private helicopter she was riding in crashed and burned after hitting a power line near here.

The woman, Avis Barnes, 67, was a passenger in the copter piloted by Richard Cunningham, who was hospitalized in fair condition.

Lawford returns to hospital

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Peter Lawford has returned to UCLA Medical Center Hospital because of severe pains in a leg injured accidentally during filming last month, officials said.

Lawford, readmitted Monday, was hurt Oct. 22 on the set of "Fantasy Island" when actress Carol Lynley hurled a glass as part of a scene. A piece of the glass broke off and hit the actor in the left leg, requiring hospitalization and 15 stitches.

Milan burglary loss placed at $5 to 6 million

MILAN, Italy (AP) — Burglars who stole an estimated $5 million to $6 million in gold, jewels and money from safe-deposit boxes at a Milan bank had their own generator to operate the blow torches used to open the armored room, police said Tuesday.

"The underworld is increasingly resorting to technologically advanced equipment against which traditional antitheft devices are useless," said Police Chief Umberto Pagnozzi.

The burglars, believed to number between six and 10, broke into the Lombardy Province Savings Bank over the weekend and looted about 450 safe-deposit boxes. Bank officials estimated the value at $5 million to $6 million.

"The loot could be higher. But we will never know for sure. Contents of boxes are secret and many customers will never disclose what they have lost," said Giorgio Bassetti, a bank officer.

Two similarly audacious raids were made on safe-deposit vaults of branches of a French bank last summer in Nice and Paris. What has been dubbed the "sewer gang" made its way through the sewers of Nice in rafts in mid-July and tunneled into the vault, then spent a weekend rifling an estimated $8 million to $10 million worth of cash and valuables.

A month later, a gang used the same technique to take about $5 million from safe-deposit boxes at the Societe Generale branch on the Ile St. Louis in Paris.

It was a mystery how the thieves entered the Milan bank, known in Italian as the Cassa di Risparmio delle Provincie Lombarde, and how they remained unnoticed during what must have been a long stay. The bank doors were found undamaged when employes reopened the bank Monday, leading police to speculate that the gang had duplicate keys.

"The thieves must have spent several hours inside as they left behind empty bottles and partly eaten sandwiches. They acted at ease," said Chief Pagnozzi.

Investigators said the burglars left no firm clues in what could be the largest bank theft ever in Italy.

"We can only hope that a member of the gang takes a false step," said one investigator.

Dozens of customers rushed to the bank offices Monday and Tuesday after learning of the burglary. Some fainted when told they had been robbed of all their valuables.

Other customers charged that there had been insufficient security.

"I rented a box in the bank to be safe against thieves. They struck the bank, too. Where can we take our valuables? Where can they be safely deposited?" asked 77-year-old Maddalena Parise.

"They could not stay unoticed inside the bank for one or two days. What were the watchmen doing over the weekend," asked another customer.

A bank official said the watchmen were probably deceived by the sight of the undamaged outside doors.

Most of the box holders will get little compensation as the bank had each box insured for only $1,200. Only a few customers had insured the contents for larger amounts because it involves a lot of red tape, including frequent checks by a notary, bank sources said.

Italians, like the French who suffered losses in safe-deposit robberies, are reluctant to reveal the contents of their boxes for tax and other reasons.

"I will get practically nothing for jewels which were worth at least 50 million lire ($60,000)," said one customer.

Bank sources reported the thieves also took away foreign currency and some gold in addition to jewels and cash in lire.

However, customers would hardly report the disappearance of foreign currency and gold as their possession is illegal under present Italian banking laws.

Russians warn U.S. they will take trade elsewhere

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union's foreign trade minister Tuesday warned that the growth of U.S.-Soviet commerce is threatened by American-imposed trade barriers and he threatened to take business elsewhere.

U.S. Treasury Secretary William E. Simon also called for a removal of trade barriers at the annual meeting of the three-year-old U.S.-U.S.S.R. Trade and Economic Council.

"The whole U.S.-Soviet trade (situation) is fettered by trade and credit legislation," said the Soviet minister, Nikolai S. Patolichev. "We assume our trade with you should be free from all restraints not having to do with trade activities," he said.

The Soviet minister referred indirectly to the refusal by the U.S. Congress in 1974 to grant the Soviets most-favored-nation trading status and special credits because of Soviet emigration policies.

Simon, restating the position of the outgoing Ford administration which tried unsuccessfully to get Congress to lift trade barriers, said: "I am convinced (the barriers) serve neither the political nor humanitarian interests of our country."

He said there was evidence to suggest that Soviet orders had fallen off and that "the trade increase in 1976 may be difficult to sustain without a determined effort on both sides."

Patolichev said "under pressure of this legislation the backlog of our orders in the United States has begun to shrink. This means that if next year and in the coming years the situation is not made good, the export of machinery and equipment to the U.S.S.R. will hardly exceed the level attained this year."

"If we do not move fast (on removing trade barriers), we will develop our trade with other countries. This is natural and understandable," Patolichev said. The Soviet Union's biggest trading partner is now West Germany, followed by the United States, France, Japan and Finland.

Patolichev estimated U.S.-Soviet trade will amount to $2.7 billion this year, $700 million more than in 1975 and almost twice as much in 1974. Most of this year's increase results from quadrupled U.S. agricultural exports, especially grain. The balance of U.S.-Soviet trade favored the United States by $1.58 billion in the first eight months of 1976, according to U.S. figures.

Some U.S. business specialists believe the granting of most-favored-nation trading status, which would make Soviet products cheaper in the United States, is of only marginal value. They believe few Soviet products would be immediately attractive on the American market.

But the preferred status is a precondition under U.S. law for awarding additional U.S. government credits to help a foreign country buy American products. Such additional credits, U.S. businessmen say, would increase Soviet purchases from the United States.

More than 200 American businessmen who trade with the Soviet Union are involved with the council, supported jointly by Soviet organizations and American companies engaged in East-West trade.

Hospital outlaws

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Johns Hopkins Hospital, where much of the research leading to the original Surgeon General's report on smoking took place, has banned cigarette machines and prohibited doctors, nurses and students from smoking in patient care areas.

White House up for sale

LA PORTE, Tex. (AP) — Paul Barkley sat on the south portico of the White House and watched two oil tankers slide silently along the horizon of Galveston Bay.

A small flock of kildeer darted up from the salt grass and vanished west toward a pall of haze covering Houston, 30 miles away.

The White House in question is a 50-year-old copy of the real thing and is up for sale for $415,000, less than half what it cost its first owner.

The home, built in 1926 by former Texas Gov. Ross Sterling, sits on five acres of land with 507 feet of waterfront on Galveston Bay. Murky water laps on a sandy beach and the wind blows clear and cool each day, eliminating the need for air conditioning.

The house is about three-fifths the size of the Washington White House, containing three floors and 34 rooms. The second floor includes nine bedrooms and nine baths. Over-all, there are 15 all-tile bathrooms, seven fireplaces and three kitchens.

Barkley, a 76-year-old Texan who made his money in banking, pipelines and investments, bought the building in 1961 "as an investment. Never really thought about living here you know, with 21,000 square feet of space under the roof. But I guess the wife and I fell in love with the place. It is just too much now to keep up as we are both growing older. It should be perfect for someone who wants a great place to give parties and, by golly, we have done that many a night."

Barkley and his wife have played host for the local Catholic church bingo games, groups of fraternity boys from a nearby college, astronauts from the Johnson Space Center and the Houston opera company.

Barkley is proud of the house and he wants it to go to someone who will appreciate it. "It's not just as selling the White House of somebody saying they own it. It's seeing this place taken care of and people remembering the history and keeping it a part of the Texas legend," he said.

According to local folklore, the legend began when Sterling pulled a $20 bill from his wallet and told the architect of his house: "Make it look like this."

Sterling, who founded Humble Oil Co., now Exxon, paid $1.4 million for the house. As time passed, Sterling lost some of his money and in 1946, he gave the house to the Houston Optimist Club which had acquired 200 acres of land nearby and which used the property as a home for wayward boys.

Barkley bought the house from the Optimist Club for an undisclosed sum and set about repairing the damage done by 70 young boys.

He enjoys showing visitors the improvements he has made over the years and brags about the fact that he has furnished the mansion with leftovers from other homes, giveaways from friends and even "a few things from the Salvation Army."

"If I were younger," Barkley said, "I would try to furnish the place with antiques. Not now. It is too much of a burden. The school property taxes alone are $3,000 a year."

Much of the restoration has been the work of Bertha Russell, hired by Barkley in 1961 to paint and repair the house. She now serves as caretaker during the week while Barkley and his wife are in Houston.

Although Barkley won't say what he paid for the house, he claims he has spent more in repairs than he did in buying the mansion.

Asked if he would miss the big parties he used to give there, he said: "Not really, but I will miss fixing up the place."

Redistribution of world's wealth 'inevitable'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Industrialized nations are living in a doomed "fool's paradise" marked by over-consumption of limited natural resources, says a leading oil company executive.

Robert O. Anderson, board chairman and chief executive officer of Atlantic Richfield Co., told a World Wildlife Fund seminar attended by about 200 people Monday that a new economic order restructuring the distribution of the world's wealth is inevitable.

"We are living, I'm afraid, in a fool's paradise," Anderson said. "On a global basis, looking ahead we see redistribution, even painful redistribution, is going to be the order of the day."

The seminar was a part of the Fourth International Congress for the WWF, a prestigious international conservation organization convening for the first time in the U.S.

About 650 persons from more than 35 countries are attending, including Crown Prince Harald of Norway. The meetings are a forum for a wide spectrum of conservation issues, including efforts to reclaim natural resources and to protect endangered species, from man to the Javan rhinoceros.

Jack Mundey, an Australian labor union leader, joined Anderson as a seminar panelist Monday. He criticized those who look upon conservation as a preoccupation of the elite.

"It is not a middle class issue," said Mundey, spokesman of the 40,000 member Builders' Laborers Federation. "The enlightened working class has the right, the responsibility to intervene in the protection of the environment."

In 1971, the federation became involved in a "Green Ban" movement, in which trade unionists refused to work on projects threatening the environment.

In Sydney, workers joined a community protest to preserve a natural bushland area, Mondey said. In New South Wales, workers refused to demolish 25,000 homes to make way for a freeway system.

Another panelist was Abdlatif Y. Al-Hamad, director-general of the Kuwait Fund for Arab Economic Development.

Bush says public doesn't have right to know what's in CIA budget

SACRAMENTO (AP) — CIA Director George Bush says Congress has a right to know what is in the CIA budget, but the public doesn't.

"Every single penny of the CIA budget is reported to the proper committees of Congress," Bush said in a speech Monday before a Sacramento businessmen's club.

But, he said, that spending figure is "not going to be, as long as I'm director, reported to the people, because I don't believe that you can lay out innermost details of our intelligence and still have an intelligence capability that's meaningful," Bush told 700 members of Sacramento's Comstock Club.

"There's a myth abroad that nobody knows, except for the director and maybe the President, how much money the CIA spends," Bush said.

That is not true, Bush said, adding that seven congressional committees review either spending or program proposals of the CIA.

He said less than two per cent of the CIA budget is spent on covert activities, and that those activities are now approved in advance by both congressional and administration oversight agencies.

The rest of the budget is spent on intelligence-gathering about nuclear proliferation and other military subjects, international drug traffic, terrorism and other subjects on which the government must be informed, Bush said.

On another subject, Bush told reporters the CIA hadn't withheld any information from the Warren Commission that investigated the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, and was cooperating with a congressional investigation of the assassination.

"I've talked to Sen. (Richard) Schweiker (chairman of the congressional investigation) and others on the matter and they feel they've received full cooperation from us," Bush said.

The Washington Post said last Friday that the CIA gave the FBI and the Warren Commission only part of the transcript of a telephone call Lee Harvey Oswald reportedly made from the Cuban embassy in Mexico City eight weeks before the assassination.

Bush also said a law is needed to prevent former CIA agents and others from revealing agency secrets, but he did not specify exactly what kind of restrictions or penalties he would support.

Bush, who plans to leave the CIA at the end of President Ford's term in January, said he has met four times with Jimmy Carter and that he does not expect the Democratic President-elect to make any major change in CIA operatations when he takes office.

"It is my instinctive feeling that he (Carter) understands the need for a very strong intelligence capability," he said.

"Although I have no information to base this on, I haven't seen any indication there will be a radical restructuring of the intelligence community" by the Carter administration, Bush added.

GEORGE BUSH

Bush refused to discuss foreign policy, politics or the sources or methods of the CIA, but he attacked CIA critics, including former agents, for revealing information about agents and sources.

He said there has been "a handful of things over many administrations that went wrong," but he said most charges against the CIA are irresponsible and untrue.

Bush criticized former CIA agents, the "leftist press" and others who have revealed sources and details of CIA operations. He said there are no effective laws against such disclosures, so legislation is needed.

"Secrecy is required to protect our methods, our American officers and their contacts in foreign lands, and to protect our relationship with friendly foreign intelligence services," he said.

When i see a book or article that deliberately exposes our operations and relations with other governments, that deliberately names our people and their contacts, I have nothing but contempt for those authors. Nothing could be more damaging to the interests of our nation and our national security than this kind of irresponsible expose," Bush said.

Ex-GI possesses Mussolini medals

SAN DIEGO (AP) — An ex-GI says he cut five medals from the jacket of Benito Mussolini on the day the Italian dictator was shot to death on April 28, 1945.

For 31 years, Joel Woodworth says, he hid the medals and has them now in a bank safe deposit box.

The medals are uninsured because insurance companies want a five-figure fee and regard them as irreplaceable, Woodworth said in showing them to reporters Sunday.

He was on a scouting foray into Milan in the closing days of World War II and came upon "a wild street scene," he recalled.

Thousands of persons were milling around in the Piazza Loreto town square. In the middle, Woodworth found the bodies of Mussolini and his 25-year-old mistress, Claretta Petacci. Italian partisans had shot them along with 16 other Fascists and had brought the bodies by truck from the village of Dongo on Lake Como.

With a bowie knife, Woodworth said he hacked off the medals and a tiny crucifix from Mussolini's uniform. He said he took photographs of the bodies.

The keepsakes will be saved for a relative who chose a career in the Army, said Woodworth, who enlisted at age 17 in Sacramento in 1939 and spent 49 months overseas.

Mayors square off

Houston and Detroit: a tale of two cities

By JONATHAN WOLMAN
AP Urban Affairs Writer

Houston vs. Detroit. It is the space age versus the auto age; a battle between cities — for jobs and industry, for people and prosperity.

Sparks are flying between two mayors whose cities embody the disparity between the thriving Sun Belt cities and the aging, deteriorating urban industrial centers of the North.

Fred Hofheinz — white, well-educated and wealthy — is mayor of one of the nation's fastest growing cities. The sixth largest city in the nation, Houston will be No. 5 as soon as the census people get around to saying so.

Coleman Young — black, street-smart and blue collar — is mayor of the community hit hardest by unemployment, 20 per cent last month. Detroit, fifth largest city in the nation for decades, is about to become No. 6 as thousands flee to the suburbs and the Sun Belt.

Speaking in Chicago earlier this month, Hofheinz and Young unloaded their disparate views of American cities. The U.S. Conference of Mayors billed the face-off as "Two Perspectives."

The two mayors have been exchanging barbs — sometimes amiably, sometimes not — for a while now. Hofheinz has said of Houston, "Here people can still reach the American dream. It is the new Detroit, the new New York. This is where the action is."

Young, attacking a Hofheinz proposal to distribute revenue-sharing funds according to population, rather than according to economic factors, has described the sparring as "the greedy vs. the needy."

In Chicago, Hofheinz said sound government organization was a key factor in Houston's success. Young talked about declining urban economies and said federal policies were partly responsible. An edited summary of their remarks provides a guide to the sometimes conflicting interests of American mayors:

Hofheinz:

"Houston (and other cities in the South and the Southwest) have not made the mistakes that many other cities have made. We have avoided the suburban syndrome.

"In 1958, the legislature passed a law that permits local governments in Texas to draw a line five miles around their perimeters exclusively for annexation purposes. Since 1958, there have been no meaningful (suburban) incorporations here . . Houston provides inner city services for the entire metropolitan area, and most of the area is paying for them ..."

"Houston has prospered because of the prudence and moderation of city government."

Later, Young:

"I really don't want to make lightly of the good management and the good future that has befallen Houston, but it doesn't hurt to wake up one morning and find your central city park has got several million dollars of oil.

"No question, that's prudent and good management.

"And it doesn't hurt to have a President (Lyndon B. Johnson) who remembers what his home state was and set up such things as the space center. It doesn't hurt to be the recipient of planned federal economic policy."

"That's why I think it's important that we discuss establishment of an urban investment fund in much the same manner as the federal government in the '30s addressed itself to (helping) a South, that same Sun Belt that we talk about today, that was wallowing in poverty."

"Now I guess prudence and good management must be a cyclical type of thing, because 25 or 30 years ago, Detroit, New York, Philadelphia, San Francisco were suffering, if you want to put it that way, with inmigration from the South.

"We had the booming industry. We had the bulging general funds.

"In fact, at the root of many of our problems today is the fact that those migrants came from all parts of the country, came from agriculture, came from the South, and are still with us, in the (Northern) cities ...."

Hofheinz, explaining the "philosophy of government" in the Lone Star State, said:

"Local governments have tried to do too much with the property tax. There are limits to what you can accomplish.

"In Houston and in other Texas cities we are willing to spend property taxes for city services, but only for basic city services like fire and police protection, streets and sewers. Not for higher education. Not for welfare matching. Not for a wide range of social service functions that many other cities use property taxes to accomplish."

"The result (of this tax policy) has produced, in Houston, annually, a budget surplus (of $18 million last year) in every year of the city's existence.

"In my judgment, this kind of financial solvency, and this kind of (resulting) low taxes on city government, has been a primary reason for the growth of my city and many other cities" in the Sun Belt.

And Hofheinz added:

"To take advantage of our financial success, individuals and businesses from all over the country are moving to Houston, and they are moving to cities all over the Sun Belt.

"It is migration that has brought us a transfusion of a large number of very industrious people. Some of them are from Detroit, in fact two young police officers in the last class."

Young, whose city is losing industry and people both to the South and the suburbs, said:

"We're faced with an exodus of business, an exodus of the middle-class population.

"There are some who would say that this is a natural phenomenon, a natural social and economic development. I don't think that that is true when you consider that this exodus was made possible with our money, money to construct expressways that cut into the heart of our tax base, that truncated our communities and our businesses, and offered an invitation for our residents to leave.

"It was a planned governmental approach. It was public policy to build expressways facilitating the exodus. It was public policy for HUD and other housing agencies to insure mortgages out in the suburbs as opposed to the city."

Hofheinz, who like Young and most other American mayors is looking for more money from Washington, said:

"Just as outmigration brings problems to Detroit, inmigration has brought trouble to Houston.

"... We have our blight, we have our areas of decay. But because of the annexation, our problems get lost in the average."

He concluded:

"We are not getting the (federal) help to deal with the growth syndrome that other cities get to deal with contraction."

Young, in reply:

"If you will review the contributions, contributions that the average city makes to the federal government as against the tax monies of all kinds received from that federal government, you would see that revenue sharing is more of an objective than a reality.

"On a statewide basis, for instance, Michigan ranks eighth in sending money to Washington. It rates 50th in receiving money back.

"I would submit that we should have a program for every city in America including Houston. And as soon as Hofheinz turns in Houston's budget surplus to the general fund, I'll be willing to support him getting some revenue sharing."

Almanac

By The Associated Press

Today is Wednesday, Dec. 1, the 336th day of 1976. There are 30 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1918, the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes united to form Yugoslavia.

On this date —

In 1824, an American election was turned over to the House of Representatives after a deadlock developed among four candidates — John Quincy Adams, Andrew Jackson, William Crawford and Henry Clay.

In 1909, an innovation in banking — the Christmas club — was first tried by a bank in Carlisle, Pa.

In 1944, the World War II battle for the Saar Basin in Germany began.

In 1945, a mutual security pact was signed by the United States and the Chinese Nationalist government on Formosa.

In 1958, a fire in a parochial school in Chicago took the lives of 87 students and three Roman Catholic nuns.

In 1965, 75 Cuban refugees were flown to Miami by the U.S., beginning an exodus of thousands of Cubans permitted to flee their Communist-governed homeland.

Ten years ago: Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin and French President Charles de Gaulle met in Paris, and de Gaulle hailed the meeting as new evidence of French-Soviet cooperation for the good of the world.

Five years ago: Indian troops moving into East Pakistan cut the only rail line into the northwest sector.

One year ago: President Ford was conferring with Chinese officials in Peking.

Today's birthdays: Actress Mary Martin is 63. Comedian Woody Allen is 41.

Thought for today: The older I grow, the more apt I am to doubt my judgment. — Benjamin Franklin, 1706-1790.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, George Washington, retreating across New Jersey, reported to the Continental Congress that he could not halt the enemy at the Raritan River and had started moving stores toward Philadelphia.

Bridge by Jacobys

By OSWALD & JAMES JACOBY

Playing at six spades, South has no trouble at all. East takes his ace of spades at trick one and that is all the tricks the defenders can even come close to.

Six notrump makes just as easily.

Which is the better contract? Six notrump will fail if East holds four diamonds to the jack. A spade declarer would have no worries about that provided spades broke 3-2, so that he could draw trumps and ruff one diamond. With spades as trumps there are possible ruffs in case one defender holds a singleton, the suit is led and partner holds the ace of trumps and can give a ruff. That doesn't matter. Either contract is a good one, but there is practically no way to get to six notrump. Seventeen points opposite 12 with only one five-card suit is just not supposed to produce a notrump slam.

This hand is given here to show how much better modern bidding — even simple modern bidding is than 1930 bidding.

You don't have to be an expert to reach that six-spade contract, once you respond one spade. Back in that 1930 final match both South players made the 1930 response of two notrump. Both North players raised to three notrump. No one bid spades and no one thought of a slam.

Ask the Jacobys

An Ohio reader wants to know if it is a good idea to concede a one bid in rubber bridge when it does not give declarer game.

We don't think so. Contracts of one are likely to be very interesting and you can get lots of fun out of playing many of them.

Reduce your income tax with Retirement Plans available at First Federal.

For those not covered by a qualified pension plan (IRA)
Here is a real opportunity to save tax-sheltered dollars for retirement, if you are not already covered by a qualified retirement plan. The Individual Retirement Plan allows you to put 15% of your earned income ($1,500 maximum) each year into a special high-interest savings account and deduct the total amount from your income tax return. You pay no income tax on this money, or on the interest it earns, until you withdraw. If withdrawn after retirement, your tax would normally be lower than now.

For the self-employed (Keogh, HR-10)
If you are self-employed, you can set up a similar type of retirement plan that enables you to save up to $7,500 per year (15% of net income) tax-deductible until withdrawn. After retirement, you would normally be in a lower tax bracket.

Act now before it's too late.
In order to take advantage of these plans on your 1976 income tax return, you must set up your Retirement Plan by December 31. And this year, we will absorb the trustee fee, so contact your nearest First Federal Savings office now.

For nutrition, flavor

Pork, peanut casserole tip

It was Dr. George Washington Carver (1864-1943) who first appreciated the nutritional benefits of the peanut. Working in his laboratory at Tuskegee Institute on the problem of finding more uses for some of our food plants, this noted black scientist did many experiments with the peanut plant. In addition to discovering over 200 uses for the peanut, he found nutritive qualities that had not been realized fully before.

Peanuts are one of the most nutritious foods known. While usually eaten by the handful, a pound of the nuts would supply 1½ times the recommended daily protein allowance and enough calories to fulfill the daily energy allownace for a grown man. However, it is not necessary to eat a pound of peanuts a day. Even snack quantities supply large amounts of protein, niacin, riboflavin and other important food elements.

For general enjoyment and good nutrition nothing beats peanuts as a snack, but they also add interest to everyday meals when used as a recipe ingredient. Suggested here is a delicious casserole made with peanuts, ground pork, pineapple, rice and seasonings.

PORK AND PEANUT CASSEROLE
Makes 4 servings

1 pound lean ground pork
½ cup chopped onion
2 cloves garlic, minced
2 tablespoons Planters Peanut Oil
1 can (8-ounce) pineapple slices
Water
1 tablespoon cornstarch
½ cup chopped Planters Cocktail Peanuts
¼ cup chopped parsley
2 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon ground coriander
½ teaspoon pepper
2 cups cooked rice

In a large skillet, brown pork, onion and garlic in peanut oil, crumbling meat as it cooks.

Set aside pineapple slices; add water to syrup to make 1 cup. Blend in cornstarch. Stir into meat mixture along with peanuts, parsley, sugar, salt, coriander and pepper. Cook, stirring, until thickened and boiling.

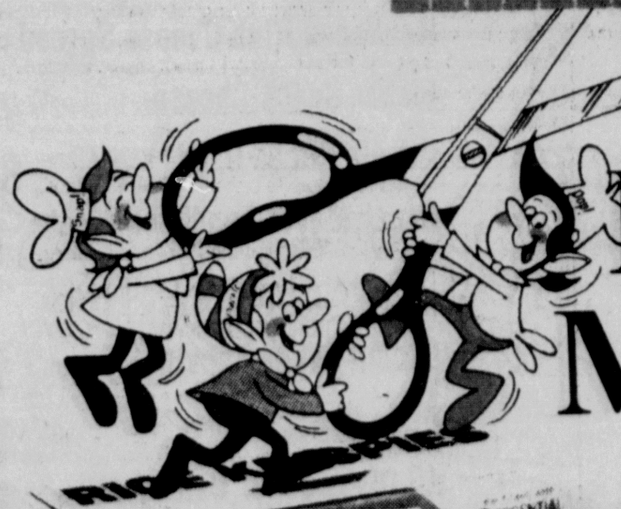

Spoon rice into a 1½ quart casserole. Place pineapple slices over rice reserving one for garnish. Top with meat mixture. Cut up remaining pineapple slice and place over meat. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 minutes. Garnish with additional peanuts.

when you put Rice Krispies in your Marshmallow Treats.

'Tis the season to enjoy an extra savings on Kellogg's Rice Krispies and extra-good Holiday eating with Marshmallow Treats. This delicious, crunchy confection takes only minutes to make. Requires no baking. Uses just three tasty ingredients: Rice Krispies, marshmallows and margarine. So, clip the coupon and easy recipe. Put a dime in your pocket and tasty Marshmallow Treats on your Holiday table.

MARSHMALLOW TREATS

½ cup regular margarine or butter
1 pkg. (6 to 10 oz.) regular marshmallows, about 40, OR 4 cups miniature marshmallows
5 cups KELLOGG'S RICE KRISPIES cereal

1. Melt margarine in large saucepan over low heat. Add marshmallows and cook, stirring constantly, until marshmallows are melted and mixture is very syrupy. Remove from heat.
2. Add Rice Krispies cereal. Stir until well coated.
3. Using buttered spatula or waxed paper, press mixture evenly and firmly in buttered 13 x 9 x 2-inch pan. Cut into squares when cool.

Yield: 24 squares, 2 x 2 inches

NOTE: For thicker squares, press warm mixture into buttered 9 x 9 x 2-inch pan. Best results are obtained when using fresh marshmallows. About 2 cups marshmallow crème may be substituted for marshmallows. Add to melted margarine and cook over low heat about 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Proceed as directed in step 2 above.

Tequila spirited Mexican refreshment

There's a little cafe on the main plaza in Taxco, Mexico's quaint silver-mining town and national landmark high in the hills south of Mexico City, that's called Berta's (pronounced Bare-tah's). There surrounded by a 19th century sleepiness and charm, one can sit idly for hours, watching people move through the Plaza, or contemplating the extraordinary Santa Prisca cathedral with its magnificent blue dome and intricate spires dominating the square to the right — all the while sipping a refreshing "Berta" and snacking on scrumptious house specialties.

A "Berta" is made with Tequila and lemon juice and soda, and is as soothing as a collins but tastier — proof positive that Tequila is as sophisticated as any northern spirit.

In fact, Tequila, like many Mexican foods and beverages, is versatile and often underestimated in its translation north-of-the-border. Straight Tequila can be enjoyed in the same fashion as vodka, gin, or rye or Bourbon for that matter. A good brand of silver, the most consumed of all Tequila, or the rich, aged gold Tequila, are exquisite in mixed drinks, with soda, or on the rocks — or taken in the traditional Mexican manner with a pinch of salt and a bit of lime with each sip. And fine Tequila does wonders for food.

"Fine Tequila is like any other fine spirit," emphasizes Dan Francisco Javier Sauza, director of Tequila Sauza, S.A., Mexico's largest and oldest distillery and a family business for four generations.

"Only four brands of Tequila sold in the U.S. are sold in Mexico. The rest are sent in bulk to the U.S. where they are often cut with water and bottled," notes Don Francisco Sauza, "This does not mean those bottled outside Mexico are not good. Some may be; many are not. One must choose carefully, learning origins and history as with any other food or beverage."

After all, he explains, Tequila was made in the Americas long before Bourbon, rye, gin, or vodka. And Sauza Tequila has been produced under the supervision of the same family for over a century.

Made from a type of mexcal plant called the agave azul tequilana that only grows in the Mexican state of Jalisco whose capital is Guadalajara, the agave is harvested when eight to 12 years old. The leaves are sheared off the mature plant (approximately five feet in height) leaving an enormous pineapple-like heart from which juice is extracted for fermentation and distillation.

Originally, the agave went through an elaborate cooking process in stone pits that took 72 hours. afterwards the cooked hearts were pressed by one- to three-ton circular stones drawn by oxen or mules. Then workers would move the pulp with feet and hands in large vats to loosen the sugar. Fermentation took about six days, after which a double distillation process occurred in the stills.

Today, Tequila is made with traditional skill and modern equipment, and the 73-year-old Don Francisco Sauza is acknowledged as the father of this modernization, having introduced revolutionary changes in processing in the 1920s.

In 1914, the name of the spirit was changed from brandy of mexcal to Tequila after the town in Jalisco in which most distillation occurs. And Mexicans have incorporated this spirit into as many different drinks as exist for spirits else

In recent years, the use of Tequila in foods and beverages outside Mexico has flourished, and understandably so. But for a positive introduction to Tequila, good recipes with good Tequila are a must.

Below are a few standards — the "Margarita" and the "Tecali" — as well as more recent arrivals — the "Tequila Sunrise," "Sunset," and "Sangrita". Also included are a Tequila dip and a special Mexican dessert called "Cajeta" that can be flavored with Tequila and eaten with a spoon, poured over ice cream, or spread on bread. There are also a few other delightful fruit desserts.

The more adventurous may want to experiment and create a very personal specialty. To do so, these important tips should be kept in mind: Sauza Silver is light and dry — use it like vodka; wood-aged gold has a little more flavor but is still light, dry, and smooth — it can usually be substituted for rum or whiskey in recipes. As for the rare Conmemorativo, serve and savor it as you would a fine, aged brandy or cognac — alone.

Or for starters, try the "Berta." Imagine yourself sipping from a tall, frosted glass while the golden red Mexican sun sets behind the hills, casting shadows across Santa Prisca. Imagine the silver king, Jose de la Borda, — discoverer of Taxco's silver (and worth more than 40 million pesos when a peso was a half dollar), founder of this mining town and builder of the magnificent Santa Prisca ("God gave to Borde and Borda gives to God," he was reputed to have said) — raising his glass in toast. "Salud, dinero y amor, y tiempo para gozarlos!" (Health, money and love and time to enjoy them!")

TEQUILA SAUZA BERTA
(Taxco Special)

1 jigger lemon juice
1 jigger syrup
1½ jiggers Sauza Silver Tequila

except the Tequila, in an electric blender, and blend until smooth. If the ingredients exceed the capacity of the container, do a small quantity at a time. Chill well; then pour into Tequila glasses. Customarily, Sangritas are drunk by sipping alternately with a glass of Tequila. They are served with halved limes and salt on the side.

Many people add a little lime juice to either the Sangrita or the Tequila, or take a little suck of lime between sips.

and a few drops grenadine

Mix well and serve in a cocktail glass with cracked ice.

ACAPULCO COOLER

2 oz. Sauza Gold Tequila juice of ½ lime
pineapple juice

Fill a tall glass with ice cubes. Add the Tequila and lime juice and fill the glass with pineapple juice. Stir.

COCO LOCO

Slice off the top of a green coconut with a machete or other suitable instrument, and pour in 1 jigger of Sauza Silver Tequila. Taste; add more Tequila if the coconut has abundant water. Sip through a straw. Or if no coconut is available substitute:

1 oz. cream of coconut
1 oz. half-and-half
1 oz. club soda
1 tsp. lime or lemon juice
3 ice cubes lime slice maraschino cherry

Place ingredients through lime juice in blender and whip. Add ice and stir to chill well. Serve in tall glass garnished with lime slice and cherry.

TEQUILA DIP

1 (8oz.) package cream cheese, at room temperature
¼ cup dairy sour cream
½ tsp. lime juice
½ tsp. onion powder
1/3 tsp. salt
3 drops hot red pepper sauce
¼ cup Sauza Silver Tequila
1 tbsp. finely chopped parsley
1 tbsp. finely chopped piniento

Mash cheese. Beat in sour cream, lime juice, onion powder, salt and hot pepper sauce. Slowly beat in Tequila. Add parsley and piniento. Cover and refrigerate several hours to mellow flavors. Serve with tortilla chips or small cocktail crackers or raw vegetables. Makes about 1½ cups of dip.

POR MI AMANTE
(For my Love)

2 pint boxes or 4 cups strawberries
2 cups Sauza Silver or Gold Tequila

Wash the strawberries; drain thoroughly; then hull. Cut in half, and place in an air-tight jar. Add the Tequila, which should cover the fruit, and seal the jar. Refrigerate for a minimum of 3 weeks. Strain. This pink and fragrant liqueur should be served straight and very cold.

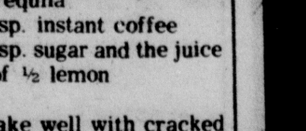

Note: Although this is probably the most delicate of all the Por Mi Amantes, the same method may be followed for other berries and fruits. With raspberries, follow the same directions. With larger fruit, such as peaches, peel and cut into very small chunks; then follow the same procedure.

An easy variation of the above is the:

PINA BORRACHA
(Drunken Pineapple)

2 cups fresh, very ripe pineapple, chopped
2 cups Sauza Gold Tequila

Place the pineapple and Tequila in a large jar; cover securely, and refrigerate for at least 24 hours. Strain, and drink as a liqueur.

MORNING COFFEE
Coconut Crumb Bars
Coffee

COCONUT CRUMB BARS

Easy to make, easy to serve.

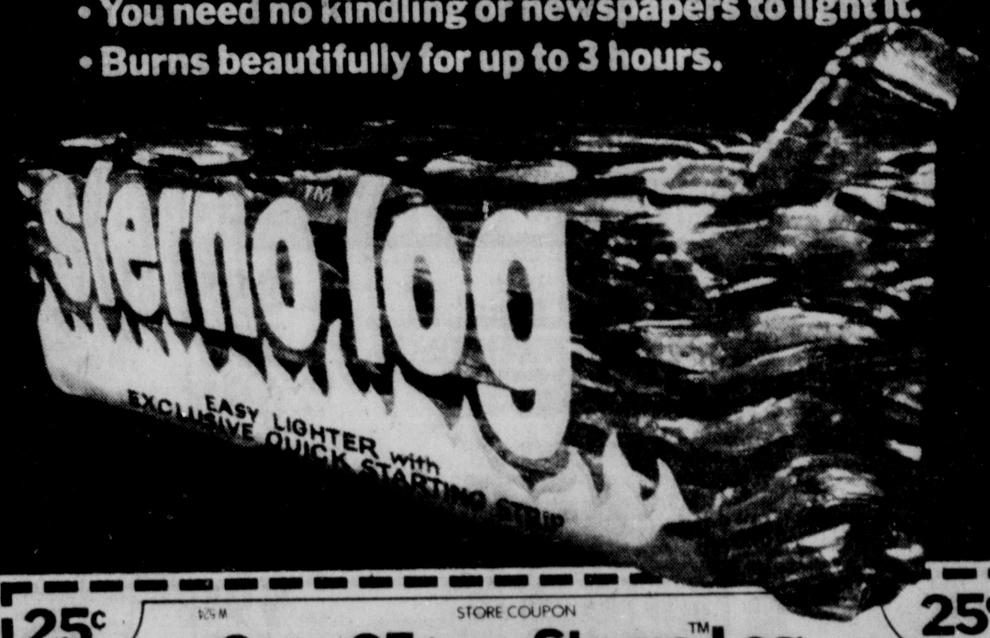

¾ cup butter or margarine
¾ cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
6 eggs
1 package 12 (12 ounces) vanilla wafers, very finely crushed (about 3¼ cups crumbs)
1 can (3½ ounces) flaked coconut
1 cup finely chopped walnuts

In the large bowl of the electric mixer, cream butter, sugar and vanilla. At low speed, beat in eggs, one at a time, alternately with crumbs. With a rubber spatula, fold in the coconut and nuts. Turn into a well-greased 9 by 9 by 2 inch cake pan. Bake in a preheated 325-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in the center comes out clean — about 50 minutes. Cool in pan on wire rack for about 10 minutes; cut into bars.

English raisin stuffed doughnuts top Christmas morning kid-pleaser

In the excitement of Christmas morning, as your family digs out of wrappings and ribbons, tempt them to breakfast with a treat of delicious English Raisin Stuffed Doughnuts.

Rich with a chewy raisin and orange marmalade filling, these doughnuts are guaranteed kid-pleasers. Generously dusted with powdered sugar, the goodies will suddenly disappear from the Christmas breakfast spread.

English Raisin Stuffed Doughnuts can be prepared ahead of time and frozen so that you can participate in the fun on Christmas Day, too. To freeze, wrap the doughnuts in aluminum foil or plastic wrap. Then to serve, warm them in a 350 degree F. oven for 10-15 minutes. Sprinkle the warm doughnuts again with powdered sugar to make them fresh tasting.

As a gift, these doughnuts are perfect! Use ribbons, fabric scraps, inexpensive tree ornaments and other oddments to creatively package them. For your plant-loving friends, a whole slew can fill a flower pot or indoor planter. Delivered in tin canisters, pails or practical cooking equipment, your friends receive a lasting remembrance of your delicious gift.

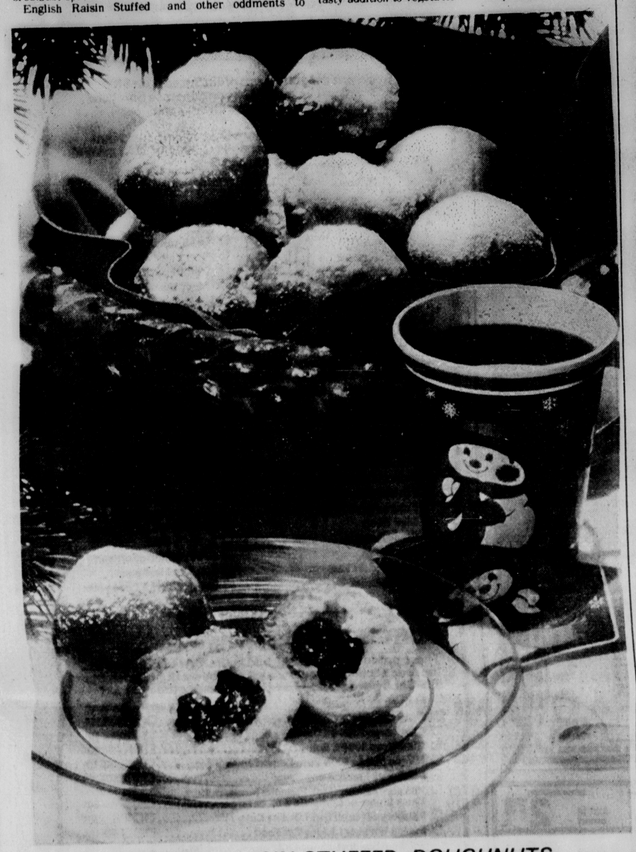

These luscious doughnuts stay moist because of their tangy raisin filling. Raisins, plump and sweet, are traditional favorites in all sorts of holiday baked goods. They also are a tasty addition to vegetable dishes and sauces. In a convenient snack pack, raisins fit nicely into the toe of a Christmas stocking. Remember, too, that raisins on their own are perfect for snacking all through the holidays.

ENGLISH RAISIN STUFFED DOUGHNUTS

1½ cups California raisins
½ cup orange marmalade
1 package dry active yeast
¼ cup warm water (110 to 115 degrees)
¾ cup milk
¼ cup sugar
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon mace or nutmeg
1 egg, beaten
3½ cups flour
Oil for deep frying
Powdered sugar

Mix together raisins and marmalade; set aside. Dissolve yeast in warm water. Scald milk; stir in sugar, butter, salt and mace. Cool to lukewarm. Combine milk mixture with yeast and egg. Mix in 3 cups flour. Knead dough on floured board, using remaining ½ cup flour, until smooth and satiny, about 5 minutes. Place dough in greased bowl; cover with damp cloth and let rise in warm place until doubled, about 1½ hours. Punch down and cut dough into 24 equal pieces. With fingers stretch each piece to 2-inch round. Place rounded teaspoon of raisin-jelly mixture in center. Pinch edges together being sure to enclose raisins completely. Smooth and roll into ball. Place slightly apart on greased baking sheet. Cover with damp cloth and let rise in warm place until doubled, about 1½ hours. Fry a few doughnuts at a time in hot oil (370 degrees) until golden brown, about 4 minutes, turning as necessary. Drain on paper towels. Dust generously with powdered sugar while warm.

Makes 2 dozen doughnuts.

Tuna pate loaf to lend aid to calorie-counters

Party time can be a difficult time for those on low-cholesterol diets because of all the cholesterol-rich appetizers and hors d'oeuvres usually offered. Most pates and spreads are off-limits to cholesterol-counters, that is, until now. Special party recipes calling for Second Nature Refrigerated Cholesterol-Free Egg Substitute allow you to put your best foot forward with all your guests, including those on prudent diets.

Easy-to-use refrigerated egg substitute removes the yolk, the highest single source of cholesterol in the daily diet, from the egg and replaces it with other natural ingredients including protein, vitamins, and minerals. And because egg substitute comes in refrigerated, not frozen form, it's conveniently used without delay.

These special recipes call for other low-cholesterol ingredients too, such as skimmed-milk cheeses and vegetable oil. And since egg substitute has 50 per cent fewer calories than regular eggs, these dishes will be welcomed by calorie-counters, too.

Because liver pate is strictly taboo on a cholesterol-lowering diet, Tuna Pate Loaf is a most satisfying substitution since it has the smooth, dense texture of a good meat pate. This hearty appetizer has the added advantage in that it can be frozen ahead of serving time. It's also a great short-notice dish, being very easy to make.

Delight cholesterol-watchers with our Cheese Ball Mimosa which uses egg substitute in a very clever way — first, it's cooked until set, then cooled and pushed through a strainer to achieve the mimosa effect. The cheese ball rolled in the sieved "egg" results in a festive touch. The colorful, cheesy spread will be appreciated by all your guests.

Deviled Party Dip is another idea "allowed" on egg limited diets. It's a special mixture rich in body and flavor that's an excellent accompaniment to assorted raw vegetables.

TUNA PATE LOAF

½ cup Second Nature Refrigerated Cholesterol-Free Egg Substitute
½ cup skim milk
2 cups soft bread crumbs (6 slices bread)
1 small onion, quartered
2/3 cup parsley leaves
teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon dry mustard
⅛ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon dried dill weed
4 teaspoons lemon juice
2 cans (6½ oz or 7 ounces each) tuna, drained

In container of electric blender, combine egg substitute, skim milk and bread crumbs. Let stand 15 minutes. Add onion, parsley, salt, dry mustard, pepper, dill weed and

With natural sweetness

Fresh fruit to replace costly cookies, candies

Recent surveys have shown that the high cost of living has forced many families to eliminate such sweets as cookies and candies from their food budgets. Peoples' diets don't really suffer from elimination of sweets, but a sweet tooth does! That's where the wholesome sweetness of fresh fruits becomes important and valuable. For instance, fresh oranges from California and Arizona are available the year 'round to provide an economical and wholesome sweet, loaded with vitamin C and natural fruit sugars. There are Valencia oranges in the spring and summer and navel oranges in the winter. Each variety provides the ideal sweet treat for breakfast, snacktime and dessert. And they're easy on calories, too, with about 65 calories per medium orange.

Another place where families are cutting corners is in entertaining. Progressive dinners have become all the rage as an alternative to expensive entertaining. They can be done in two ways. The true progressive dinner features a different course at each house — cocktails and appetizers at one, main course at the next, and dessert at the last house. Another, less rigorous way, is to have the party at one house, with each couple bringing a different course. The host house provides the main course, with each participant bringing along the other components of the meal. Either of these ideas works great for neighborhood get-togethers.

Whatever course you provide for a progressive supper, fresh citrus fruits from California and Arizona will make your part of the meal a smash hit. Here is a great selection of ideas for salad, main dish, vegetable and dessert. You're sure to have a winner with any one of them.

FRESH FRUIT SALAD PLATES
(4 servings)

2 California-Arizona oranges, peeled, sliced in cartwheels
1 apple sliced
1 pear sliced
Lettuce
Orange Honey Dressing

On four individual salad plates, arrange fruit on lettuce. Serve with Orange Honey Dressing.

Peel and slice oranges over bowl to reserve juice; sprinkle apple and pear to prevent darkening.

ORANGE HONEY DRESSING

¼ cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
2 tablespoons honey
1 tablespoon fresh grated orange peel
Dash paprika
Fresh Fruit Salad Plates

Combine mayonnaise, honey, orange peel and paprika; serve over Fresh Fruit Salad Plates. Makes about 1/3 cup.

SKILLET ORANGE CHICKEN
(4 servings)

1 broiler-fryer (about 2½ pounds), cut in serving-size pieces
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 tablespoon fresh grated orange peel
½ cup fresh squeezed orange juice
1 small onion, chopped
2 tablespoons honey
2 tablespoons water
1½ tablespoons flour
1 California-Arizona orange, peeled, cut in half-cartwheels

In large skillet, cook chicken in butter until well browned (about 15 minutes). Add orange peel, juice, onion and honey. Cover; cook over low heat 30 minutes or until tender. Remove chicken to serving dish; keep warm. Gradually blend water into flour; add to sauce. Cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Add orange half-cartwheels; serve over chicken.

LEMONY CREAMED SPINACH

4 slices bacon, cut in 1-inch pieces
1 medium onion, finely chopped
1 small clove garlic, minced
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 tablespoons flour
1¾ cups milk
2 packages (10 ounces each) frozen chopped spinach, cooked, well-drained
2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
1 teaspoon fresh squeezed lemon juice
1 teaspoon fresh grated lemon peel
½ teaspoon salt
Generous dash of pepper

In skillet, cook bacon until crisp; remove and drain. Pour off all but 1 tablespoon drippings. In same skillet, saute onion and garlic in drippings and butter until tender. Blend in flour. Cook a few minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from heat; gradually stir in milk. Cook over medium heat, stirring until thickened. Add spinach, Parmesan cheese, lemon peel and juice, cook bacon, salt and pepper; heat. Makes about 5 cups.

LEMON BLENDER COOKIES

1 California-Arizona lemon
6 tablespoons water
½ cup shortening
1 egg
1 package (about 19 ounces) yellow cake mix

Trim a thin slice from both ends of unpeeled lemon; cut in half lengthwise. With a shallow "V" shape cut remove white center core. Cut halves in small chunks. In electric blender, puree lemon chunks with water. Add shortening and egg; blend until smooth. In large bowl, combine cake mix and lemon mixture; mix well. Drop batter from teaspoon on lightly greased cookie sheets. Cool on wire racks. Makes about 5 dozen cookies.

Italian-style

Weight watchers find taste treat

A boring diet can be punishing for even the most disciplined weight-conscious individual. But the exciting taste appeal of such ethnic-style frozen meals as lasagna, ziti macaroni and veal parmigiana creates flavor-rich adventures in a weight-control program you can follow and enjoy.

Now comes a new frozen Italian-style treat that is both nutritious and appetizing. The new product in the bright pink package is Weight Watchers Cannelloni Florentine — consisting of two cannelloni style pasta made from enriched macaroni, stuffed with finely ground cooked veal and spinach and topped with mozzarella cheese in a seasoned tomato sauce.

Nutrition information printed on the face panel of the pink package lists 400 calories, 26 grams protein, 42 grams carbohydrate and 15 grams fat. Cannelloni Florentine provides 40 per cent protein of the U.S. recommended daily allowance and 60 percent in Vitamin A.

Frozen weight control meals have come a long way since the days when fish were the only meals available to consumers. For those on a weight-control program, the increasing variety of well-balanced, nutritious meals has been most welcome. In the past year, the Weight Watchers frozen meal list has grown to include such items as Turkey Dinner with Stuffing; Lasagna with cheese, veal and sauce; Ziti Macaroni with veal, cheese and sauce; and now the Cannelloni Florentine.

Nutrition information, prominently displayed on the front of packages, is a giant step forward in the cause of consumerism.

Tuna pate loaf

lemon juice. Cover and process at high speed until smooth. Remove cover and gradually add tuna, continuing to process until smooth. Pour into oiled 7¾ x 3⅝ x 2¼-inch loaf pan. Bake in 375 degree oven for 45 minutes. Remove from pan and chill. Cut into slices and serve with thinly sliced French bread.

YIELD: 12 appetizer servings

Mushroom TUNA PATE: Cook ½ pound mushrooms, sliced, in 1 tablespoon polyunsaturated margarine for 5 minutes. Add to blender along with onion and parsley.

CHEESE BALL MIMOSA

1 tablespoon polyunsaturated margarine
1 cup Second Nature Refrigerated Cholesterol-Free Egg Substitute
1 cup grated Jarlsburg or partially skimmed milk Swiss cheese
¾ cup pot cheese
2 tablespoons chopped piniento (optional)
¾ teaspoon Worchestershire sauce
¼ teaspoon garlic powder
¼ teaspoon salt
Dash pepper

In large skillet melt margarine; add egg substitute and cook over medium-low heat until set. Do not stir. Turn out of pan; cool. Push through strainer onto sheet of waxed paper; set aside. In medium bowl mix remaining ingredients; form into ball and roll in sieved egg substitute until completely covered. Garnish with additional pimiento. YIELD: 2 cups.

DEVELED PARTY DIP

1 tablespoon polyunsaturated margarine or vegetable oil
1 cup Second Nature Refrigerated Cholesterol-Free Egg Substitute
1 cup low-fat cottage cheese
¼ cup parsley leaves
2 tablespoons prepared mustard
1 teaspoon lemon juice
¼ cup chopped onion

Melt margarine in large skillet, add egg substitute and cook over low heat until set. Do not stir. Turn out of pan and cool. Cut into large pieces and place in container of electric blender. Add remaining ingredients, cover and process until smooth. Turn into small bowl, cover and chill. Serve with celery pieces and cherry tomatoes or other raw vegetables.

YIELD: 2 cups dip.

Flat bread by any other name

Columbus found 'cacabi' in Jamaica, Hispaniola Isles

Ask a child to tell you who Christopher Columbus was and chances are he'll recite the popular rhyme: "In fourteen-hundred and ninety-two, Columbus sailed the ocean blue." In fact, during the twelve years following his first and most famous voyage, Columbus led three more adventurous expeditions across the Atlantic that have contributed as much to American history and legend as his initial landfall of San Salvador.

Controversy over the explorer's voyages began with his first docking. The island Columbus called San Salvador is thought by some to be Watling Island (renamed later after an English pirate who invaded the area in the mid-1600's), and by others to be one of the nearby Caicos Islands.

Columbus discovered most of the Caribbean Islands, many still bearing the names he gave them. In 1493, he founded Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, the later so-named in honor of St. Ursula and her 11,000 virgin martyrs. He explored Cuba on three subsequent journeys in 1492, 1494, and 1501. He was imprisoned in Hispaniola, gathered gold in Carib, harvested pearls in Margarita, and was shipwrecked in Jamaica.

History books tell us that Columbus sailed for the Spanish Queen Isabela and King Ferdinand, but they delete the tales recorded in his journals and letters telling of the fascinating experiences the explorer and his crew encountered while living among people with customs and a heritage differing completely from their own. These reports truly tell of the "New World."

According to Columbus' journals, his favorite island was Hispaniola, known to us all as Haiti and the Dominican Republic. The first settlement in the New World, Isabela, was founded by Columbus on the north coast of this island in 1493. "Hispaniola is a marvel," he wrote from the shores of the island. "The mountains and hills, and plains and fields, and the soil, so beautiful and rich . . . In this there are many spiceries, and great mines of gold and other metals."

These volumes also contained detailed descriptions of native habits and customs. "Cacabi" was the bread of these people made from "yuca" (manioc root). The root was ground with rough stones placed in a long round bag from which the poisonous yuca juice was drained. The remains were then placed on an earthen platter and baked into a flat loaf of bread.

Columbus described the "canoas" (canoes) made from tree trunks in sizes that could hold from one man to fifty. The natives slept in netted "hamacas" (hammocks) not unlike the type that hang in our own backyards.

While marooned on Jamaica, Christopher Columbus no doubt learned the importance of folklore in the lives of these people. One of the most famous of the national legends, the story of Tia Maria Jamaican liqueur, has its roots in history and its branches in myth.

The tale recounts the British invasion of the island in 1655 that forced the Spanish ancestors of Columbus to flee. In the chaos, a beautiful senorita became separated from her family and found herself alone with only her faithful maid Tia Maria. The servant had managed to salvage the senorita's priceless black pearl earrings and the secret recipe for the family cordial. In the best fairy tale tradition, the senorita married a British soldier and instituted a tradition of her own. On the occasion of her eldest daughter's marriage, she handed down the earrings and the recipe. The cordial was named Tia Maria — and has become the traditional drink of Jamaica.

This Columbus Day, October 12, celebrate the discovery of our country by recreating foods and atmosphere that Christopher Columbus encountered on his early explorations. Flat bread is a modern version of "cacabi," but duplicates the appearance and spirit of the original. Serve it with one of the modern Jamaican drinks made with the country's national liqueur, Tia Maria. And on this day commemorating the discovery of America, you can celebrate the way our ancestors did over 300 years ago.

JAMAICAN WONDER
2 parts Tia Maria
2 parts dark rum
1 part lime juice

Pour in tall glass with ice.

TIA ALEXANDER
1 part Tia Maria
1 part Couvoisier Cognac
1 part fresh cream

Shake ingredients with cracked ice, strain into a cocktail glass.

JAMAICAN COFFEE
Pour a generous dollop of Tia Maria into hot black coffee, top with whipped cream.

FLAT BREAD
2 cups sifted flour
2 tsps. baking powder
3/4 tsp. salt
1 tsp. sugar
4 or 5 tbsps. butter and lard or vegetable shortenings, mixed
1 egg beaten
2/3 cup sweet or butter milk

Sift the dry ingredients together and cut the shortening in with a wire pastry cutter; the ingredients should be cold. Add the egg and liquid to the flour, just enough so the dough is light, soft, but stiff enough to handle. Put the dough on a floured board and mold it lightly into a ball, handling as little as possible. Roll very gently to ½-inch thickness and cut into 2-inch squares or circles. Place on greased and floured cookie sheet. Bake for 12 to 15 minutes in a 450 degree pre-heated oven. Serve with herbed butter, jam or jelly.

Fruited noodle pudding

The place of a noodle ding in the scheme of ner is open to debate. Depending on one's taste, can fill multiple roles.

For many, any sweetened concoction is utomatically a dessert. hen noodle pudding is eated like rice pudding or apioca. To many others, it oins the ranks of candied ams, glazed carrots or apesauce as a slightly weet and tangy side dish ith many meats, especially ham. To still thers, it's a wholesome, illing snack when sliced old and eaten out of hand.

FRUITED NOODLE PUDDING

1 (8 oz.) package wide noodles
½ cup raisins
½ cup chopped prunes
¼ cup chopped nuts
3 eggs, well beaten
1 cup (½ pint) sour cream
½ cup beer
¼ teaspoon ground cinnamon
1 tablespoon sugar
¼ cup (½ stick) butter or margarine
¼ cup dried bread crumbs

Cook noodles according to package directions until they are tender. Drain and rinse with boiling water. Place noodles in a large bowl and add raisins, prunes and nuts. Beat eggs with sour cream, beer, cinnamon and sugar. Add to noodle mixture and toss to blend. Melt butter in a 1½ quart casserole. Pour noodle mixture into casserole. Sprinkle crumbs over top. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 30 to 35 minutes or until pudding is lightly browned and crusty on top.

Yield: 6-8 servings.

Nashville chef plans hotel's menu, dons myriad other hats

There's an old culinary custom that "the taller the hat, the better the chef." According to his employes, if chef Rene Schiegg were awarded on that basis, he'd be sporting a five-foot tocque!

Chef Schiegg serves as both assistant innkeeper and food and beverage director at the plush Holiday Inn Vanderbilt, Nashville. The newly remodeled 300-room prototype of Holiday Inn Systems caters to celebrities and important functions due, in large part, to Schiegg's constant attention to the demanding art of innkeeping.

"In spite of the old cliche, 'the hotel business is a crazy business,'" muses Schiegg, "no one in my family could convince me to try a different trade. I was cooking before I was walking."

Schiegg, a member of the Kraft-sponsored U.S. Culinary Team to the 1976 International Culinary Competition, admits that he feels there are very few people suited for hospitality careers. Yet when one is suited, he believes the rewards are limitless. "I love seeing the final product on the table — seeing a large smile as a guest leaves our door. It's having the ability to follow my work through from beginning to end that offers me the motivation to try harder and keep longer hours. I must give more than one-hundred per cent. Or I must pay the price!"

A native of Zurich, Switzerland, Schiegg led the Holiday Inn Systems chefs to the Grand Prize Award at the Chicago Culinary Art Salon this year. He was also a multi-prize winner at the 1975 Chicago Culinary Art Salon and consequently, was chosen then for the team representing this country in the upcoming competition in Frankfurt, Germany Oct. 21-28.

One of Schiegg's many specialties is the art of food presentation, as exemplified by his buffets — a complement of color and texture. "I don't do anything small for buffets anymore, because it just isn't noticed. The rule now is 'make it big and make it colorful.'" He introduces such unusual decorations to his buffets at the hotel that many diners return week after week just to see what may appear next: turnip bouquets, melon babies in a buggy, fruit peacocks — the surprises are endless.

When he's not preparing for the competition or supervising in the kitchen, Chef Schiegg can be found going over blueprints and building materials with contractors who are still remodeling and adding on new meeting rooms. Although he carries many responsibilities, Schiegg feels it's important to participate at Frankfurt, because he personally gains a great deal from viewing other chefs in action.

"I'm learning about returning to the natural foods — in both preparation and presentation. I see the beauty in pan-fried vegetables, for example, which I learned from our Oriental chefs. And no more do we cover meat platters in heavy sauce," he explains. "We let the goodness, the colors show through . . . and our guests do notice the difference!"

Schiegg also prides himself in his imaginative recipes such as the turkey and banana steak which he'll introduce in Frankfurt this year. But for Rene Schiegg, being an expert cook isn't enough. In his own words, "You have to know how to lead — and be just as comfortable in the front of the house as you are in the back. It's all part of the ancient art of innkeeping — and it keeps me hopping eighteen hours a day!"

QUICHE LORRAINE
Yield: 8-10 Servings

1½ cups unsifted flour
½ cup margarine
2 to 4 tablespoons water
1 pinch of salt

Mix ingredients with fork or pastry cutter. Roll out and line a quiche pan or a 9-10 inch pie plate.

3½ ounces bacon
1 large onion
4 ounces Swiss cheese, grated
4 ounces cheddar cheese, grated
3 eggs
2½ cups milk
½ cup flour
Nutmeg
Salt
Monosodium glutamate

Chop bacon and onion into fine bits. Fry over medium heat until light brown (about 2-3 minutes). Place bacon and onion in unbaked pastry shell. Place grated cheeses on top of bacon and onions. Mix the eggs, milk, flour and a very good pinch of nutmeg, salt, and monosodium glutamate together. Pour mixture over ingredients in pastry shell. Bake for 25-35 minutes at 350 degrees or until pie is brown.

Mashed potato tamales

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

Tamales are a staple in many Mexican households and are making their way into more north of the border cooking. Here is a version using mashed potatoes but still containing the all-important flavoring of cornmeal. Use canned chili con carne as filling and topping, or you may want to make your own favorite chili con carne recipe to use. This is a complete meal when served with slices of avocado and cherry tomatoes on lettuce. Or, try combining slices of oranges and snappy onions with an oil and vinegar dressing for a refreshing salad. These tamales will be as bland or as peppery as you want them, just add chili peppers or Tabasco to your taste to the chili con carne.

MASHED POTATO TAMALES

4 medium potatoes (about 1½ pounds), cooked and mashed
1 egg yolk
1 cup flour
¼ cup cornmeal
Salt
Pepper
Aluminum foil
1 tablespoon salad oil
1 can (15 ounces) chili con carne without beans
1 cup dairy sour cream

In medium bowl, combine potatoes, egg yolk, flour and cornmeal until well-blended. Season with salt and pepper to taste.

Cut aluminum foil into four 12-inch squares. Grease one side of each square generously with some salad oil. For each tamale, spoon one-fourth potato mixture along one side of a piece of foil. Spread out to a 5 x 7-inch rectangle, one-half inch from edges of foil. Set aside one-fourth cup chili. Spread one-fourth of remaining chili over potato layer. Sliding hands under foil beneath potato mixture, fold potato and chili mixture in half. Pat edges of potato mixture together to enclose chili. Fold free end of foil around tamale, tucking edges in to seal tamale tightly in foil. Repeat to make 4 tamales. Place a wire rack or steaming basket in a large kettle. Add water to just below level of rack; bring to a boil. Place tamales on rack, cover tightly and steam 20 minutes. (Check occasionally to make sure water has not evaporated. Add more water, if necessary.) To serve, gently unwrap tamales onto plates. Stir reserved one-fourth cup chili into sour cream. Spoon over tamales. Makes 4 servings.

Buffet dish from Scandinavia

Stuffed tenderloin of pork '76 culinary team favorite

If you are thinking of entertaining, don't plan on any elaborate dishes requiring a great deal of preparation time says Klaus Loos, executive sous chef of the Jack Tar Hotel in San Francisco and a member of the 1976 United States Culinary Team.

"Set up a buffet with hot foods served from a chafing dish," he recommends, "because a host should not be running around leaving his guests by themselves." At home, Loos' wife Ana Luisa does most of the cooking — "She can do it more efficiently than I," he says — but he takes over the kitchen when they have company for dinner.

"I used to prepare a complete French dinner with many courses when entertaining. But I didn't get to relax with my guests, and I felt they really didn't enjoy it either, so I said, 'No more.' ".

A relaxed, friendly atmosphere is more important then what you fix, according to Loos. "I prefer a hamburger my wife has prepared at home far more than a lobster eaten in a hurry."

Loos feels that most Americans have poor eating habits which not only rob them of the pleasure of dining, but also threaten their health. "We fill our bellies with a big dinner in the evening, then sit in front of the television until we retire. In the morning we get up with an empty stomach and have nothing to eat, and at lunch we have only a little sandwich. Our habits should be reversed! It is best to eat a light evening meal.

"The elaborate French style of cooking deminated our profession for many years," he notes, "because the famous Chef Escoffier's book was considered the bible of fine cooking. Now we know that if we continue to cook and eat such rich foods, we're going to kick the bucket sooner than we expected. There is a trend toward simpler foods, as indicated by the increasing number of vegetarian dishes served in restaurants for example. Change, however, will have to come from the public; restaurants respond to what consumers want. How well one eats is really up to the individual."

Even in preparing for the International Culinary Competition to be held October 21-28 in Frankfurt, Germany, Chef Loos believes in simplicity. tures of the food to make "Flashy presentations will not impress the judges in Frankfurt, but taste will be important. I think exhibition pieces should be clasically simple. A good chef utilizes the natural colors, shapes and texan attractive display."

Loos is one of 11 chefs on the U.S. Team which will compete against chefs from 21 nations. The Team's participation in the Competition — the "Culinary Olympics" of the foodservice world — is made possible by a grant from Kraft Foods.

STUFFED TENDERLOIN PORK
(Yield: 12 servings)

20 pitted prunes
1½ cups raisins
2 medium apples, peeled, cored and diced
4 cups Burgundy wine
4 onions
3 slices bacon
3 pork tenderloins, 2½ pounds each
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon ginger
2 tablespoons salt
12 peppercorns, crushed
2 carrots
2 celery stalks
½ cup butter
2 bay leaves
6 tablespoons flour
4 cups heavy cream
2 cups stock

Soak prunes, raisins and diced apples in 1 cup of Burgundy for 3 hours, then drain, reserving wine for sauce. Dice 1 onion and 1 slice of bacon and saute, then mix with fruit.

Cut all fat from tenderloins; cut lengthwise half through (like a pocket) leaving ½ inch on both ends. Season the filets with nutmeg, ginger, salt and peper. Stuff with fruit mixture and tie securely with string. Cut remaining onions, carrots and celery into chunks; melt butter in roasting pan and add vegetables, bay leaves and filets. Brown filets on all sides and then remove from pan. Add flour to pan and stir with vegetables. Add Burgundy, cream and stock and stir well. Return filets to pan and let simmer for about 1½ hours. Strain suace. Remove string from filets; slice and serve with sauce.

Crepes florentine imagination

Stretching the food dollar can be done in dozens of ways when you take stock of the vast array of nourishing dairy products and put them to work in interesting menu plans. Here for example is a recipe for Crepes Florentine With Sour Cream. This protein rich budget entree is fancy enough for company and simple enough for family fare. Actually it is nothing more than an imaginative way of serving creamed spinach and jack cheese in crepes with sour cream over the top. For hearty appetites you may want to allow an extra crepe or two per serving.

The filling starts with a package of frozen spinach. It's improved with onions sauteed in butter, herbs and whipping cream. Shredded jack cheese goes with the spinach inside the crepes.

Crepes are not only easy and quick to make but they are hard to resist. Adding a little melted butter to the batter makes them easy to turn. It takes less than two minutes to bake each crepe. Once you're experienced and get a little system going for yourself you might have the crepes baking in two pans at the same time. Should you be a novice at crepe cookery you'll be happy to know that the crepes can be made ahead, then filled and reheated shortly before serving.

For an elegant version of sweet potatoes and pineapple this one done with sour cream is well worth mentioning. Sour cream goes into the mixture and there's more on top. The flavor combination of the tangy sour cream with the sweets and pineapple is truly delicious. Another tasty suggestion for the vegetable course is to mix sour cream with lemon herb seasoning and serve it over broccoli.

CREPES FLORENTINE WITH SOUR CREAM
¾ cup milk
1 egg
½ cup flour
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon nutmeg
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon butter
Spinach Filling
1 cup grated monterey jack cheese
½ cup dairy sour cream

Combine milk, egg, flour, salt, nutmeg and pepper in electric blender. Whir to blend. Melt butter in 6-inch crepe pan or skillet then whir into milk mixture. Pour about 3 tablespoons batter into hot pan and tilt to coat. Bake about 1 minute over medium high heat. Turn and bake other side. Repeat with remaining batter, to make 12 crepes in all. Spread out crepes on counter. Portion equal amounts of Spinach Filling and grated cheese on top. Turn in two opposite sides on each crepe and roll crepe around filling. Place in baking dish or individual ramekins. Cover with foil. Bake in 375 degree oven 20 minutes. Uncover and bake 5 minutes longer. Top with sour cream. Sprinkle with minced parsley if desired. Makes 6 (2 crepe) servings.

SPINACH FILLING: Saute ½ cup chopped onion in 2 tablespoons butter. Thaw 1 (10-ounce) package frozen chopped spinach. Squeeze very dry. Mix with onion, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon crushed caraway seeds, ⅛ teaspoon EACH thyme and pepper, and ½ cup whipping cream.

Camp Fire Girls dress derby dolls

Combining creative sewing skills with an important service to others, Mt. San Antonio Camp Fire Girls from Pomona and nearby East San Gabriel Valley communities have dressed and sent 300 dolls to the Goodwill Industries 1976 Dolly Derby.

The dolls were originally discards which had been donated to Goodwill, were washed and repaired by the handicapped workers, given to the Camp Fire volunteers to clothe, and will now be offered for sale at minimal prices in Goodwill outlets.

The Dolly Derby annually provides money for wages and special services for Goodwill employes as well as presents Goodwill shoppers with beautifully dressed dolls in time for Christmas giving. Plans are underway to assist Goodwill Industries in their quest for dolls for the 1977 Derby.

Gateway House plans to remodel

By MARY REMILLARD
Family News Editor

A cooperative, apartment-living situation for single minor mothers and their babies is the function of Gateway House in Pomona.

Here, across the last four years, approximately 66 girls and their babies have resided from three months to a year. The girls pay rent out of a welfare grant, care for their babies, do cooking and cleaning and are expected to finish school, participate in vocational training or have a job. The staff and volunteers work together to help the girls achieve skills, maturity and independence.

The large old home, centrally located near schools, churches and shopping, is operated by a nonprofit California corporation, Gateway House, Inc. The corporation depends greatly on financial and moral support from the community and on the work of its auxiliary.

Now the board of directors, headed by Philip S. Wright, feels that the interior of the building must be modified and updated. Six girls and their babies presently occupy three bedrooms, a crowded situation. It is apparent that the building needs structural change to meet safety standards.

Early in the fall, a challenge gift of $5,000 for remodeling was offered by an anonymous donor. Meeting the challenge with matching funds last month were the Soroptimist International Club of Pomona, a women's classified service group, with a promise of $2,500 and Griswold's of Claremont, through Mrs. Betty Sanford, with a matching contribution of $2,500.

Other contributions, ranging from $5 to $500, have brought the total almost of $12,000 for the estimated $16,650 in remodeling. All contributions are tax deductible and may be sent to Gateway House, Inc., P. O. Box 303, Pomona, Calif. 91769

Work on the remodeling will begin Dec. 27 with the second-story apartment and will continue as the funds grow.

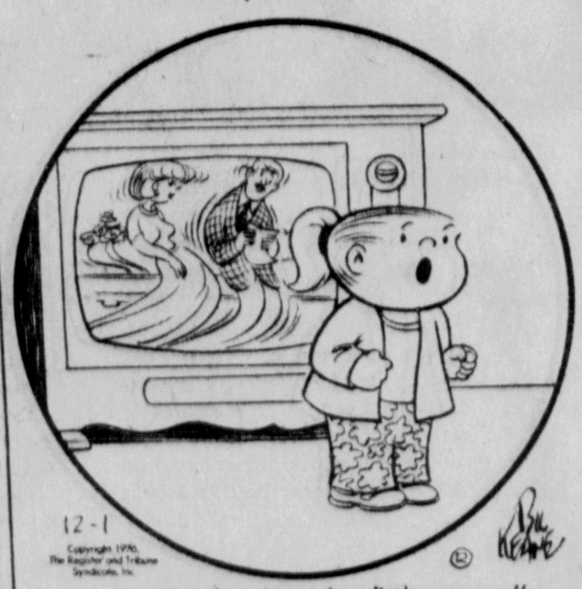

Other officers of the board of Gateway House are: Sallie Foster and Jean Rogers, vice presidents; Caroline Beatty, secretary; and Jack H. Lightfoot, treasurer. Mrs. Dorothy Walker is auxiliary president and Mrs. Lynn Piatt is executive director.

Holiday breakfast planned

The Madrigal Singers of Claremont High School under the direction of Don Brinegar will present the program when Alpha Iota Chapter, Pi Lambda Theta holds its annual Christmas breakfast at Kellogg West on the Cal Poly campus at 8:30 a.m., Saturday.

Louise Perkins is in charge of arrangements and Georgia Warden is program chairman. Decorations are being planned by Barbara Fowler and Edith Horsburgh.

From G-string to guitar string

Singer grinds ahead

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Mike Lunsford's first job as a country music singer in Nashville was at a strip tease joint.

"I didn't like it," he recalls. "I would play for 40 minutes and the girls would strip for 20. There were lots of dirty old men there. You could hear a lot of hollering for the girls. It didn't do much for your ego."

Lunsford no longer precedes G-strings and bumps and grinds. Just three years after performing at Sonny's Lounge, he's carving a reputation as one of country music's most promising young singers.

His "Honey Hungry" was a hit this fall, and his record company believes "Stealin' Feelin'," his current release, is even better.

"The disc jockeys are calling us now about his next song instead of us calling them," said Ken Rollins, promotion director for Gusto Records.

Lunsford, 26, says that he made other sacrifices besides filling in the gaps at Sonny's.

"I worked for a year for $150 a week," he said. "I didn't even have the money to buy a new pair of jeans. My wife didn't buy a new dress or any new clothes for a year."

He was driving an eight-year-old car that embarrassed him constantly. One time, he parked a block away from a booking agency so no one would see him driving it.

After his nightclub act, Lunsford plunges into the audience to shake hands with the patrons and thank them for coming.

Pomona to do original drama

The Pomona College theater department will present "Block Play," an original drama by George C. Wolfe, in Holmes Hall at 8 p.m. Dec. 9-12. Tickets are $2.50 general admission, $1 for students.

"Block Play," an episodic vision of life on the block, is sung, acted, chanted, danced at experienced by the troupe. The troupe of 12 black actors journeys from the corner block to high rise buildings while telling the story of one character's efforts to escape from the block.

"Block Play" was selected to be performed by A.C.T. at the Squaw Valley Writers conference and won the Pomona College Dole Kinney King Creative Writing Award. It is entered in the American College Theater Festival original play division. Last year Wolfe's first play, "Up for Grabs," was selected as the American College Theater Festival Best Original Play in Pacific Region II.

Tourism degrees

NEW YORK (AP) — A graduate degree program in Tourism and Travel Administration will be offered for the first time nationwide beginning this winter at the New School for Social Research here.

MOVIE TO REMEMBER — Spencer Tracy and Frederic March star in "Inherit the Wind," which will be shown on KTLA, Channel 5, at 8 p.m. Dec. 9. This is one of the series, IBM Presents Movies To Remember. "Guys and Dolls" will be shown on the series Dec. 16.

Chaffey to present 'Ceremony of Carols'

The Chaffey College Concert Choir and the Chaffey Concert Ensemble Singers will present a program in the Little Theater at 8 p.m. Sunday. Admission is free.

The program will include "A Ceremony of Carols" by English composer Benjamin Britten.

Program director is Joyce Shannon. She will be assisted in the production by C.A. Sheppard.

Combining with the 60-voice choir will be guest harpist Toni Robinson-Bogart and mime Bette Raya.

A second guest artist will be 13-year-old soprano Colin Mason from Ramona Intermediate School in La Verne with "That Yonge Child."

Other soloists will be soprano Susan Scott, tenor Ross Lehman, Nancy Toedtman, soprano, and Carolyn Wilson, mezzo-soprano.

Featured in the first half of the program will be the Chaffey Concert Ensemble Singers with two 16th Century Spanish carols and "Verbum caro factum est."

Providing the accompaniment for one of the carols will be the newly formed Early Music Consort. This group, directed by William Stanford, numbers a dozen students playing nine recorders and a crumhorn, lute and harpsichord.

The Concert Choir selections will be "Good King Wenceslas," "The Holly and the IVy," "Away in a Manger" and "Gloucestershire Wassail." Soprano Luanne Robinson and tenor Richard Frazier will have solo parts in the first selection. Tenor Jeff Tobin will have a solo part in the second.

Gustavo Gil will be the accompanist.

Medical examiner

Actor demands gimmicks

LOS ANGELES (AP) — We are in this restaurant talking with a guy known to play the ponies for a living. To support the ponies and his family, he acts for a living. His name is Jack Klugman.

He currently plays a city medical examiner in "Quincy," which is part of NBC's "Sunday Mystery Movie." He has made six episodes.

The first two got good ratings. Still, Klugman broods — and not quietly. He broods with much body English, as if watching the nag he picked in the fifth at Santa Anita die in the home stretch.

"People say, 'Gee, when's your show coming on?'" he grouses, referring to the mysteries of NBC scheduling. "They used to say, 'When's "Quincy" coming on?'

"Now they're saying, 'When's whatshisname's show on?' Pretty soon they forget the name of the network."

It's not that Klugman is bitter. Far from it. It's just that whether he's grousing or laughing, it all comes out with industrial-strength gusto. He is a man of considerable human juice.

On this occasion, he is tastefully attired in a sports jacket and pressed pants, not at all the sloppy, who-cares-what-Iwear sportswriter he played for five ABC seasons in "The Odd Couple."

But there's still a hint of

JACK KLUGMAN

Oscar, the slapdash character. The restaurant is Spanish, but Klugman is eating, well, halibut. He also is talking rapidly on various subjects, "Quincy" among them.

"Got a call about this one towards the end of the season," he says. "I'd really given up on the season. I'd been offered private eyes, all the sitcoms in the world. No dice. They had no gimmick.

"Then they sent me this," he adds, referring to his NBC show. In it, he plays a medical examiner given to examining far more than the corpus delicti in criminal matters, which makes cops mad.

"Has the greatest gimmick in the world. You can nail the medical profession when you're a cop," he says of his role, "or you can nail the police profession when you're a doctor."

The conversation then turns to writing. Klugman, who won two of his three Emmy awards playing the the "Odd Couple" sportswriter, says he is writing in his spare time.

He is trying to cook up a situation comedy about a newspaper columnist. It seems odd, this writing, considering that Klugman has been an actor all his life. He grins, shrugs and says, "Not really."

Pedestrian killed by car

LANCASTER (AP) — A 46-year-old man walking home with a sack of groceries has been killed by a car.

Highway Patrol officer said Zigurds Suritis of Lancaster was wearing dark clothing when he was walking along the road early Sunday and the driver of the car that hit Suritis was unable to see the man. Suritis was dead on arrival at a nearby hospital.

A fire extinguisher is a metal container filled with water or chemicals for putting out small fires.

A fire can be put out by preventing oxygen in the air from reaching the burning material, or by cooling the burning material below its kindling point — the temperature below which it will not burn.

There are several kinds of fire extinguishers. One kind shoots out a stream of water with bubbles of carbon dioxide in it. The stream of water and bubbles help put out the fire by cooling whatever is burning and by shutting off the air.

Another kind produces a carbon dioxide snow that quickly changes to a gas. This lowers the temperature of the fire. And since the carbon dioxide does not burn it shuts out the air and smothers the fire.

Still other kinds of fire extinguishers spray powdery clouds of chemicals or thick blankets of sticky foam to smother the fire and put it out.

A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

Broncs in Irish Country

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

NOTRE DAME, Ind. — Is this the start of something big?

An athletic rivalry between Cal Poly Pomona and Notre Dame begins here tonight in what might be called a mismatch.

After all, Notre Dame is at a disadvantage.

Notre Dame is just a small little-known Catholic university with only 8,750 students while everyone knows Cal Poly is part of the giant California State University system with 13,000 students.

It doesn't sound fair.

But the students here ATTEND the games and make all kinds of noise.

That is one big reason why the Fighting Irish are a legend in the world of collegiate athletics.

Notre Dame also has all the tradition a university would want with names like Rockne, Leahy and The Gipper bouncing around this hallowed grounds.

Poly won't be facing the Irish at the historic Notre Dame football stadium as the basketball Broncos get the honor of facing all the Notre Dame tradition.

Tonight's game at Notre Dame's Athletic and Convocation Center (capacity 11,345), located in the shadow of the Golden Dome, will begin at 5 p.m. PST.

KSOM (1510) will carry pre-game, halftime and post-game reports at approximataely 5, 6:30 and 7:30 p.m.

Poly really has everything to gain and nothing to lose in this game.

Notre Dame, rated eighth in this week's Associated Press poll, is the highest-ranked team Poly has ever had the privilege of playing.

An upset win over the Irish — as unlikely as it seems — would give Poly instant national recognition.

Webb, a 6-foot-3 junior guard, was a high school legend here at South Bend Adams.

He is South Bend's all-time career prep scorer with 1,764 points and will always be remembered locally for leading Adams to the 1973 state championship game.

Adams lost, 84-79, to New Albany but Webb did his part in scoring 34 points. He averaged 23.8 points, 12.4 rebounds and six assists per game as a senior.

After spending a year and a half at the University of Cincinnati, Webb came west to Pomona and was a red shirt last year.

In Poly's first two games on this trip at Dayton and South Carolina, Webb scored 23 points to lead the team.

"Playing here at Notre Dame is a once in a lifetime experience," Webb said. "I should have about 30 or 35 relatives and friends here."

In fact, Poly will have a few fans here. Junior guard Tom Ispas is from nearby East Chicago, forward Denny Wiesse is from Aurora, Ill., and center Don Johnson is a Chicago product.

Despite losing all-American Adrian Dantley to the pros plus Bill Laimbeer, the former CIF star at Palos Verdes, and Bernard Rencher to academics, coach Digger Phelps has another outstanding team at Notre Dame.

The Irish opened by beating Maryland, 80-79, on the road thanks to an 18-foot jump shot by guard Don "Duck" Williams with 18 seconds left in overtime.

"Our guys have been up for this season," Phelps said. "People gave up on this team and said that Notre Dame was done. We don't have any superstars but we'll be there. Defense won the Maryland game for us."

Phelps will start a lineup of forwards Dave Batton (6-9) and Bill Paterno (6-6), center Bruce Flowers (6-8) and guards Williams (6-3) and Ray "Dice" Martin (6-1). Others who will see considerable action are 6-9 Toby Knight and 6-3 freshman guard Rich Branning, an all-CIF 4A selection last year at Marina High in Huntington Beach.

BRONC BUSTERS — The Broncs stepped off the airplane here Tuesday afternoon into 10 degree temperatures with a chill factor of 15 below.

Notre Dame is definitely highly interested in recruiting Damien's Bill Duffy, who was named to Basketball Weekly's prep pre-season all-America team. Irish assistant coach Daniel Nee was recently visiting Duffy in hopes of landing him for the Irish.

Damien facing 'mirror image'

By MIKE BROSSART
PB Staff Writer

Damien High coach Dick Larson shobld know well how to prepare his football team for Friday night's CIF playoff game with Villa Park — the Orange County team reminds him very much of his own squad.

"They have a lot of offense," Larson said of Villa Park, which shares the nickname "Spartans" with Damien. "They're pretty big on defense and they can throw and run.

"They were in the playoffs last year so they've got experience. Really, they remind me more of us than any other team we've played."

Certainly both teams have playoff experience behind them going into Friday night's quarterfinal game at El Modena High in Orange.

Damien reached the quarterfinals last year as well but was stopped at that point by Garden Grove. The Orange County team won 14-7 on a tie-breaker after a 7-7 regulation deadlock.

Villa Park got all the way to the finals in 1975 before losing to South Pasadena.

And both teams have posted big wins in the first two rounds of this year's playoff tournament.

Damien coasted by an unimpressive Mark Keppel team, 29-12, in its opener and blasted Riverside Poly, 45-29, last week. Villa Park opened the playoffs with a 33-7 win over Monte Vista and followed that with a 36-7 win over previously undefeated Pacifica last Friday.

"I feel that we can score points," said Larson in something of an understatement. "Riverside Poly came into last week's game averaging eight points-against and we scored 45 points against them. A team certainly has to be prepared for us or we'll surprise them."

Poly was surprised after taking a 14-0 lead in the first four minutes of the game only to lose by a 16-point margin.

"We hate to give up points early like that but its just something you have to overcome. You've just got to be patient and not shoot for the sky on one play."

The prime mover in the Spartans' comeback against the visitors from Riverside was junior quarterback Dan Marconi, who completed 18 of 26 passes for 361 yards and three touchdowns.

With that sterling performance, Marconi took over the school record for a single season's passing yardage. He has 1,698 yards (127 of 189) and 17 touchdowns in 10 games.

"Danny had a fine day and a couple of our receivers did very well," Larson said. Tom Lopez and John Davis both made some good catches." Lopez had seven receptions for 119 yards and Davis added 184 yards on five catches.

"Defensively, our inside men stood out — Tony Cimino, Brad Davies and Hugo Cargnelutti all played well. (Fullback Leo) Burke ran well and blocked very well and our whole offensive line played a good game. They gave Marconi good protection."

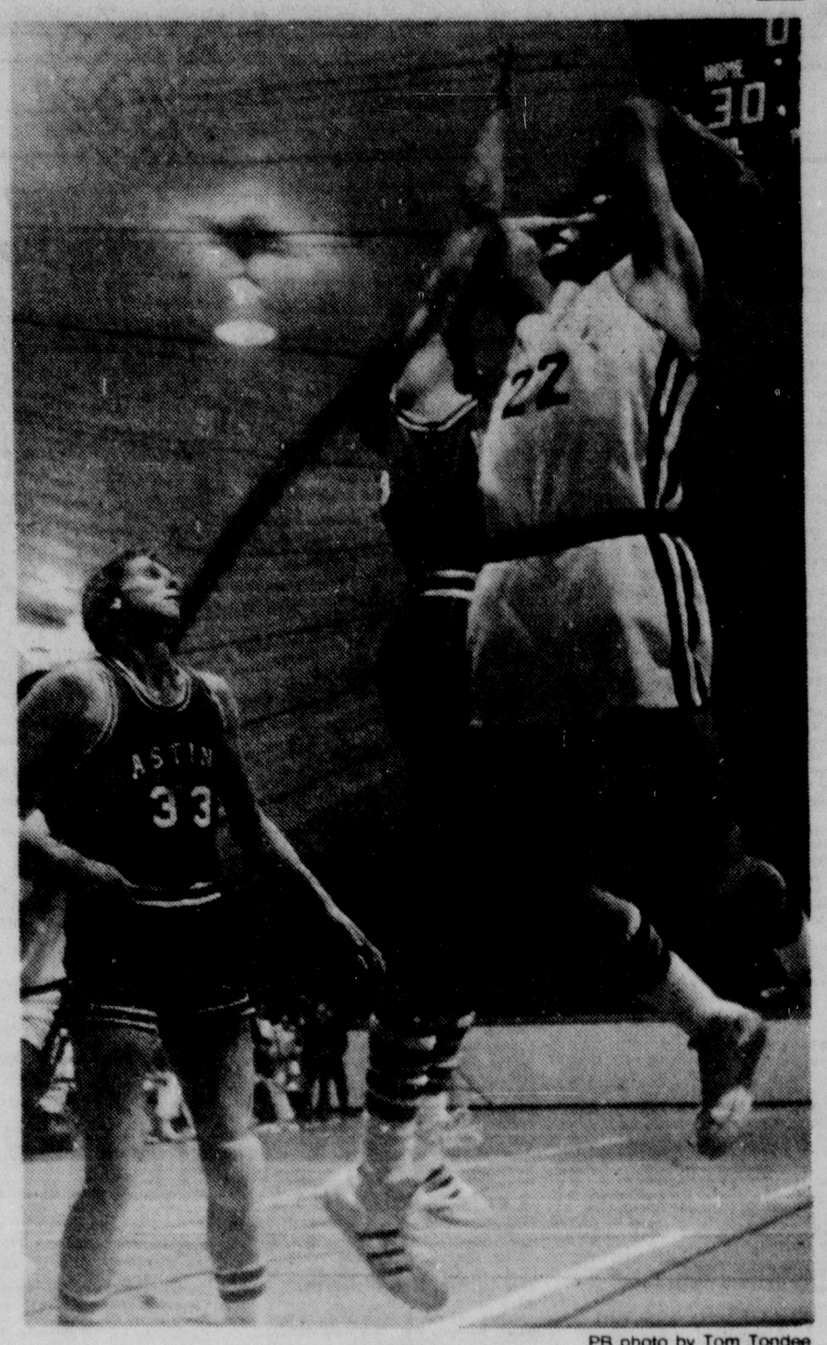

Center John DeBillis, guards Jim Abacherli and Martin DeRuyter, tackles Cargnelutti and Charles Vess and tight end Pete Fox make up that offensive line.

Damien has both scored and given up more points than Villa Park this year. The Spartans from La Verne have tallied 262 points while building their 9-1 record and have surrendered 183. Villa Park (10-1) has scored 251 points and allowed 95 in 11 games, one more than Damien has played.

Villa Park's defense, which has surrendered just 21 points in its last four games, is led by linemen Larry Harmon (6-foot-2, 220 pounds) and John Heineken and linebacker Mike McFarlane.

Offensively, 5-10, 175-pound slotback Robbie Martin leads the Orange County school. He has about 800 yards rushing, nearly 600 receiving and has scored 18 touchdowns. He also runs back kickoffs and punts and plays a defensive back position.

Larson said that his team emerged healthy from the game with Poly and that he will make no changes in the starting lineup.

Pitt captures Lambert Trophy

NEW YORK (AP) — The University of Pittsburgh, the nations' No. 1-ranked college football team, Monday was named winner of the Lambert Trophy, emblematic of supremacy among major teams in the East.

The Panthers, who completed an 11-0 regular season by defeating Penn State 24-7 Friday night, were a unanimous choice in winning their first Lambert Trophy since 1955.

Rutgers, also 11-0, was a unanimous choice for second place. The Scarlet Knights received 63 points to 70 for Pitt in the voting in the seven-man Lambert board.

Rookie honors for 'The Bird'

NEW YORK (AP) — Righthanded pitcher Mark Fidrych, the flamboyant crowd-pleaser of the Detroit Tigers, was named the American League's Rookie of the Year today.

Fidrych, who laced his mound performances with eccentric behavior such as talking to baseballs and patting down mounds, collected 22 of a possible 24 votes from a special committee of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

The remaining two votes went to Butch Wynegar, Minnesota's hard-hitting catcher.

Fidrych, a 22-year-old from Worcester, Mass., proved to be not only a winner with a 19-9 record and league-leading earned run average of 2.34, but was one of the biggest gate attractions in the major leagues in 1976.

The theatrical mound antics of Fidrych, nicknamed "The Bird," caught the fancy of the fans and the television people.

In the 29 games Fidrych started, he drew a total paid attendance of 901,339. Quite frequently, the announcement in advance that "The Bird" was going to pitch would be enough to sell out a park.

Fidrych started slowly but won eight games in a row one month into the season and was selected to start for the American League in the All-Star Game at Philadelphia.

In addition to leading the league in ERA, Fidrych led all pitchers with 24 complete games in 29 starts.

Besides being the first pitcher to win the AL rookie honor since Stan Bahnsen did it with the New York Yankees in 1968, Fidrych is only the second Detroit player to be named. Harvey Kuenn was the other, in 1953.

In his first season with Minnesota, Wynegar batted .260, hit 10 home runs and drove in 69 runs.

Lakers continue to please West

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

INGLEWOOD — Jerry West certainly is a happy man these days.

The Lakers coach obviously is enjoying his rookie season as an NBA head man. Of course the fact that his team, thought to be a rag-tag lot outside of Kareem Abdul Jabbar, has played surprisingly well and now appears headed up has much to do with West's state of euphoria.

Tuesday night the Lakers defeated the visiting Washington Bullets, 109-102, recording their sixth win in seven outings and upping their record to 11-8.

The Lakers looked and played like a happy, enthusiastic team.

"There's no doubt the enthusiasm is here," West said after the game. The Lakers coach had kept the press waiting only briefly before making his appearence. He emerged from the dressing room smiling and the smile grew wider as he spoke.

"Winning is contagious," he continued. "Our enthusiasm is flowing and the big thing is all the players are getting involved. If you look at the bench during the game, you can see the excitement.

"We are coming ready to play every night. And that's not only the starters but the people on the bench, too. You get a feeling that something good is going to happen and it does."

Another person savoring the victory was Jabbar. The giant center is an unselfish player and delights in team victories.

"I can really feel the others around me getting enthused," said Jabbar showing rare off-court animation. "We're all very excited about the way we're playing, and winning certainly helps that."

Jabbar scored 26 points, grabbed 17 rebounds, had a seasonhigh 10 assists and blocked two shots

But while Jabbar, as usual, led the way. He was not the whole offense. Unlike the Lakers of 1975-76, the Jerry West Lakers are not a one-man team.

Four other Lakers got into double figures. In Sunday night's win over Chicago, seven Lakers scored 10 or more points. Against Washington Tuesday, Lucius Allen scored 20. Bo Lamar came off the bench to pour in 16 in 26 minutes. Cazzie Russell had 14 as did Kermit Washington.

Washington didn't start and is not a starter. But he gets in considerable playing time as evidenced by Tuesday night's 32 minutes (two more than Russell who did start). He also had nine rebounds and blocked two shots. Not showing in the statistics is how much a part the 6-8, 235-pound forward plays around the boards at either end of the court.

"Kermit takes so much pressure off Kareem," West explained. "If they double team Kareem, it frees Kermit. When he's in there, we're a good rebounding team. You know we get outrebounded every game."

Tuesday night the Bullets out boarded the Lakers, 52-43.

Kermit is under control much better now," West continued. He's really like a rookie, you know. He played so little in his first three years. But he always had the desire. He just needed the chance. He gets his hands on a lot of balls and causes trouble around the basket for the other team

"Best of all, I think he can play better as he gets more confidence That's true of the whole team. We're gaining confidence. We work hard and if you do that, you're going to accomplish things."

West has already accomplished a major improvement in the Lakers' defense. Ranked near the bottom in the league in defense the last two years, the Lakers rank fifth in the NBA this year in defense.

Tuesday night they couldn't stop Washington guard Phil Chenier for three quarters. Chenier scored all of his game-high 35 points in the first 36 minutes. But with Don Chaney playing him tight, despite five personal fouls, Chenier was shut out the last period missing on three field goal attempts.

The Lakers will take on San Antonio Friday

Chuck Knox claims stats prove Rams not dull team

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Lo and behold, the Los Angeles Rams have scored more points than any other National Football Conference team.

Coach Chuck Knox adroitly pointed out this statistic which might confound those critics who term the Rams' offense dull.

The detractors say the Rams depend mainly on a running attack and are predictable.

Knox and his staff use a computer for an analysis of the plays in previous games so plays called in upcoming encounters won't be predictable and that includes Saturday's battle at the Coliseum against the Atlanta Falcons.

With data fed in from prior games, the computer will spot any tedency to use a particular play in a particular situation. This is bad — the opponent also will spot that tendency.

So teams try for the surprise. The Rams did it with a five-man defensive front against New Orleans Sunday and won 33-14. What they'll do against Atlanta remains to be seen.

But even though Los Angeles holds a commanding lead in the NFC West, and could even win a home field advantage in the playoffs, Knox meticulously studies films, the computer and works to keep his squad at a high pitch against the underdogs.

He'll start rookie Pat Haden against at quarterback and it will be the former University of Southern California star who'll be at the helm the rest of the way barring injuries.

"He's going to get better with experience," the coach told newsmen Tuesday. "He's getting better with each game."

As for the points, the Rams have scored 272 compared with 256 for both other divisional leaders — Minnesota and Dallas. In the AFC, the figures are higher with Baltimore at 342, Cincinnati at 273 and Oakland 291.

The Rams gained hope for a home field advantage when San Francisco, with a running attack, upset Minnesota 20-16 last Monday.

If the Rams beat Atlanta and Detroit and the Vikings lose one of their remaining home games, the chances are good Los Angeles will get the first Super Bowl playoff game.

Because in the tie-breaker if each team has the same overall record, the Rams' are 20 points ahead now in the ratio of points scored and points scored against.

The Rams beat Atlanta 30-14 in the regular season opener, but Knox says the Falcons have improved defensively and with rookies Sonny Collins and Bubba Bean, the running game has consistently improved.

"They come here a loose, relaxed, agressive football team because there is not pressure on them," the Rams coach noted.

The Falcons are 4-8 but have beaten both Dallas and San Francisco.

A victory would give the Rams the Western title for a fourth straight year as they stand 8-3-1 compared to 7-5 for the 49ers. Only two losses by the Rams and two victories by the 49ers in the final pair would send the divisional crown to San Francisco.

San Dimas' running game to face stern challenge

JIM McCONNELL
PB Staff Writer

Two teams which are mighty proud of their running games will be clashing come Friday night in the quarterfinals of the CIF 2A grid playoffs.

San Dimas High, which has used a nearly unstoppable running attack to assemble a 10-1 season ledger, will be traveling to Thousand Oaks to square off against Agoura, a squad which has used a powerful ground attack of its own to ring up an 8-3 mark so far this year.

The game also will feature a potentially interesting matchup of two of the top running backs in the 2A Division, the Saints' Bob Pleasant and the Chargers' Darren Rogers.

Rogers was the 2A co-Player of the Year last year as a junior, when he rushed for over 1,800 yards and 25 touchdowns. That performance helped Agoura reach the 2A semifinals before being ousted by El Dorado.

The powerful 5-10, 190-pounder has not been quite as effective this season, with "only" 1,494 yards on the ground and 15 touchdowns in 11 outings. However, he has also been hobbled by injuries during the early part of the season. He should be at full strength for the Saints.

His counterpart on the Saints is senior fullback Bob Pleasant. Pleasant currently has 1,400 yards rushing through 11 games and has outscored Rogers, 19-15, in touchdowns.

The Saints figure to have the edge at the halfback position, with speedy junior Perry Aris improving every game. Aris has now rushed for 911 yards and scored 11 TDs. Agoura's halfback Steve Hagy hasn't stats to match those.

"It ought to be a real good test for both teams," Saint coach Bob Baiz noted. "Agoura is a good-looking ballclub, but I think we will be the toughest team they will have faced this year, so it will be interesting.

"Rogers is a fine runner, he is something like Tommy Jefferson and Kevin Morgan in our league only a bit stronger. They run a wishbone offense and like to control the football, so we will have to stop that."

Baiz indicated that his squad is healthy coming off a 26-19 second-round win over Northview last week and that he plans no lineup changes or drastic alignment changes for Agoura.

"The score was not a very good indicator of our game with Northview," Baiz indicated. "We dominated them pretty well except for two long gainers. I thought Aris and Sonny LaFargue played exceptional games. Also, our tight end Charlie Bradstreet caught two passes in the game, which is probably close to a school record for us."

That latter remark was a bit tongue-in-cheek for the veteran Saint skipper, but it is true that S.D. quarterback Don Hargett is averaging only five passes a contest this year, and has completed only 17 aerials all season.

However, the Saint signal caller hurt Northview last week with three completions, and could burn Agoura Friday night if the Charger defense keys on stopping the run.

"We don't plan to throw any more than we have," Baiz said. "Heck, when you are averaging close to nine yards a carry as a team you don't go away from the thing which has gotten you this far. But we will try to keep Agoura's defense honest."

Agoura finished in a tie for second in the Frontier League with Rio Mesa. Channel Islands won the Frontier title. Oddly, both Channel Islands and Rio Mesa beat Agoura this fall but both have already been ousted from the 2A playoff field.

Jail term faces Marvin Barnes

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Detroit Pistons forward Marvin Barnes has been given a one-year prison term for violating probation, but has two weeks to appeal the ruling to the Rhode Island Supreme Court.

Superior Court Judge Anthony Giannini found Tuesday that Barnes violated three years' probation given him in 1974 by carrying a concealed handgun at Detroit's Metropolitan Airport Oct. 9.

Giannini delayed sentencing to give defense attorney Alton Wiley time to explore an appeal, but the judge said he believed state law does not allow an appeal.

"I will be doing all that I can to keep Marvin out of jail," Wiley said after court proceedings had ended.

In losses to Channel Islands, Rio Mesa and Thousands Oaks earlier this year, the Chargers had trouble holding onto the football and were inconsistent at the quarterback spot.

That later problem has been solved with the play of junior QB Robin Gabriel. Gabriel is the son of former L.A. Ram star signal caller Roman Gabriel and has played well in running the Agoura wishbone attack. The younger Gabriel, like the Saints' Hargett, doesn't throw the ball much, as the Chargers are averaging only eight passes a game this season.

On defense, top Charger stars are defensive tackle Bob Odelgard, an imposing 6-5, 225-pounder, and linebacker Matt Loyd. Both are seniors.

The Saint defense is also solid, although the 19 points Northview put on the board last week was the most S.D. had allowed in a contest this year.

Leading the way has been Hacienda League defensive player of the year Sonny LaFargue, along with linebackers Doug Gates and Mike Nunley and defensive back Aris. Aris had two interceptions in the Northview game.

Sports briefs

HOUSTON (AP) — The eightman field has been completed for the $130,000 Grand Prix Masters Tennis Tournament, but such big names as Jimmy Connors, Ilie Nastase and Bjorn Borg are missing.

It became official Tuesday that Connors would miss the seven-day tournament which begins Sunday, although he had indicated three weeks ago he would not compete.

CHESTER, Pa. (AP) — Danny Murtaugh, who retired at the end of last season as manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, has been hospitalized with a stroke, believed serious.

He was taken by ambulance from his home in nearby Woodlyn Tuesday to Crozier-Chester Medical Center and placed in the intensive care unit.

MIAMI (AP) — Free safety Bryant Salter, acquired in a controversial trade that sent Jake Scott and a draft choice to the Washington Redskins, has been waived by the Miami Dolphins.

"He didn't fit into our plans," Coach Don Shula said Tuesday of Salter, a six-year National Football League veteran. "He's not signed for next year, and I haven't been pleased with his play."

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Australia's Evonne Goolagong beat South Africa's Linky Boshoff 6—0, 6—1 in her first match in a $100,000 international women's tennis tournament today.

MILWAUKEE (AP) — K.C. Jones, former Washington Bullets coach, signed as an assistant coach with the Milwaukee Bucks of the National Basketball Association Tuesday, the Bucks said.

Jones, who coached the Bullets for three years and also worked as an assistant with the Los Angeles Lakers, was expected to join the Bucks Tuesday night against Portland.

Recruiting bothers JCs

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

Discussion of the immediate eligibility of out-of-state players and the effect it is having on JC athletic programs was a subject discussed at the weekly basketball coaches luncheon Tuesday at The Castaway Restaurant.

"I really don't know if we're going in the right direction," said Mount San Antonio College's Gene Victor. "But you have to do it in order to keep up because it seems like everybody else is doing it."

Citrus' Neil Edwards agreed on some counts and disagreed on others.

"We only have six high schools to draw from as compared to 26 for MSAC," Edwards remarked, "so I would disagree on that point because the smaller schools need help in order to compete.

"On the other hand, it seems like you get more problems with out-of-staters. I don't have any this year. I had so many problems I had to get away from it for a year. But I don't know what the answer is either."

Out of state enrollees had to sit out a year before they were eligible to praticipate in athletics at California JCs under the former rules which also restricted enrollment to students from high schools within each JC's area.

In discussing their teams' play so far this season, none of the coaches present were pleased with the way things are going.

VICTOR — "We're not playing well. I'm glad it's Nov. 30 and not Dec. 30. If it was, we'd be in trouble. We're very undisciplined at this point. We have a long way to go.

"We're missing Angel Santiago (flu) but hope he'll be ready Friday night when we play San Bernadino Valley. In fact we have a lot of kids sick and I don't know who will start Friday night.

"I'm really disappointed so far. We have some talent, but we're not playing very well. However, we are a little quicker than we were last year."

EDWARDS — "Blocking out on the boards is the thing we've got to work on the most. Our biggest problem is our (lack of) size. Our front line is 6-4, 6-4 and 6-1 and both our guards are under six feet.

Annual Don Edwards Memorial Tournament starts Thursday. I think we have a good field. We do have eight JCs in it this year. You can't believe how much trouble it is getting eight JCs. Coaches agree to be in it and then when you send them the dates, they'll call and say they other games scheduled.

"The last couple of years, we've had to enter a jayvee team from a four-year school to complete the field. This year we have eight good JC teams.

"Cypress, Cerritos, Grossmont and Barstow are probably the top four. I'd have to rate Cypress the best and then Cerritos."

ART BIAS, LA VERNE — We had a rough week to start the season. We played at Chapman and the University of San Diego Friday and Saturday. Both were much bigger and physically stronger.

"We thought we would be bigger than the Chinese National team we played Sunday at home, but it turned out we were about the same size. But we didn't play the kind of ball we have to in order to win.

"Our lack of concentration is hurting us. And yet I think the players may be trying too hard to do what we want them to. They're not taking bad shots, but they're rushing them and are not in position to shoot. So the shots just aren't going in.

"If we continue to take the same shots, we'll shoot better. We haven't been playing good defense either. Some of our guys think playing defense is a time to rest. That's why we've been getting burned so easily. But I think we'll improve over our first three games."

U-M pairings set

Garey High and Alta Loma, the two finalists in last year's Upland-Montclair Basketball Tournament, may meet as early as the second round of next week's 17th annual edition of the tourney. Pairings were announced Tuesday night at a banquet at the Cask 'n Cleaver Restaurant in Cucamonga.

The Vikings, twice defending champions of the U-M classic, meet Azusa and the Braves meet Claremont in opening-round games Tuesday, with the winners of the two games squaring off Wednesday.

It's a Racquet

SOME MAY BE THE OUTSTANDING tennis players of tomorrow. But even by now, many of the 250 youngsters entered in the Claremont-Mudd Stags Invitational Boys Tennis Tournament have already established impressive success stories.

The tournament begins Saturday, continues Sunday then winds up the following weekend, all matches to be played at th Claremont Colleges and other courts around Claremont Tournament director Hank Krieger this week announced seedings for each of the four age divisions, a rich line-up of talent that includes a California champion and a former national titlist.

Top-rated in the 18-and-under division is Paul Bernstein, the Fullerton player who already has distinguished himself in this area by reaching the finals of last August's Glendora open singles tournament and sharing the doubles crown there. Bernstein has scored a couple of big triumphs lately, beating his conqueror at Glendora, Jeff Jones, in a junior event at Calabasas and upsetting Brigham Young all-American Mike Nissley at Santa Monica.

He'll have a stiff challenge at Claremont in second-seeded Skip Strode of El Cajon, who won the California 16-and-under title this summer at San Jose. Mark Novelo, Webb School student from Mexico, gives the local area strong representation in the seedings with his No. 3 ranking and Bill Moss of Malibu is No. 4.

In the 16-and-under competition, Seth Grinspan of Los Angeles leads the rankings ahead of No. 2 Ed McPherson of Bakersfield, No. 3 Tim Giller of La Mirada and No. 4 Mark Rifenbark of Pacific Palisades.

From their credentials, the 14-and-under seeds appear to be headed for an especially tough scrap. Top-seeded Mark Littrell of Oceanside won the championship for that age bracket at the recent Pasadena tournament, beating Chris Schoop of Pacific Palisades in the finals. Schoop is second-seeded at Claremont. He's won recent tournaments at Anaheim, where Littrell stumbled to another playier, and at Northridge.

San Diego's Aaron Zigman is seeded third and fourth on the list and is a former national titleholder, Jim Baumann of Phoenix, Ariz., who was 1975 12-and-under clay courts champ.

The 12-and-under favorites are first-seeded Jonathon Canter of Beverly Hills and No. 2 Otis Smith of Los Angeles.

Opening round matches will begin at 8 a.m. Saturday and play will continue through the day on all courts at the colleges. Some of the action will be assigned to Valley Racquet Club (from 8 to 10:30 a.m.) and Claremont Tennis Club (noon to 3:30 p.m.). Main tournament desk will be at the Claremont Men's College courts on Mills Avenue. Sunday's schedule also starts at 8 a.m. and various matches that day will be played at Cahuilla Park from 8 to 12:30.

THE SAN JOSE HILLS Racquet Club has another Foothill League championship. The club's Team A clinched first place for the fall season in its section of the league Sunday with an 8-3 conquest of Via Verde Country Club at San Dimas High. That gave the victors a perfect record of 5-0 as they duplicated their spring season title. Runner-up Via Verde finished at 4-1, both teams winding up the season with Sunday's encounter.

San Jose Hills picked up its winning points on singles victories by Rudy Figueroa, Brian Pearce, Lou de la Vega, Jeff Jensen and Helen Wang; and doubles wins by the men's tandems of Jensen-Al Pride and Reno Frigo-Chuck Reyes and the mixed pair of Jeannine Neuer and de la Vega.

OPEN SINGLES ACTION in the San Jose Hills club's big tournament is down to the quarter-finals stage, with the competition set to resume at 9 a.m. Saturday. Second-seeded Geoff Martinez has a round-of-eight contest against an unseeded but nevertheless prominent foe, actor Vince Van Patten, and Martinez' fellow Cal State Long Beach student, fourth-seeded Mark Andrews, confronts unranked Tanie Sie. The tournamenet lost half its top four when two UCLA entries, top-seeded Van Winitsky and third-seeded John Austin, dropped out.

In the women's event, first-seeded Alice Middleton led the advance to the quarters and next faces seventh-rated Lise Staddler. Roberta McCallum, seeded second, will battle a local area girl, Hacienda Heights' Valerie Cates, No. 6 in the ratings. And in another match of particular interest, fourth-seeded Linda Newby will test Thailand's No. 1 woman player, Ashora Moranin, who wasn't seeded in the tournament.

The open singles and major doubles matches will be played at the Mt. San Antonio College courts. According to the present schedule, semi-finals contests also will be completed Saturday and finals will come up Sunday.

Meanwhile, tournament officials are hoping to keep autograph hounds off Van Patten and Farrah Fawcett Majors. The actor-actress tandem drew a crowd of spectators to their first round mixed doubles victory last Sunday, then had to run the gantlet on leaving the courts.

A BIG TENNIS WEEKEND also is coming up in Las Vegas. Jimmy Connors, Ken Rosewall, Adriano Panatta and Eddie Dibbs will play round-robin matches Thursday through Sunday at the indoor pavilion at Caesars Palace. It's the first flight of the WCT-Caesars Palace Challenge Cup, worth $10,000 to the winner of each match and $50,000 to the flight champion under a winner-take-all format.

A second flight round-robin will involve Ilie Nastase, Rod Laver, Manuel Orantes and Harold Solomon Dec. 16-19. The flight winners will meet April 10 in a live TV match worth $100,000 to the champ.

Poly grapplers try Titans

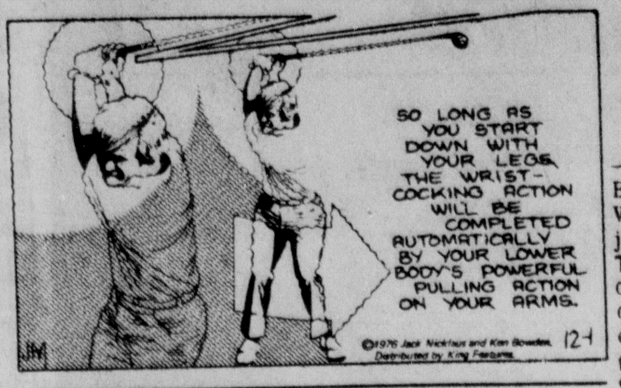

Cal Poly's wrestling team (2-0) will oppose Cal State Fullerton tonight at 7 p.m. at Fullerton.

The Bronco matmen have easily defeated their two previous opponents, Cal Luthern (41-5) and La Verne (60-0), in the first Poly match ever won by a perfect score.

Poly did not fare too well in last Saturday's all-day UNLV tournament in Las Vegas. No Poly wrestler came within a third place finish. As yet, the total team standings for the tourney have not yeet been released.

Hastings cagers enjoy trip

By TIM CLARK
PB Correspondent

Hastings College from Nebraska is having a ball out in Southern California. Dr. Lynn Farrell and his varsity basketball squad are a perfect 4-0 on the young season, with every victory coming against a California southland team.

"This was by far our worst game so far," sighed Dr. Farrell after watching his Broncos hold off winless (0-4) La Verne 76-66 Tuesday at the Supertent. "But we've been really pleased with our games up to now, especially with our wins over USIU and Pomona-Pitzer. We knew that there'd have to be a bad one sometime, so maybe we've gotten it out of the way."

In fact, Hastings only held a three-point advantage (33-30) at the half, playing the Leos's "game" by matching the hosts' efforts in shot percentage (38 percent to 36 percent), and fumbling the ball back and forth like a hot potato (13 turnovers to La Verne's 15).

After Art Bias' crew pounced to a 36-33 lead early in the second half, Farrell called his troups together to remind themselves that it would be quite embarrassing to lose to a team that had been bombed by the Republic of China (The Oriental's only win overseas.).

The Broncos then pulled together behind the deadly shooting eye of sophomore guard Doug Sweeney (18 points) and the overpowering inside muscle of junior Paul Bergman (19 points, 16 rebounds). Bergman, a behomoth of a man at 6-8 and 250 pounds, simply dwarfed the much lighter Leopards. La Verne center Ulysses Ruffin is a very good ballplayer (17 points, 13 rebounds), but when you're 6-6 and weigh ONLY 180 pounds, something has got to give.

What probably won the contest for Hastings was it's cool poise and faith in Farrell's offensive patterns. Whenever the Broncos needed a big bucket, they usually succeeded with a picture-perfect team play. Not so with the Leo's however. Too many times the team concept was thrown out the window, resulting in quite a number of one-on-one hot-dog shows, with the ball usually winding up in Hastings possesion.

"Oh yes, we're just having a ball out here," smiled Farrell.

Hastings will now travel to Redlands for the Bulldog invitational tournement that gets underway this weekend. La Verne will host Westmont Saturday night at the Supertent at 8 p.m.

Cagers begin season

Ganesha High will open the valley's prep basketball season with a home game this afternoon and eight other local squads will begin their seasons tonight.

The Giants were scheduled to begin local prep cage action with a 4:45 p.m. game against Dominguez at Ganesha.

Tonight's schedule finds two matchups between valley teams. Montclair will host Alta Loma and Damien will host Walnut, both at 7 p.m.

Pomona becomes the first local squad to see tournament action when the Red Devils meet host Canyon of Anaheim tonight at 7:30 in the Canyon Classic. That tourney will continue through Saturday.

Garey, San Dimas and Chaffey will all debut tonight with 8 p.m. road games. The Vikings will be at Muir, the Saints at Baldwin Park and the Tigers at Covina.

Chino and Webb will begin tournament action Thursday. The Cowboys will face host Helix of San Diego at 8:15 p.m. in the opening round of the Mt. Helix Invitational Basketball Tournament and Webb will play host Pasadena Poly at 7:30 p.m. in the Pasadena Poly Tournament.

San Dimas will host Bassett at 8 p.m. Thursday in a game that was originally set for Friday but was switched because of the Saints' CIF football playoff game Friday.

Among teams debuting Friday will be Claremont, Ontario, Upland, Bonita and Ontario Christian. Bonita will visit Temple City and Ontario Christian will play at Moreno Valley, both at 7:30 p.m.

Six games are scheduled for 8 p.m. Friday: Ontario at Montclair, Alta Loma at Upland, Rowland at Walnut, Claremont at Azusa, Ganesha at Daniel Murphy and Damien at Victor Valley.

Pomona, Chino and Webb will all continue tournament play through Saturday.

Panther cagers lose

Chaffey College lost its fourth basketball game in as many starts at East Los Angeles College Tuesday night.

Bob Jones scored 22 points and teammate Chris Smith added 14 to lead the victors past Chaffey, 84-53. LeRoy Fowler and Roger Gubichuk paced the Panthers with 12 points each.

The game was never close. East L.A. led 40-29 at the half and stretched the margin to 59-31 midway through the second half after the Panthers went five minutes without scoring a point. East L.A. is now 2-1.

Escalera keeps title—barely

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Puerto Rico's Alfredo Escalera retained his World Boxing Council junior lightweight title Tuesday night, but the split decision over Philadelphia's Tyrone Everett officially was protested to the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission.

Howard McCall, chairman of the commission, said he would hold a hearing to consider the protest from Everett's manager, Frank Gelb. McCall added, "Escalera is still champion as far as I am concerned."

McCall, however, did hold up Escalera's purse, a guaranteed $90,000 against 40 per cent of the gate, pending outcome of the hearing. The commissioner said the decision would not be overturned, but indicated the champion might be ordered to give Everett a return bout within 90 days.

Confusion reigned after the 15-round bout, when the ring announcer told the crowd the decision was not official, and that the commission would hold a hearing. McCall said he did not order the announcement, and that the verdict was official.

Gelb was particularly upset by the vote of judge Lou Tress of Philadelphia, who scored Escalera the winner, 145-143.

There were no knockdowns.

RACING HOUSEWIFE — Pomona's Opan O'Neil is shown in action at Corona Raceway. Mrs. O'Neil clinched the Powder Puff Division championship over Bev Arnold on the final event of the season. The two had waged a season-long battle and Mrs. Arnold had a slight lead going into the final race. Jack Twitchell of San Dimas won the Figure 8 championship.

Super Altereds to race at Orange County Raceway

EAST IRVINE — Sixteen of the most unpredictable and exciting drag racing machines ever to compete at Orange County International Raceway will be competing on Saturday night (December 4), as the Super Shops, Inc. present the first-ever Super Altered Invitational featuring nitro-burning AA/Fuel Altereds.

These high-powered, and sometime explosive, open-wheeled dinosaurs have provided some wild racing for the past decade, as the machines are the original nitro-burning cars of the early drag racing era. Most of the machines are replicas of 1920 and 1930 automobiles with gigantic 2000-horsepower engines planted in front of the driver.

Fuel Altered pilots from all over the West Coast will be looking for Top honors in the Super Altered Invitational, and leading the entries will be Super Shop's own "Super Nanook," piloted by Dave Hough of Higland. Hough has been the driver to beat in the Fuel Altered division this year with victories at Seattle, Fremont, Tucson, and Orange County.

However, Hough's competition will also be gunning for the top money led by current National Champion Jim West of Chandler, Ariz. West scored his biggest win of his career last September at Tucson in the Fuel Altered Nationals. West defeated Art McClaren of Buena Park in the final round to claim the national title. Other top entries include McClaren, who also captured the Irwindale "Fox Hunt" in May before 12,000 spectators, 1975 National champion Cal Jackson of Denver, Co. and Ed Moore of San Bernardino in the "Mob" roadster pickup.

Southland racing

IRWINDALE — Fun and grudge drag racing is slated at Irwindale Raceway tonight beginning at 5 p.m. E.T. bracket drag racing is offered Sunday starting at 1 p.m.

EAST IRVINE — Fun and grudge drag racing is scheduled tonight from 5 p.m. to 10 p.m. The first-ever Super Altered Invitational Championship will be held Saturday at 7 p.m.

ROSAMOND - Drivers of the California Sports Car Club wind up the 1976 season this weekend at Willow Springs Raceway with a series of regional races. Practice and qualifying will be held Saturday to determine the 50 fastest car for the seven regional events which will race Sunday beginning at 12:30 p.m.

Nerkowski wins honor

Steve Nerkowski, Chaffey College's Athlete of the Year in 1975-76, has been named Player of the Year in the Mission Conference by unanimous vote of the conference's water polo coaches.

Nerkowski, a sophomore from Fontana, led the Panther poolsters to a second-place finish in Mission action. The veteran swimmer topped Chaffey with 63 goals. He had 45 scores last year.

Joining Nerkowski on the all-Conference team were teammates John Pehl, a freshman from Upland, and Mark Lees, a freshman from Alta Loma.

NOTICE OF AGREEMENT TO PURCHASE LANDS DEEDED TO THE STATE FOR DELINQUENT TAXES
(Agreement No. 1764)

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN by the undersigned Tax Collector of the County of Los Angeles, State of California, in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 8, Part 6, Division 1 of the Revenue and Taxation Code and the written authorization of the State Controller, as follows:

That an Agreement has been made between the Board of Supervisors of the County of Los Angeles and CITY OF WALNUT and approved by the State Controller of the State of California, to sell to said CITY OF WALNUT under the terms set forth in said Agreement, all of the right, title and interest of the State in and to all of the real property hereinafter described, all of which said property has been deeded to the State for delinquent taxes. A copy of said Agreement is on file in the office of said Board of Supervisors.

That pursuant to said Agreement the undersigned Tax Collector may issue a tax deed to said CITY OF WALNUT 21 days after the first publication and the mailing of this notice, and the right of redemption will cease unless the property is redeemed before it is sold. For information as to the amount necessary to redeem, provided the right to redeem has not previously been terminated, apply to H. B. Alvord, Tax Collector, 225 North Hill Street, Los Angeles, California 90012. The real property covered by said Agreement is all in the County of Los Angeles, State of California, and is described as follows, to-wit:

Why should you take Parke-Davis Vitamin C?

Many doctors believe vitamin C is important to your health.

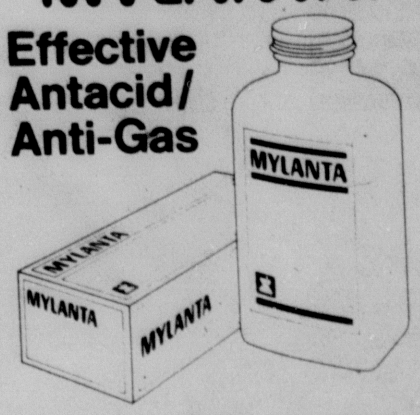

And Parke-Davis—maker of some of the finest pharmaceuticals in the world—makes its vitamin C with the same high standards it applies to other pharmaceutical products. Yet Parke-Davis Vitamin C is surprisingly low in cost.
